DRIFTED 158 HOURS AT MERCY OF OCEAN

(United Press.)

Three aviators who flew across the Atlantic Ocean from Lisbon, Portugal, to within 700 miles of Cape Race, Newfoundland, were rescued by the S. S. Belmoira yesterday after floating helpless for 158 hours on the wreckage of their Junkers monoplane.

The story of their miraculous rescue came by radio last night from Capt. Christian Hald, skipper of the Belmoira, a freighter which was en route to Russia at the time its crew espied the monoplane Esa bobbing on the surface of the Atlantic, off the Newfoundland coast.

By CAPT. CHRISTIAN HALD.

Aboard S. S. Belmoira, Sept. 21 (by radio to the United Press).—We picked up the wrecked transatlantic plane Esa and its crew in latitude 45.26, longitude 54.31 this afternoon.

The three aviators, Wilhelm Rody, Christian Johanssen and Fernando do Costa Veiga, were saved after they had been in the water 158 hours. Costa Veiga had an injured leg. The other two were in good condition, although they were much exhausted.

Johanssen says the plane failed to reach its detaination because of engine trouble about 30 minutes after signaling the S. S. Pennland last Monday afternoon. (The report from the Pennland was the last that had been heard of the Esa until Capt. Hald's message a week later.)

Ship Fails to See Signals.

The fliers said they had sighted only one ship during the intervening days they were adrift. It passed within 1 kilometer (about two-thirds of a mile), but did not see them despite their signals.

They had given up hope and did not expect our ship to see them, as they were several miles away when we passed.

The dramatic rescue yesterday of Willy Rody and his two flying mates of the Junkers monoplane Esa has no parallel in the history of aviation.

It calls to mind the flight of the late Commander John Rodgers and his crew of four men who attempted to reach Hawaii from San Francisco in 1925. They were in a flying boat. However, whereas Rody and his companions were in a land plane. Commander Rodgers and his crew reached shore after nine days at sea, having been forced down 450 miles off Honolulu.

In the case of Ruth Elder and George Haldeman, who flew from New York eastward in October, 1927, they were forced to alight on water in a land plane, but they came down alongside a ship and were rescued immediately. Their flight ended 350 miles from the Azores.

Kept Afloat by Fuel Tanks.

New York aviators consider it likely that the fuel tanks of the Esa kept the Junkers plane afloat for a week. The craft, a sister ship of the transatlantic plane Bremen, was of all-metal construction.

It was just one week ago Monday afternoon that word was flashed by radio from the Red Star liner Pennland that the Esa had circled that ship, then headed west toward Halifax. The Pennland sighted the plane about 80 miles off Cape Race. For a week not another word was heard from them. Since they had been sighted near land, it was thought

Tariff Body Plans Oil Costs Report

Production Report Expected to Be Finished by Time Congress Meets.

(Associated Press.)

The tariff commission intends to make a report on domestic and foreign oil production costs by the time congress convenes.

This prediction was made yesterday to a group of mid-continent oil producers by Chairman Fletcher of the commission.

The oil men, led by Thurman P. Hill, of the Kansas Public Service Commission, talked with Fletcher after laying before Secretary Lamont a program to bring world production under voluntary restriction agreement in line with one being worked out for the United States.

Their plan would prorate world output on the basis of actual 1928 production. The 1931 world figure was taken as 3,930,123 barrels daily of which the United States would turnout 2,455,276, including a withdrawal of 80,274.

Pupils at 2 Schools Sit on Floor or Lawn

While approximately 72,000 Washington children were ready for school yesterday, some of the schools were not ready for them.

Pupils returned home to report that in some instances they were forced to sit on floors of the newer schools because desks and chairs ordered in mid-July had not arrived; that in other cases there were not enough books to go around, and that some pupils are still to attend portable schols this year, despite promises of long standing that the crowded portables would soon be relegated to limbo.

The greatest stir was caused by the number of children who spent their opening day at school seated on old newspapers spread around the newly varnished floors at two schools, or in a more comfortable spot on the lawn. At one school the new heating plant was set up on the sidewalk for open air operation. The plant will probably remain outside the building until the end of October.

Some relief for the chair and desk situation is promised for today. Jere J. Crane, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of buildings, said that all of the children would at least have seats.

This will be accomplished through the work of Mr. Crane and some of his assistants, who worked late last night moving chairs from the auditoriums of several of the schools to the bare rooms at the newer structures.

Opinion on placing responsibility for the situation which caused several hundred children to receive their first day's instruction as they sat cross-legged, Japanese fashion, appeared to vary among the officials, but the consensus appeared to be that a ruling from Comptroller General J. R. McCarl's office caused the delay in getting desks here on time.

Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, said the matter was "a long story," but he "didn't care to go into it."

"The furniture has been on the way here for several days. The contract was held up by Comptroller General McCarl because the buildings were not ready to receive it. However, I don't care to be quoted on it in any way," he declared.

When asked how many portable

CONFESSION UPHELD IN TRIP BY CROWDER

Station Attendant Identifies Him; Gas Can Linked in Plot Is Found.

The confession of John M. Crowder in the alleged plot of Harry C. Wimbley against the lives of his wife and her entire family was substantiated in virtually every detail yesterday after a 360-mile tour through country adjacent to the home of Patrick Henry Tench, at Dendron, Va.

Outstanding developments of the case were:

Crowder amplified his confession to say that Wimbley, just before his wife and stepchild were drowned in the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal near the Dalecarlia Reservoir, said to him, "You know what you're here for? You are to upset that canoe." Crowder still insists the actual drownings were accidental. He said he was afraid to object to the plan because Wimbley was armed with a gun.

Capt. Edward J. Kelly and Detective Sergt. James F. Springman recovered the gasoline can in a Richmond filling station which Crowder admitted was the one to be used in the burning of the Tench home, in which Mr. and Mrs. Tench, their three small boys, and Mrs. Wimbley and her daughter, were sleeping.

Crowder was identified by filling station attendants as one of the men who rented the gasoline can on Tuesday and returned it the following day.

Members of the Tench family corroborated Crowder's statement that Wimbley came to Crowder's room after all had retired. It was on this visit, Crowder says, that Wimbley asked him if he was "going to go through" with the sand-bagging and burning plot.

While detectives were corroborating Crowder's confession, others delved into his insurance dealing and the suspicions that he has a fourth wife in Oklahoma. An application by him for a $4,000 straight life insurance policy on Mrs. Wimbley was uncovered by Detective Sgt. George Darnell.

In an application to a local insurance company filed on July 30, Wimbley is reported to have asked to buy "the limit" of insurance on his wife. The agent to whom Wimbly applied recognized his picture in the papers and came forward with information of the application.

Together with this development came information that Wimbley and a Census Bureau clerk, who is now in Hanna, Okla., had planned to be married in May. Oklahoma authorities have been asked to interview the woman to discover if the marriage ever took place.

Corroboration of other parts of Crowder's confession to exterminate the Tench family was given when Detective Sergt. Truscott located witnesses in the city who substantiated parts of the confession.

From a remark made by Mr. Tench detectives inferred that some overt act may have been made to carry out

UTILITY BODY PLANS TAXI RATE INQUIRY

Will Set Hearing Date Soon; Merchants' Letter Asks Fare Regulation.

Decision to inquire into the taxicab business in Washington was announced yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission.

Within a few days the commission will announce a formal public hearing to consider the question which has been agitated by various interests for months.

Demand that the commission fix taticab rates and closely regulate operation of taxicabs was made in a letter sent to the commission yesterday by the Merchants and Manufacturers Association.

Richmond B. Keech, people's counsel, and William A. Roberts, assistant corporation counsel specializing in utilities matters, also sought to have the commission hold a public hearing on the question, out of which they hope will come a code which will give greater control over the taxicab business.

The Merchants and Manufacturers' letter was based on sentiment of members of the association, which include representatives of the street car companies and the large taxicab operators, all of whom are determined in their opposition to the rates charged by the large number of independent operators of cabs in the District.

The plea of Keech and Roberts was prompted by the recent notice filed by a number of independent operators that they intended to cut down the zones within which they would carry passengers at the advertised 20-cent rate. Under the new schedule, filed with the commission last week, these operators would cut the area of their first zone in half or less. Thus, under the new schedule, it would cost 40 cents to go from downtown to anywhere near the limits of what was formerly their first zone.

Keech and Roberts believe there should be set up a system of rates which would be uniform for meterless cabs. The board of governors of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, whose sentiments were expressed in the letter made public by the association secretary, described the competition of the taxicabs as unfair to the street car and bus companies. Although the street car companies are operating on a 10-cent cash fare basis, obtained from the courts over the protest of the Utilities Commission, the association urged that the commission should fix rates and regulations governing taxicabs to eliminate the alleged unfair competition.

What the commission will do is subject to conjecture. The question of regulation of taxicabs has been under consideration for some time, having been initiated by one of the large taxicab companies which sought to have the commission use its authority to maintain the high rates then in effect, but which the independent operators and smaller groups were outting.

3 Prostrated as Mercury Climbs to 100 at Kiosk

Added to the usual miseries of returning to classes, school children yesterday, with the rest of Washington, suffered from a temperature of 100 degrees, registered at the Pennsylvania avenue kiosk, the highest since September 12. Three prostrations were reported, and 500 persons swam in the municipal pool in the Monument grounds.

The thermometer reached 100 at 3 o'clock and remained there until 4, when it dropped sharply to 96. The peak yesterday is 12 degrees above the average reported at the kiosk near The Post Building. The humidity was fairly high, giving rise to much discomfort.

In announcing the number of persons to use the Monument pool, authorities also said that hereafter the usual rules against mixed bathing will be relaxed as long as the hot weather continues. Formerly mixed crowds were allowed only from 6 to 8 in the morning, the remainder of the time being reserved for men and women on alternate days.

The three prostrations reported were those of Julia Johnson, colored, 76 years old, of 1619 Marion street, who collapsed on Seventh street near O street; Cleola Hainesworth, colored, 25, of 2722 Poplar street northwest, overcome at Twenty-sixth and G streets northwest, and William Harris, colored, 41, of 915 New Jersey avenue northwest, who was overcome at

CHINA REPORTS NEW FIGHTING IN MANCHURIA

LEAGUE TO CONSIDER PLEA FOR AID TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Echoes of the Chinese-Japanese clash in Manchuria were heard around the world yesterday as China appealed in Geneva for intervention by the League of Nations. Fresh fighting broke out last night at Peitaying, northern suburb of Mukden. Chinese forces were said to be attacking the town, which was the first point captured by the Japanese Saturday morning.

In Tokyo the cabinet met in extraordinary session, but adjourned without reaching a decision of the government's policy in Manchuria.

A nation-wide protest was made in China against Japanese military occupation of Manchurian cities and late at night government leaders were still meeting in special session.

The State Department in Washington held to its position that the situation failed to invoke the Kellogg-Briand pact renouncing war.

League Council Called.

The league's council was called in special session for today to consider the Chinese plea. Probable action, international observers pointed out, would be to invite the Japanese and Chinese to submit a full report of their views of the fighting between soldiers of the two nations.

The Chinese note of appeal, delivered by Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister to London, on behalf of the Nanking government, declared that a more serious situation than at first believed now exists at Mukden and other Manchurian centers taken over by the Japanese.

He reiterated a protest that this situation was created through no fault of the Chinese and called on the council, acting under article 11 of the league covenant, to take steps immediately to prevent further developments in the situation, to reestablish the status quo ante and to determine the amount of reparations due China.

The Chinese government gave its promise to conform to "whatever recommendations it may receive from the council."

Case Without Precedent.

The situation in Manchuria is without complete precedent so far as the league is concerned. In the case of a dispute between Bulgaria and Greece, the council was able to call on both powers to withdraw their troops to their own territories. The disturbance in Manchuria, however, is entirely on Chinese territory.

The council might ask the Japanese to withdraw to their position held prior to last week's action, and this, indeed, was asked in the Chinese petition.

The clash, which resulted in scores of deaths and Japanese occupation of several cities, followed charges by Japanese that Chinese had attempted to destroy a Japanese-owned railroad bridge. The Chinese retorted that Japanese had destroyed the bridge as a pretext to seize Manchurian territory in retaliation of the recent killing by Chinese of a Japanese officer.

Speed Plane Crash Kills 2; Pilot Lives

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Buckling in midair, the speed plane of James Goodwin Hall plunged plummet like to earth between two houses today, setting fire to both and killing Peter J. Brady, banker and labor leader, and a woman bystander.

Hall, who had been using the plane to further a campaign against prohibition, escaped death in a half-opened parachute. Brady, head of Mayor Walker's aviation committee, was trapped in the hurtling mass of molten metal and flaming fabric.

Doolittle Sets Record On Flight to Memphis

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—James Doolittle arrived at the municipal airport here at 2:05 p. m., C. S. T., today from New York in his tranacontinental record-breaking plane to take part in an aerial program arranged as part of the convention of the Ntional Exchange Clubs.

Doolittle took off from New York at 10:08 this morning E. S. T., and maintained a speed of 205 miles an hour against a 25-mile head wind. His time from New York, 4 hours and 57 minutes, set a record for a flight from that city to Memphis.

STOCKS IN U. S. ADVANCE AFTER BRITISH ACTION

ENEMIES IN COMMONS UNITE IN GOLD CRISIS

(Associated Press.)

New York financial markets stemmed the tide of unrest following the British financial crisis yesterday and the market surged vigorously, showing substantial gains in many issues.

The British shock went around the world, however and resulted in the closing of stock exchanges in many countries and nervous conditions in others.

The British Parliament last night rushed through the government's bill intended to meet the situation and to suspend the gold standard. The London Stock Exchange remained closed and it was announced it would continue closed today.

Philip Snowden, British chancellor of the exchequer, made a radio appeal to the nation last night to stand by the pound sterling and assured that the extent of its fall would be limited.

Called Hopeful Event.

J. P. Morgan, interviewed in his London office, termed the British government's action "a hopeful and not a discouraging event."

Bourses were closed in Berlin, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Oslo, Amsterdam, Brussels Johannesburg and Calcutta. Exchange transactions were closed on the Paris bourse. Greece deposed the pound as its monetary basis and substituted the dollar.

Sterling broke more than a dollar in New York, selling as low as $3.75 for cable transfers, the lowest level it has reached since the postwar emergencies.

The British public was taking the situation calmly, however, and going about its business much as usual.

Political differences between the government and opposition leaders were buried in the House of Commons to override the emergency, but a stiff Labor opposition developed.

Credit Exhausted.

Chancellor Snowden told the Commons that the United States and France, when informed Friday of the British situation, were "sympathetic" but could not extend more credit.

London, Sept. 12 (A.P.).—Unity for action in dealing with Great Britain's dramatic suspension of the gold standard, latest phase of the national crisis, was pledged today by the House of Commons as factional differences were submerged to meet the emergency.

Arthur Henderson, as leader of the opposition, declared that the Labor party would not obstruct the government's program and action on the "gold standard act of 1931" was rushed in Parliament.

It was three minutes of 11 o'clock

Sailors Pay Strike Inquiry Is Started

Men Orderly on Ships as Deputations Present Cut Objections.

Portsmouth, England, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Official committees of inquiry into sailors' pay grievances, which resulted in the recent "passive strike" in the British Navy, began interviewing bluejackets in the various ports today.

Deputations from each class of the Navy were received with one man of each deputation acting as spokesman and telling why he and his messmates objected to the pay cuts ordered in Great Britain's economy campaign.

Many deputations are to be received and the proceedings are expected to last for several days. Meanwhile the sailors are performing their duties aboard the ships in orderly fashion.

Wilkins Told to Bring Nautilus to U. S. Port

(Associated Press.)

Sir Hubert Wilkins has been informed by the Shipping Board that he must deliver his submarine Nautilus to a United States North Atlantic port.

Wilkins leased the discarded Navy craft through the Shipping Board for $1 a year. He had asked what must be done with the vessel after examination at Oslo led some to say it was too dilapidated to cross the Atlantic.

Operation Is Disclosed On Former Queen Marie

Bucharest, Roumania, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The carefully disguised secret that Dowager Queen Marie underwent a serious operation immediately after the marriage of her daughter, the Princess Ileana, last July, became public knowledge today.

The queen's symptoms were so threatening that the surgeons decided to operate at the royal family summer home at Sinaia, and an operating table and seventeen cases of surgical instruments were rushed there.

HOOVER WARNS LEGION TO OPPOSE ALL MOVES FOR HEAVIER EXPENSES

Bonus Mention Avoided; Crisis Is Likened to War Period.

BEER CHANT DRAWS PRESIDENT'S SMILE

(Staff Correspondent of The Post).

Detroit, Mich., Sept. 21.—President Hoover today called upon the American Legion to forego demands for full payment of the bonus with the plea that it would impair Federal financing of a prospective $3,000,000,00 deficit.

President Hoover told the World War veterans that the country was facing an emergency "second only to war." While it was not certain that the legion would respond to the President's plea to their patriotism, it appeared that the Chief Executive's dash to Detroit had headed off the demand for full payment of the bonus certificates. It is almost certain that the legion will take no action against the President's wishes at this convention.

Although Mr. Hoover did not mention prohibition, it was regarded as significant that as he climbed down from the platform, after his anti-bonus plea, Olympia Arena resounded with raucous cries for beer. It is virtually a certainty that the legion will take up the prohibition question, and the prospect is that there will be a vote on the question of legalizing beer and wine.

Applaud Three Minutes.

At any rate, President Hoover received an ovation today that appeared to be extremely gratifying to him as he strode upon the stage of the Olympia Arena, the legionnaires broke into noisy applause. They applauded the President for fully three minutes.

"During the past," the President said, "your national commander and the members of the legion's employment committee came to me and offered to the Nation the combined strength of your million men and your 10,000 posts to help in relief over the winter. I here accept that offer with the thanks of the Nation in the fine spirit in which it was submitted.

"But," continued the President, "there is today an even greater service to our country. That is the determined opposition by you to additional demands upon the Nation until we have won this war against world depression."

When the President made this statement, the veterans knew very well that he was referring to the agitation for further bonus loans. Those at the convention who are opposed to further loans—and they are quite numerous—applauded vigorously.

Other Projects Cited.

Continuing, the President said, "I am not speaking alone of veterans' legislation, which has been urged for action at this convention, but I am speaking equally of demands for every other project proposed in the country which would require increased Federal expenditure.

"It is an attitude and an action toward the whole field of Government expenditures that is before us. The first stone in the foundation of stability and recovery, both at home and in the world, is the stability of the Government of the United States.

"It is my purpose to maintain that stability, and I invite you to enlist in the fight.

"The country's need of this service is second only to war. I invite you to study the relation of the governmental finance to the daily welfare and security of every man, woman and child in the history of Europe during the past six months alone. * * * Nothing would give a greater glow of confidence to our country today than your enlistment and the vigorous support you can bring to this effort to prevent additional burdens upon your Government from any quarter whatsoever."

The visit of President Hoover here today overshadowed everything else. Ordinarily, an opening of an American Legion convention is a perfunctory thing. Celebrities are introduced, the bands whoop it up, the

High Spots in Hoover Address

"You would not have the President of the United States plead with any citizen or any group of citizens for any course of action. I make no plea to you. But you would have your President point out the path of service in this Nation. That I am doing now."

"The first stone in the foundations of stability and recovery, both at home and in the world, is the stability of the Government of the United States. It is my purpose to maintain that stability, and I invite you to enlist in that fight."

"* * * But there is today an even greater service to our country. That is the determined opposition by you to additional demands upon the Nation until we have won this war against world depression. I am not speaking of veterans' legislation which has been urged for action at this convention, but I am speaking equally of demands for every other project proposed in the country which would require increased Federal expenditure."

"We can carry our present expenditures without jeopardy to national stability. We can carry no more without grave risks."

"We must face the absolute fact that the rich can be taxed to the point of diminishing return, and still the deficit in our ordinary and necessary expenditures would not be covered even upon a basis of the utmost economy."

"Make no mistake; in these circumstances it is those who work in the fields, at the bench and desk who would be forced to carry an added burden for every added cent to our expenditures."

"With the guidance of the Almighty God, with the same faith, courage and self-sacrifice with which you, backed by the Nation, won victory fourteen years ago, so shall we win victory today."

8 REPORTED KILLED IN WISCONSIN WIND

Death Also Rides on Storms That Hit Oklahoma and Missouri.

Janesville, Wis., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—At least eight persons were reported killed tonight in a tornado which swept over a wide section north of here.

The tornado was reported to have struck at a point 4 miles north of Janesville, and swept northeastward to Egerton, Wis., about 20 miles away. Authorities said considerable damage was caused over an area of about 50 square miles.

Reports of the dead were first received by the Beloit Police Department, and later by Janesville authorities. Communication lines throughout the district were down.

Clinton, Okla., Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Three persons were killed in this section late today, victims of a severe electrical and rain storm.

Oscar Bond, 35, and Lemer Patterson, 18, were killed when a bolt of lightning struck the wheat granary where they were employed near Weatherford. Several others working with them escaped.

Fulton, Mo., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Two members of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, Missouri National Guard, were instantly killed when their plane crashed on the farm of Walter Duncan, four miles east of here, tonight. The victims were identified as Lieut. Chauncey G. Yoeman, the pilot, and Lieut. Philip P. Brennon, observer, both of St. Louis. The plane crashed after running into a severe storm.

Columbia, Mo., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—A windstorm of tornadoic force swept through the south part of Columbia tonight, injuring one University of Missouri student, causing damage estimated at more than $10,000 to university buildings, and disrupting telephone and electric light service.

LABOR UNION FLAYS U. S. PAY CUT PLAN

Proposed reductions in Federal pay rolls were vehemently opposed last night by Washington's Central Labor Union. Unanimously members went on record against all salary slashes, particularly in the ranks of Government workers, at a meeting in Typographical Temple.

The labor resolution, which precipitated a lengthy debate, followed Representative Will R. Wood's proposal that Federal salaries above $2,500 be reduced 10 per cent, and came on the heels of President Hoover's request for further economies in government.

Speakers cited the President's stand against wage reduction of any kind after the stock market crash two years ago, and recalled the American Federation of Labor's voluntary pledge not to seek salary boosts until business showed improvement.

Nelson P. Alifas, of the machinists' union, delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention in Vancouver, British Columbia, next month, was instructed to work for adoption of a similar resolution at the sessions of the federation.

Representative Wood, who last year opposed further increases in Government wages, made the proposal which led to the organized labor action.

"I'm willing to have mine reduced," he said, adding that those who are above the $2,500 class can afford the reduction. Referring to the suggestion of Representative Allen T. Treadway, Massachusetts, that Congress members receive a salary cut from $10,000 to $8,000, Mr. Wood declared he thought a 10 per cent reduction would be sufficient.

The Army's forthcoming budget will omit all requests for increased pay for officers, it was announced by the department, and "the Army will not press claims which are not included in the program of its commander in chief, the President."

Cattle Test Resisters Mob Agents; Iowa Calls Troops

1,500 to 2,000 Soldiers Mobilizing to Force Farmers to Yield to Law; Veterinarians and Sheriffs' Deputies Attacked by 200 Men.

Des Moines, Iowa, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Orders were issued tonight by Adjt. Gen. W. H. Bailey for the mobilization of between 1,500 and 2,000 troops, who will be sent to Cedar County where farmers today again resisted veterinarians' attempts to test cattle.

The adjutant general's action came after a sheriff's force of 65 men which today was prevented by a band of more than 200 aroused farmers from testing cattle at the farm of Jacob Lenker, near Tipton, Iowa.

The farmers threw mud on the deputies' automobiles and smashed the windows of two cars before the force returned to Tipton, without attempting to round up cattle for testing.

Gen. Bailey said the troops were mobilizing tonight and would start for Tipton, seat of Cedar County, tomorrow on special trains.

The fight of the objectors against the tuberculin test has flared intermittently since the middle of last March. At that time the objectors refused to permit the testing of cattle at the E. C. Mitchell farm and on several occasions gathered in force to prevent tests from being made.

A month later Gov. Dan Turner made a hurried trip to Iowa City to confer with the objectors following another outbreak. They failed to come to a definite agreement.

On several occasions since then trouble resulted when State veterinarians renewed their attempts.

On August 5 Judge F. O. Ellison issued an injunction restraining the farmers from interfering with the tests. On August 21 the veterinarians were repulsed in attempts to test cattle at the farms of Arthur Fogg, Will-

CANADIAN DOLLARS JOIN POUND IN FALL

Dominion Repeats Policy to Retain Gold Standard as Sterling Is Revalued.

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The Canadian dollar dipped sharply today in sympathy with sterling, although this currency is independent of sterling, and Canadian officials assert that there is no intention of abandoning its gold basis. This dollar was quoted as low as 93 cents in terms of the American dollar, the lowest since the war, and off 4½ cents from Saturday. The French franc was unchanged, and the Italian lira and Holland guilder were moderately lower. Leading banks were not quoting rates on other currencies.

The British lapse from the gold standard means, bankers explained, that the British pound is no longer convertible into gold at the rate of 112.9 grains of pure gold for each pound sterling, or sovereign, as the principal unit of British currency is sometimes known, while the American dollar remains convertible at the Federal Reserve at its fixed rate of 23.22 grains of pure gold per dollar. The gold ratio between the two currencies is thus destroyed.

Now that the British pound is no longer maintained at the value of 112.9 grains of pure gold, bankers explain it must seek its own level in the foreign exchange markets, which will be a level which will tend to balance England's outgoing and incoming payments. England has had a large excess of outgoing payments, and with insufficient incoming payments to balance them, the difference has been made up by exports of gold and obtaining credits abroad.

What Will Happen.

What will happen now is that the value of sterling will decline, decreasing British purchasing power abroad and consequently decreasing the volume of outgoing payments, while at the same time the purchasing power of foreign currencies in terms of pound will increase so that purchases of British goods by foreigners will presumably increase. Eventually a balance should be achieved. When such a balance has been achieved it is possible the pound may be made redeemable in gold once more, at whatever level the currency has reached a position of comparative stability.

In considering the effects upon world trade, it is clear that England will be better prepared to hurdle tariff barricks and sell her goods abroad, in competition with American and other merchandise, while at the same time England will find it more difficult to purchase merchandise abroad, so that she may become a smaller buyer of the world's goods.

The effect upon commodity prices is highly problematical. It is conceivable that the falling value of the pound may give British industry sufficient impetus to increase her purchases of raw materials, such as cotton, to produce her manufactured exports, and that prices of such materials may rise. On the other hand, increased sales of British goods abroad may take markets from other manufacturers so that their purchases of raw materials will be curtailed, leaving the ultimate demand unchanged.

Silver Is Benefited.

At least one commodity, one of the most important ones economically, has been stimulated by the lapse from the gold basis, and that is silver. One of the chief depressants to that metal has been sales of silver by India as it was transferred to a gold basis. India now is suspending gold payments along with England. Silver in the New York market advanced 1½ cents an ounce today.

Prices of commodities whose prices are set in the world-wide markets will presumably rise in England, as the value of the pound declines, but this will be likely only to compensate for the declining value of the currency and probably this factor alone will not tend to increase the value of commodities in terms of other currencies such as dollars.

Mexico City, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The suspension of the gold standard in England strengthened the silver peso today in relation to the dollar. Dollars were quoted at 3.05 pesos yesterday and today it was difficult to obtain 3 to 1, while some banks quoted a price of 2.90.

Mexico ruled gold entirely out of circulation last July, and while a theoretical gold standard prevails, all business is done in silver.

IOWA CALLS TROOPS IN CATTLE TEST WAR

iam Butterbrodt and William R. Hogan.

They were cited for contempt and Fogg pleaded guilty and was fined $50. The others pleaded not guilty and were released on $800 bonds. Their cases are pending.

The fight had been carried on in courts and in the State Legislature. An attempt to obtain repeal of the compulsory test law failed in the last General Assembly. Several times test suits instituted in various courts have been carried to the State Supreme Court, which in every instance upheld the validity of the law. One attempt to carry it to the Supreme Court was dismissed when that body held that it did not constitute a Federal question.

(Associated Press.)

Gov. Turner of Iowa said last night he would return to Des Moines today to wage an unrelenting campaign against opponents of the State's cattle tuberculin testing law.

Nome Entertains Moyle And Allen on Way to U.S

Nome, Alaska, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—This little town on the coast of the Bering Sea, the "aviation terminal of the North," today entertained Don Moyle and C. A. Allen, California aviators, who arrived here yesterday on the second leg of what was planned as a nonstop flight from Japan to Seattle.

Washington U. Student Is Found Dead by Gun

St. Louis, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Francis H. Hardaway, jr., 18-year-old Washington University student, was found dead in the basement of his grandmother's home here today with a bullet wound in his right temple, and revolver beside him. His family said he killed himself accidentally.

Hardaway was the son of Maj. Francis H. Hardaway, of Fort Randolph, Canal Zone, and had come from Panama yesterday to enroll at the university.

Britain Has Gold Aplenty But Just Try to Get It

By JOHN J. DALY

A stop-loss signal to retard the flight of the precious metal changes the name of the old gentleman to John Bullion.

From now on, any one who wants to talk money with England must speak in terms of Bullion.

Gold, ever since its discovery, has kept the world on the qui vive. It has been man's chief concern since the early worship of the golden calf.

Mammon, which wins its way over all competitors, has made America what it is today—with almost half the world's supply of gold in its vaults, and more gold in them thar hills.

Gold must be bought with what? What can buy gold but gold? That's what John Bullion wants to know.

* * * *

If you buy gold with gold you must sell gold to buy gold, and since John Bullion will not let his people sell gold, ostensibly, they can not buy gold. So they are back where they started from—the gold basis pulled out from under them.

* * * *

IT is, of course, a problem for the political economists—and jewelers.

There is gold in England, and plenty of it, if only the bankers start looking around for it—gold in the picture frames of the National Gallery; gold in the crown that sits so uneasily on the king's head; gold teeth in the House of Commons, and gold-headed canes in the House of Lords; gold chains spread over the massive vests of the barons; gold stomachers on the ladies-in-waiting.

From the cradle to the grave, men crave gold. The steps of mankind along the route are marked by gold standards. The old bachelor sips golden fizzes at the golden weddings of his happily married friends.

Gold, gold, gold, all the way from the golden rattles given the royal babies in the cradles to the golden slippers we all hope to wear as we climb the golden stairs where all God's chillun got golden wings.

* * * *

WHEN Caesar returned to Rome, gold was worth only eight times as much in value as the next precious metal. Something, said the great Julius, is rotten in Denmark. He pointed out that in ancient Egypt gold was worth fourteen times as much as silver, while in Greece it had a ratio of 10 to 1. He set about fixing a higher gold standard, and since that time the relative value of gold has been more or less steadily increasing, hitting a 16 to 1 ratio in the days of Bryan.

John Bullion now takes up where Caesar left off, and there will be another rise in values. More gold, more bullion for old John, and all will be well in the empire.

The return of gold, and the glorious glow of golden opportunities, will shine again over John Bullion's domain, over which the golden sun never sets. But for the time being, John will not redeem the pound sterling in gold.

U. S. STOCK MARKET RISES AFTER BRITISH GOLD ACTION

when the bill passed its final stage. Eleven o'clock is the time fixed by rule for automatic adjournment of the House. It required two minutes in the House of Lords to give the bill three readings and pass it, and immediately after this members of the Commons were summoned to the House of Lords to hear the bill receive royal assent.

In spite of Henderson's pledge it was submitted to several attacks in the Commons from Labor backbenchers and there were many complaints of "gag rule."

There was no division on the final vote but the successive closure motions were carried by majorities of approximately 100.

Once more the bloodless, sharp-featured face and crippled figure of Chancellor of the Budget Philip Snowden was the center of attention in an eager and expectant assembly of the House of Commons.

Packed tightly on the inadequate benches, the members overflowed into the aisles and the galleries were filled.

The Prince of Wales, with a coat of golden sun-tan from the South of France, looked down on the cockpit of the nation's politics.

Outside Westminster the ordinary man and woman, hundreds of thousands of them, went about their daily work and play, understanding little of the problems of high finance and the intricacies of foreign exchange which called for an epochal decision of the MacDonald government. Lives were lived as usual, and in this the people were unconsciously following the wishes of the government, whose view it is that the man in the street will not be affected seriously by the latest developments in the British and world financial situation.

"We can face the situation with calmness," he said. "The ultimate resources of this country are great."

Commons Applauds.

The Commons roared with applause. The chancellor had arisen to speak from a place between Prime Minister MacDonald and Stanley Baldwin, Conservative leader. MacDonald's tousled iron-gray hair, instead of his usual well-groomed appearance, indicated what a busy week-end he had had.

The chancellor went on to unfold the latest phase of the country's national drama which caused the government to suspend the gold standard. Only Saturday night, he said, the word came from the Bank of England that the recent huge credits extended to Great Britain by France and the United States were exhausted.

"Unfortunately we could not present a united front," he said, referring to the government's position and the Labor opposition. "The news of unrest in the navy was published with great headlines in every foreign newspaper."

The further credit, he said, did not prove sufficient to stem the drain of Great Britain's gold. "Last Wednesday it was £5,000,000," he said, "on Friday it was nearly £10,000,000, and on Saturday, a half-holiday, it was over £10,000,000. During the last two months more than £200,000,000 (about $1,000,000,000) was withdrawn from Great Britain, and, besides that, £70,000,000 were locked up in Germany."

When informed of Great Britain's position on Friday, he said, France and the United States were sympathetic, but could not extend more credits and the suspension of the gold standard was the only way the situation could be met.

He requested the Commons to rush the government's bill through all stages. "I do this with no light heart," he said. "Our action no doubt will have wide repercussions and will increase dislocation and instability for the time being in international trade, but at the same time there is no need to exaggerate the difficulty.

"Apart from a temporary panic, and sales under a temporary panic, which may of course have to be reckoned with, I see no reason why the pound sterling should depreciate to any substantial extent, or for any length of time, provided—and this is vital—that the finances of our country are administered with proper care.

"We must get together as a nation and set to work to build up prosperity anew. It is the duty of everyone to keep cool and not to aggravate the situation by a panic. If we do this our inherent strength will pull us through these temporary emergencies."

Single Line of Attack.

Opposition in the Commons confined itself largely to a single line of attack. "We were told that the national government was necessary to maintain the gold standard," Labor members said, "and that the country must accept a drastic budget, including cuts in the dole and in the pay of the army, navy, teachers and police.

"Now the country has gone off the gold standard. What therefore, was the use of the national government and where was the need for the budget with its cut in the dole and its pay cuts?"

In reviewing Great Britain's financial record, Chancellor Snowden said other countries could not afford to challenge or condemn. "Regarding the United States," he said, "we exported to America during and immediately after the war gold valued at £322,000,000 (approximately $1,600,000,000) in discharge of our obligations. Then we proceeded to fund our war debt to the United States, and under the basis of that settlement we have paid $1,352,000,000, representing 30 per cent of the debt on the date of funding.

War Debt Payments.

"Although the British debt to the United States represents only 41 per cent of the total war debts owing that country, our payments to the United States represents 83 per cent of the total payments America has received in war debts."

The chancellor then reviewed Great Britain's financial relations with France. "America and France," he said, "taken together, have now acquired three-quarters of the entire stock of gold of the world. They have buried it in their vaults, where it is sterilized and useless for the purpose of promoting international trade.

"We should not overlook, however, the help we receive from France and America. The credits we could have raised would have little more than disguised the symptoms. They could do nothing to remedy the disease."

MORGAN SEES HOPE IN BRITAIN'S MOVE

Financier Says Gold Change Will Restore Trade in United Kingdom.

By DEWITT MACKENZIE.

(Copyright, 1931, by the Associated Press.)

London, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—J. P. Morgan broke his almost ironclad rule against talking for publication today to say that England's latest move to solve her financial difficulties seemed to him to be not a discouraging, but a hopeful event.

While most of the world was excited upon learning that overnight Great Britain had decided temporarily to suspend her gold standard, the financier received a correspondent in his private office here and expressed his optimism.

"This step seems to me," he said, "to be the second necessary stage in the work of the national government, the first being the balancing of the budget. The completion of the government's work will be the restoration of trade in this country.

Event Called Hopeful.

"This being the case, it seems to me to be a hopeful and not a discouraging event, and one which brings the great work of the government much nearer to accomplishment."

The statement was solicited from the banker and was not volunteered by him. He discussed the financial situation for upward of an hour, and the correspondent left with an impression that while Mr. Morgan did not discount the seriousness of Great Britain's predicament, he was convinced that she would win through.

The interview took place in the financier's private office in the London headquarters of Morgan, Grenfell & Co., which nestles at the end of the tiny cul-de-sac called Great Winchester street, near the Bank of England.

Room Cozy With Fire.

Mr. Morgan's room was cozy with its blazing open fire, but wholly unostentatious. A fine walnut wainscoting and furniture of the same wood gave a touch of richness to the room, but the only item which spoke of opulence was a box of his famous special cigars.

Throughout the interview Mr. Morgan kept flashing a friendly smile. It tempted one to follow the lead of his close friends and call him "Jack."

There is nothing pompous about Morgan. On the contrary he gave the impression of being a rather retiring individual who is afraid he may bore his guests by talking too much.

Capone Men Taken In Murder Attempt

Armed Gunmen Arrested in Chase as Shots Fail to Strike Victim.

Chicago, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Two notorious henchmen of Scarface Al Capone were arrested today shortly after they had blazed away with automatic pistols at an intended victim as he rode from Michigan boulevard into the outer Lake Shore Drive on Monroe street just north of the Art Institute.

The gangsters were Sam Hunt, long known as a gunner for the Capone gang, and James Forsythe, alias Fawcett. They were armed when park police chased them on foot and arrested them.

Despite the firing of several shots at the busy intersection where downtown boulevard traffic pours out to the south bound Lakeside thoroughfare, no one was injured.

Daily Life of British Unaffected by Crisis

London, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—While Great Britain's government leaders were combating the financial crisis today the public went about its normal daily life unaffected.

The football season has opened with great enthusiasm and for every Briton who worried about what might happen to international finance there appeared to be half a dozen who anxiously asked why the highly paid footballers of the famous Chelsea Team seem unable to win a single match.

Theaters are having one of the best autumn seasons in many years and a dozen popular successes are playing nightly to full houses. Horse racing, greyhound racing and athletic meetings are extensively patronized.

FLANDIN APPROVES CHANGE IN STERLING

French Finance Minister Sees Good in Move; Berlin Shocked by Crisis.

Paris, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Finance Minister Flandin, of France, struck a hopeful note for Great Britain in her financial crisis in a communique tonight, reassuring the French people that the bottom had not fallen out of the world because of the condition of the British pound sterling.

His statement ended a day of uncertainty during which the Paris Bourse kept its doors open, although other continental markets were closed. If conditions remained the same, the minister of finance said, the bourse would stay open. He said that personally he expected to return to Geneva tomorrow night.

The French government feels the British have taken the necessary steps to reestablish the pound, he explained, and the French government did all possible today to demonstrate that the world markets were resistant enough to sustain sterling.

Little Trading in Pounds.

There was little trading in sterling in France today and some holders of pounds were unable to cash them. When the exchange was made, it was sometimes at a rate as low as 100 francs, rising to 113 francs, whereas the pound closed Friday at 123 francs.

Foreign exchange dealings were suspended on the bourse, hence sterling was not officially listed. Tourist centers, such as Nice and the channel ports, were affected, ordinary money exchange bureaus closing for want of a quotation.

Berlin, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Great Britain's financial crisis, on top of the difficulties with her navy, has produced a strong psychological effect on Germany, where British imperial prestige has been proverbial as a mainstay of civilization.

The direct effects of the crisis are not so disastrous to Germany, since she is not a creditor nation to Great Britain and so long as the "freezing arrangement" holds she is believed to be safe from withdrawal of credits.

Benefit of Bourse Closings.

Even the closing of the bourses had the good point that further fluctuation of foreign exchange resulting from realizations by foreign sellers was automatically halted.

It was asserted in several quarters today that the "curse of reparations" is at the bottom of the present disturbance and that necessity for revision has become immediate and imperative.

BRITISH GOLD ACTION FAILS TO ALARM U. S.

(Associated Press.)

A calm watchfulness for the results which will attend Great Britain's temporary suspension of the gold standard is apparent in Washington.

No alarm is felt as to the effect on the United States. Expressions in Treasury quarters yesterday were to the contrary. It was pointed out England has been on a gold basis for only six of the last seventeen years.

Secretary Mellon and Undersecretary Mills of the Treasury, both were out of the city.

While not deprecating the situation in the British Isles that resulted in the drastic action, the feeling among Government officials and members of Congress generally was that it would result in a stimulation of business for the empire.

The raising of the rediscount rate from 4½ to 6 per cent was viewed as a step to attract foreign business and money, and was considered by some as a move to inflate British money.

Government experts suggested that abandonment of the gold standard at this time would not result in as dire an effect as the action would have during a period of prosperity. As far as the United States is concerned, they noted that the American stock markets were affected only slightly.

May Attract Reserves.

With Great Britain's gold supply the lowest in years following a drain of about $1,000,000,000 in recent months, suspension of the gold standard is expected to result in keeping the supply intact and in attracting reserves from South Africa.

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, expressed confidence that the character of the English people would go far toward rebuilding the monetary system of the empire. He said that more difficult situations had been weathered by the British.

Great Britain's action brought predictions in some quarters of better days for silver, which has been in a severe slump for several years. Some senators believed it would clear the path for an international conference on the silver question and others saw encouragement for a movement toward bimetallism.

Government financial experts declined to comment publicly, but some of them privately expressed the view that Britain's action could not help the silver market. They said silver would not benefit unless England adopted bimetallism, which they regarded as more than doubtful.

Double Monetary Standard.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, said Great Britain's abandonment of the gold standard would give "tremendous impetus" to a movement which he said was already under way all over this country to get back to the double monetary standard. He favors the double standard.

The prediction that many countries now on either a nominal or actual gold basis would be affected was made by Senator Hull (Democrat), Tennessee. As a result, he said, the "world may experience a period of artificial inflation."

"This also," Hull continued, "means dislocation of national exchanges. Naturally there will be a great deal of liquidation following in its wake."

Representative Wood (Republican), Indiana, said, "What England has done shows she has been unfair in her representations to us about her economic condition."

Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa, said he thought England's action was "the beginning of the end of the gold standard in the whole world." He advocated fixing the dollar's value at a fraction of the national wealth and making it redeemable by any commodity at its market value.

Hopes for Aid in India.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, said he was hopeful that the British move would result in the rehabilitation of silver, and that it would in turn help India.

Representative Kelly (Republican), Pennsylvania, predicted the silver question would be brought before the next Congress with a view to stabilization of the metal.

The Commerce Department heard from its London office that Great Britain's move was likely to aid materially the trading position of that country, at least for a period.

Since the pound will be cheaper, Great Britain will relatively be a better market to buy in, while conversely it will be a poorer market to sell in. Just how long this circumstance will prevail was difficult to say, the dispatch continued, but opinion was freely expressed in financial circles of England that it would be much longer than the six months mentioned in the London press.

U. S. Adopted Gold as Basis For Money System in 1900

Silver Served as Standard in First Years of Republic; Both Metals Used in Changing Systems Through Last Century.

(Associated Press.)

The gold standard, brought to the fore yesterday by Great Britain's temporary suspension of its use, is the basis of the monetary system of the United States, adopted in 1900, after the hectic free silver campaigns.

In effect, it means that the Government guarantees that goods, products and services may be exchanged for gold or gold equivalent. In this country the unit of value is fixed at a gold dollar, which the law defines as 25.8 grains of gold 0.900 fine, equal to 23.2 grains of pure gold. The Government has dollar for dollar in gold or eligible paper for all currency in circulation.

Adoption of the standard followed various systems in use since 1786. That year Congress adopted a silver standard and defined the unit as a silver dollar of 375.64 grains of pure silver. In 1792 two units were adopted, one of gold containing 24.75 grains of pure gold and a silver dollar containing 371.25 grains of pure silver. The ratio of gold to silver was 1 to 15, and both were legal tender.

Various changes were made in the ratios until the gold standard was abandoned during the Civil War. Congress in 1873 adopted a gold standard making the gold dollar the unit of value with 25.8 grains of gold 0.900 fine.

In 1878, Congress provided silver dollars should be legal tender. The act of 1900 establishing the gold standard also provided that nothing in the act should affect the legal tender quality of the silver dollar or other Federal money.

The law now guarantees that all currency or checks issued by the Government or any bank will be paid in gold upon demand of the person holding the currency or checks. Silver certificates are redeemable in silver. Gold, because of its weight, is not much in demand in every day business transactions.

Gold certificates issued by the Treasury are passed out only for their equivalent in gold—that is when a gold certificate for $10 is paid out by the Treasury $10 in gold must be received for it so that back of the outstanding gold certificates amounting ot $1,700,000,000 the Treasury holds gold dollar for dollar.

National bank notes must be secured by their equivalent in Government bonds deposited with the Treasury, so that back of the $698,505,000 in such currency the Government holds in its Treasury that amount of its own bonds deposited by the banks.

United States notes, known as "greenbacks," are secured with gold dollar for dollar, held by the Treasury.

Since adoption of the Federal Reserve act, the far most important currency is Federal Reserve notes. The law requires that when Federal Reserve Banks issue currency they must have a reserve of 40 per cent of the amount in gold and 60 per cent in eligible securities or gold so that these notes are secured dollar for dollar before they reach the public.

The Reserve Banks, however, have nearly twice as much gold deposited with the Treasury to guarantee their currency as required by law. For $2,400,000,000 in currency the Treasury holds $1,890,000,000 in gold for the Federal Reserve Banks.

With a currency system backed dollar for dollar by gold or its equivalent, the Treasury holds $3,797,000,000 in the precious metal. On its own account, besides that held against currency, the Treasury has $54,003,000 in what is known as "free gold"—that is, gold in its general fund which could be spent if necessity arose. Another $50,000,000 is owned by the Government.

How ice plays a triple role

"To make a glass of drinking water really cold," a psychologist confided to us, "you need two things, ice—and psychology." "Why not just ice?" we asked. "That's simple," he replied. "You can chill water by simply running it through refrigerated coils. But the psychology comes in knowing—and you'll observe that smart restaurants and gifted hostesses have learned it—that to have sparkling chipped ice tinkling and clinking about in the glass is what really does the trick. Why? Because the chilled water speaks, in a lack-luster way, to the palate alone, whereas the water with cracked ice in it has a cheery message of coolness for three of our senses—our sight and our hearing as well as our taste. For don't forget, when we're thirsty, we're not just thirsty, with our mouths—we're thirsty clear through."

Man Who Boarded Death Boat Sought

Police Call Visitor Vital Factor in Death of Collings.

Huntington, Long Island, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—District Attorney Alexander G. Blue, in charge of the Collings murder case investigation, said today that he and Felix Di Martini, noted detective who has been hired to unravel the case, have obtained information that a man visited the cruiser Penguin a few hours before Benjamin P. Collings was murdered and thrown into Long Island Sound.

Blue declined to reveal the source of this information, but indicated that both he and Di Martini attach considerable significance to it.

Di Martini, former "ace" detective of the New York police force, left for Stamford, Conn., to question Mrs. Collings on this point late today. Blue said that Mrs. Collings has consented to an interview with the detective.

Woodcock Boasts Of August Record

(Associated Press.)

The recent addition of 500 new agents to the prohibition enforcement service was said yesterday by Amos W. W. Woodcock to have "certainly justified the increased cost."

The prohibition director said August was "the most productive" month in the history of the bureau. He added that dry agents had presented 1,800 more cases to Federal Courts last month than in the same period a year ago and 800 more cases to the State courts.

Woodcock said an investigation had been completed of charges by Representative Karch (Democrat), Illinois, that prohibition was being enforced illegally in the Eastern Illinois district. No action will be taken, however, until Karch presents additional data.

MOTHER IDENTIFIES 'BETTY' IN KANE CASE

New Jersey Woman Speaks as Testimony Reveals Urgings to Slay.

Hampton, Va., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Testimony that Elisha Kent Kane 3d, charged with the drowning of his wife, Jenny Graham Kane, had been urged to get rid of his wife by a woman named "Betty" was given by Mrs. W. C. Graham, mother of the drowned woman, at the coroner's inquest last week, it was disclosed tonight by the Elizabeth City county clerk of courts.

In her testimony, which was not made public until the report of Coroner George K. Vanderslice was filed today with the county clerk, Mrs. Graham told of reading letters written by the woman named "Betty," who today was identified by her mother, Mrs. Phoebe Harris, as Mrs. Elizabeth H. Dahl, of New York. Mrs. Graham said the woman asked Kane to "get rid of Jenny" and go away with her to "Spain or some country and live together."

Both Mrs. Graham and her husband testified that their daughter had been threatened by Kane, a professor at the University of Tennessee, and that she at times had feared for her life.

Testimony Caused Indictment.

Mrs. Graham said she knew nothing of the woman "Betty," except that she had lived in New York and that her surname was "something like Dodd."

The testimony at the inquest led Coroner Vanderslice to return a verdict that Mrs. Kane was drowned by her husband in premeditated murder. The drowning occurred on a beach near here.

Details of the drowning, which he said he learned from Kane, were given by Mr. Graham. "I was teaching her to dive," Kane was quoted as saying, "and I was off on the shore. She dived and came up screaming and struggling, and before I got to her she had gone down twice. I got hold of her hair and swam out of the water with her."

Hearing Is Wednesday.

With the testimony filed tonight the eight attorneys in the case, including Commonwealth's Attorney Roland D. Cocke, who swore out the warrant for arrest a few hours after the burial, were preparing for the preliminary hearing in a county justice court Wednesday morning.

Prof. Kane, released from jail Saturday under $15,000 bond, today was attending to matters of business in Hampton, visiting banks and other places of business.

Among other things he was attending to was the whereabouts of the police dog, "Hobo," to which his wife was devoted. Prof. Kane said he had been unable to locate the dog since his arrest, and was eager to find the pet, which always rode in the rumble seat of his car, and was there when he rushed his wife to the hospital following the tragedy.

TELEVISION AT HAND, SARNOFF DECLARES

R. C. A. Head Reviews 100 Years of Electricity as Radio Show Opens.

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The world is "on the threshold of television," David Sarnoff said tonight in an address opening the eighth annual radio-electrical world's fair.

In an address to the show visitors as well as to listeners of a WJZ-NBC network, the president of RCA asserted that the day "is not distant when sight will be transmitted through the air in large numbers."

In reviewing 100 years of electrical development, he paid tribute to Faraday, Henry, Edison, Marconi and many others.

"I cannot believe that any of us who work in radio look toward the future with any semblance of despair," he said. "If the forces unloosened by Faraday, Henry, Edison and Marconi have been factors that advanced civilization to its present high state, the mysteries which still lie behind the locked doors of the universe will continue that advancement."

Large-sized screen television is the feature of the show. Above the arena floor has been swung a ground glass screen on which either 6-foot or 10-foot pictures can be thrown. There is also a television theater. The demonstration in these is in charge of U. A. Sanabria, of Chicago.

Several smaller manufacturers have on display television apparatus designed for home use. Included were small screen televisors, one or two built into cabinets, intended to pick up sound and sight together.

The newer model radio receivers, for the most part, continue to concentrate on compactness, with only a scattered few of the large consoles. The superheterodyne set seemed to take the lead in circuit design and midgets are profuse. Combination broadcast and short-wave sets are found in several booths.

In addition to radio sets display room is given to various household appliances operating from the light socket. In the past this space was devoted entirely to radio.

Three Workmen Killed In Sewer Excavation

Detroit, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Three men were killed and two injured seriously this afternoon, when they were trapped under tons of dirt and debris at the bottom of a sewer excavation in Dearborn. Seven other men, working at the botom of the trench, scrambled to safety.

The dead were C. Variese, C. Carngi and E. Foglietti, laborers, all of Dearborn. Ricco Torrqsan, and George Pannovich, Dearborn, who were the first to be brought from the excavation, suffered broken legs and internal injuries.

DATE FOR PARLEY ON CHACO NEARING

Time May Be Set Today to Discuss Agreement on Nonagression.

(Associated Press.)

Representatives of Bolivia and Paraguay and the five neutrals attempting to help them settle the long-standing Chaco dispute last night had centered their attention upon consideration of a date for discussion here of a nonaggression pact.

Although definite indication was lacking whether the date might be made public today, Assistant Secretary White of the State Department said last week something might be announced yesterday or today.

No date for the conversations was announced yesterday, but it has been the hope of the neutrals to get them under way as quickly as possible.

However, some of the interested representatives wish to avoid undue haste, and how soon the discussion would be inaugurated remained uncertain last night, with this division of opinion on the most propitious time for the negotiations.

Willingness to Consider.

Bolivia and Paraguay have indicated their willingness to consider the nonaggression agreement, suggested by Bolivia, pending negotiations on the basic questions of the boundary controversy.

The neutrals, who have proferred their good offices to the disputing principals are: The United States, Colombia, Cuba, Mexico and Uruguay.

Opponents of too prompt opening of the discussions point out a sufficient amount of time should be allowed to prepare for the nonaggression negotiations, which were agreed to but a short time ago. Neither Bolivia nor Paraguay has indicated who is to represent each in the conversations.

Charge d'Affaires Ynsfran, the only Paraguayan representative in Washington, said yesterday he had no instructions concerning the negotiation. He expressed optimism, however, over the turn which had been taken in the Chaco considerations and indicated he was confident of satisfactory progress to be expected. Ynsfran planned to confer today with Assistant Secretary White, of the State Department.

Routine Matters.

Minister Abelli, of Bolivia, saw the Assistant Secretary yesterday, but indicated his visit was concerned chiefly with routine matters following his recent occupancy of the ministery here.

His predecessor, Eduardo Diez de Medina, last week canceled his sailings for La Paz and returned to Washington, he said, on the direction of his government. He has given no indication of the nature of the instructions he said he was awaiting from his country.

The return of Diez de Medina prompted speculation as to his possible selection to conduct the Bolivian conversations. Assistant Secretary White and the other neutral representatives conferred individually last week. While no announcement was made, weight was lent to the probability of an early statement on the nonaggression meeting.

When Washington Was Younger—No. 52

This part of Fourteenth street in those days was known as "Newspaper Row." In the building immediately behind the Ebbitt the New York Herald (since absorbed by the New York Tribune) had offices. In the next building the New York World (since absorbed by the Scripps-Howard chain) and the New York Tribune were quartered.

The Boston Advertiser had rooms in the small building to the rear of the Western Union Building, then on the corner of Fourteenth and the Avenue, but the corner doesn't look like that today.

TENNESSEE PIONEER GROUP TO VISIT HERE

Trip Is Reward for Learning to Read and Write in Last Year.

A group of 50 hardy Tennesseeans, who by diligent study at mountain night schools have learned to read and write in the last year, will be brought to Washington this weekend as a reward for achievement.

Secretary of the Interior Wilbur, chairman of the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy, will receive personally the adult students and congratulate them on their efforts. President Hoover will receive them at the White House.

Led by Arthur Rankin, superintendent of Hamilton County schools, and Mrs. Eula B. Johnston, county supervisor, the students will arrive here Saturday. Miss Clyde Shuman, director of nutrition service of the American Red Cross, will meet the group and take it to the Red Cross Building, where Miss Mabel Boardman, secretary of the American Red Cross, is expected to present certificates.

Hamilton is the only county in the United States that sends its adult honor students on an annual pilgrimage of this kind, citizens and friends providing funds for expenses.

Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, chairman of the executive committee of the National Advisory Committee on Illiteracy, believes it is a movement that is spreading and will end in materially reducing the army of 4,275,000 illiterates in the country.

MERCURY HITS 100; 3 ARE PROSTRATED

Fourteenth and Ohio avenue northwest.

(Associated Press.)

Temperatures in the Eastern Central States soared yesterday toward new late September records while rains drenched the western portion of the section and promised relief to the rest by today.

In Chicago, high readings of slightly over 90 degrees were just a hair's breadth short of setting new records for the date and adding to the achievements of a dying summer replete with all-time high marks.

Milwaukee had a high of 87 degrees and points throughout Illinois, southern Wisconsin, Indiana and southwestern Michigan suffered from humidity.

In St. Paul, however, 67 degrees was the best the mercury could do, with rain drenching most of Minnesota and North Dakota; westward, Omaha experienced a drizzle and normal temperatures of 70 degrees or less.

Rains, measuring in some places as much as four inches, dumped themselves over most of Kansas, northern Missouri and parts of Oklahoma, bringing a 100-degree reading in Kansas City down to 72 degrees and affording relief to farmers who had been unable because of the baked fields to do their fall plowing.

Fort Dodge, Iowa, reported 7.25 inches of rain in three days and Cedar Rapids 4.4 inches—one-third of the year's total rainfall—in one day alone. Streams and wells were replenished and fields were softened for plowing while sizzling temperatures were reduced to 66 from 71 degrees today at Des Moines. Sunday night storms killed some cattle near Tama and Newton, Iowa, but did little other damage.

SHIP BOARD DRAFTS NEW U. S. LINE PLAN

May Demand More Than Was Offered by Chapman and His Associates.

(Associated Press.)

The greater part of a new contract for reorganization of the United States Lines last night had been drafted by the Shipping Board.

There were indications at the close of a day's conference with shipping men interested in participation in the reorganization that the lines would go to the concern or syndicate which offers most above the contract's stipulations.

A board member said more would be demanded than has been offered by the Chapman-Dawson-Dollar interests. The board will hold its regular meeting tomorrow and may consider the remaining contract stipulations.

The board proposed today that shippers interested in control of the lines form a syndicate for its reorganization. Kenneth R. Dawson and R. Stanley Dollar, Pacific Coast shipping men, informed the board they would not accept a syndicate proposition while their offer for the lines, in which P. W. Chapman, present titular owner, joined them, was pending.

U. S. LEAGUE ENVOY GIVEN ARMS ORDERS

Wilson Told to Favor Any Feasible Plan for Holiday.

(Associated Press.)

Instructions to favor the general idea of a holiday on construction of all armaments—land, air and sea—were borne to the disarmament discussion at Geneva yesterday by Hugh R. Wilson, America's representative.

Sending the Minister to Switzerland as this country's delegate, Secretary Stimson instructed him to report as soon as a detailed proposal is made.

State Department officials said United States has no plan except to be friendly toward any feasible one which may come up. Important considerations involved in the general question include whether the holiday shall apply absolutely to all armaments under construction, under contract or planned for the next twelve months.

The United States is not expected to favor a holiday involving cessation of construction now in progress as this would add to unemployment.

Thousands are at work in Navy and private yards on seven cruisers, an aircraft carrier and three submarines. The modernizations of three battleships, two of which have already been started, provides work for hundreds more.

A second large dirigible, sister ship of the Akron, has been planned by the Navy to be started immediately on acceptance of the first. Arrangements with the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, however, make possible the cancellation of this plan.

The five-year airplane procurement programs designed to give the Army 1,800 planes and the Navy 1,000 are virtually completed.

It was said at the War Department that nearly all land armament construction contemplated in the next year is experimental and could be dispensed with, without impairing efficiency seriously.

Geneva, Switzerland, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The assembly of the League of Nations welcomed Hugh R. Wilson as the American representative to its disarmament discussions today and heard a definite proposal from Italy that the powers maintain a year's armaments holiday through a "gentlemen's agreement."

Mr. Wilson, who is American Ambassador to Switzerland, will make known the attitude of the United States on the Italian suggestion tomorrow. He was associated for several years with the work of the league's preparatory disarmament commission.

Discussion of the Italian plan, projected to create a favorable psychological atmosphere for the success of the general disarmament conference next February, was cut short today in the hope that representatives from Russia, Brazil, Argentina and other nations might accept invitations to participate and be present tomorrow afternoon.

EPISCOPALIANS VOTE $4,225,000 BUDGET

Denver, Colo., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—A budget of $4,225,000 for 1932 was approved by the house of deputies of the Protestant Episcopal Church today after futile attempts were made to reduce the amount in view of prevailing economic conditions.

As a part of a three-year program, the deputies also authorized the national council of the church to increase the budget for 1933 and 1934, subject to the amount of collections of next year's total. A motion by H. T Nelson, lay delegate from Cincinnati, to reduce the budget to $4,000,000 was overwhelmingly defeated after debate, which occupied most of the day's session.

The national council, in submitting the budget, recommended that when and if cuts are necessary, they be made in administrative economy and departmental budgets, particularly the publicity budget.

Mission Curtailment Opposed.

A proposal by the Rev. E. C. Chorley, New York, to reduce the budget $333,000 through discontinuance of the publication of The Church at Work, also failed.

Delegates appeared to be agreed that the work of the church missions should in no way be curtailed.

The house of deputies defeated a resolution submitted by Charles L. Dibble, Detroit, which called upon the convention "to repudiate" the decision of the United States Supreme Court in denying citizenship to Prof. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, of the Yale University school, and Miss Marie Averill Bland, New York nurse, for their refusal to agree to bear arms in case of war. The resolution was tabled by a vote of 305 to 106.

Public Works Urged.

The convention was asked to refrain from making any change in the canons of the church "so as to make the ruling of our church more lax toward divorce," in a resolution presented to the Woman's Auxiliary by Mrs. Oscar Randolph, Lynchburg, Va. The resolution came from women of the diocese of Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia and the District of Columbia.

A resolution requesting Federal and State governments to construct needy public works will all possible haste as a means of alleviating unemployment, was introduced by William A. Monten, Los Angeles.

A joint committee from the house of deputies and house of bishops was expected to make its nominations of three bishops for the office of presiding bishop tomorrow or Wednesday. Convention observers are of the opinion that Rt. Rev. James De Wolf Perry, bishop of Rhode Island, and present presiding bishop, will be re-elected.

UNLIMITED DEBATE IS VOTED BY LEGION

Majority Report for Short Talks Rejected by Convention; Parade Today.

Detroit, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The American Legion today turned down a proposal to limit discussion in its thirteenth national convention and announced itself ready to take up at length questions that come before it.

The decision to hear in debate the various shades of opinion on controversial subjects was made after men who led them in war had called upon members of the veterans' organization to carry on with courage and wisdom in the economic battles of today.

This plea to be peace-time soldiers of the Nation was the keynote of the opening session. President Hoover and Commander Ralph T. O'Neil represented the leadership of the present. War leaders were represented by Newton D. Baker, former Secretary of War and Gen. Charles P. Summerall, retired, who made addresses, and by Gen. John J. Pershing, who telegraphed his message from Lincoln, Nebr.

Bonus And Dry Law First.

The chief controversial subjects which various groups seek to bring before the convention are bonus payments and prohibition. With the exception of opposition to the present interest rate of 4½ per cent on bonus loans as too nigh, the tenor of reports and addresses has been away from any further request to the Government for able-bodied former service men. In his report, Commander O'Neil expressed confidence that if it is found "liberalization" of the bonus payments would impose a hardship the legion would not ask it.

Putting asice for the time being serious business, the legion members tonight prepared for a day of pageantry tomorrow. The big parade, in which each department will be represented by marchers, bands and floats, will start at 11 a. m. and is expected to continue until late in the afternoon.

Oregon presented its invitation to the American Legion to meet in Portland in 1932 to the convention's committee on time and place today. No other city made a formal bid for the meeting, and it was generally believed that Portland will be the unanimous choice when the matter comes before the convention Wednesday.

Forty and Eight Elects.

William D. Lyons, of Minnesota, today was elected "grand chef de chemin de fer" of the Forty and Eight, fun-making organization of the American Legion. He succeeds Charles E. Perry, of Maine.

The Forty-and-Eighters also elected six "sous chefs de chemin de fer la Societe des Quarante Hommes et Huit Chevaux," which liberally translated means vice presidents of the Forty and Eight Society.

The "8 and 40," corresponding organization in the women's auxiliary, reelected Mrs. Ethel V. Murphy, Pleasantville, N. Y., to the chief office of le chapeau national.

The following were elected "demi chapeaux:" Mrs. Mamie Fullerton, Oklahoma City; Mrs. Rae Brodbeck, Willow Grove, Pa.; Mrs. Mabel Pantellis, Highland Park, Ill; Mrs. Helen Gormley, Rozelle, Mass., and Mrs. Jeannette English, Alexandria, Va.

The office of national chaplain went to Mrs. Rachel Smith, Bridgeport, Conn., and Mrs. Alice Gordon, Kansas City, was reelected historian.

France Holds Lead In Military Planes

(Associated Press.)

Data collected from unofficial sources for Carl Byoir of the Havana Post were issued here to show that although France has the largest military air force, the United States has twice as many civil planes as the other leading powers combined.

The figures gave the active and reserve military strength as follows: France, 4,683; the British Empire, 2,065; Italy, 1,834; United States, 1,809; Russia, 1,520, and Japan, 1,312.

The United States was credited with 10,235 civil planes, the British Empire, 2,070; France, 1,320; Italy, 750; Russia, 490, and Japan, 360.

In navy fighting planes, both active and reserve, the United States led with 776, while France had 515, Japan, 492; the British Empire, 312; Italy, 238, and Russia, 140.

LABOR UNION FLAYS U. S. PAY CUT PLAN

tive Wood and Chairman Reed, of the Senate military committee, who himself is a veteran and stanch opponent of weakening the military.

A dissenting note, however, came from Senator Brookhart, Iowa, who renewed his demand for full cash payment of veterans' bonus certificates. It is estimated that such a step would cost the Government $2,000,000,000.

"It is a special outrage to send them out with tin cups begging in order to live," Brookhart said, referring to the 750,000 war veterans who, he says, are unemployed and to whom the Government owes compensation.

"The men who fought for the country's welfare are not going to fight against it now," asserted Senator Reed. "I am confident that the patriotism of the American Legion will show itself now as it did in 1917-18."

"The American Legion now has an opportunity to help the country solve its problems by setting an example," said Wood.

"I have faith in the legion to do that thing," he added.

The War Department announced that it has advised Col. Charles B. Robbins, chairman of the legion's national defense committee, that the Secretary of War "stands ready to cooperate fully with the President in his efforts to balance the budget."

"The War Department is, therefore," says the announcement, "now prepared to forward to the Director of the Bureau of the Budget normal estimates in support of its military program closely following the estimates of last year and the current year.

"In these estimates no increases are requested in the strength of any component of the Army of the United States. On the other hand, certain economies will be effected."

Address Before Legion By President Hoover

My fellow countrymen of the American Legion:

It is a pleasure to accept the invitation of your commander to attend your convention. I am led to do so at a time of most pressing public duties because I wish to lay frankly before you important facts which I am sure you will wish to have, and I wish to point to an opportunity of service which you can give not alone to your members but to the country at large.

I need not recount that the world is passing through a great depression fraught with grueling daily emergencies alike to men and to governments. This depression today flows largely from Europe through the fundamental dislocations of economic and political forces caused by the great war, in which your service brought bloodshed to an end and gave hope of reconstruction to the world.

Our economic strength is such that we would have recovered long since but for these forces from abroad. Recovery of the world now rests and awaits in no small degree upon our country, the United States of America. Some individuals may have lost their nerve and faith but the real American people are digging themselves out with industry and courage. We have the self-containment, the resources, the manhood, the intelligence and by united action we will lead the world in recovery.

Legion a Great Influence.

The American Legion, born of world emergency, wields a great influence throughout our country because it speaks for a generation which has proved its citizenship by offering its all to its country. You of the legion have a peculiarly sacred stake in the future of the country which you fought to preserve. You have proved your devotion in camp and battle. You have built up your organization to serve in peace as well as in war.

You are aware that during the past year our national expenditures have exceeded our income. Today the national Government is faced with another large deficit in its budget.

There is a decrease in the annual yield of income taxes alone from $2,400,000 in the years of prosperity to only $1,200,000,000 today. Simultaneously we are carrying a high and necessary extra burden of public works in aid to the unemployed, in aids to agriculture and of increased benefits and services to veterans.

In these circumstances, I am directing the most drastic economy in every nonvital branch of government, yet the essential services must be maintained. These, obviously, include continued provision for our disabled veterans and the continuation of our present programs of work for the unemployed and aids to agriculture.

Limit to Taxing the Rich.

Whatever the arguments made, do not be misled by those who say that we need only to tax the rich to secure the funds we need. We must face the absolute fact that the rich can be taxed to the point of diminishing returns and still the deficit in our ordinary and necessary expenditures would not be covered, even upon a basis of the utmost economy. Make no mistake, in these circumstances it is those who work in the fields, at the bench and desk who would be forced to carry an added burden for every added cent to our expenditures.

Whatever the deficit may be and in whatever manner it may ultimately be met, every additional expenditure placed upon our Government in this emergency magnifies itself out of all proportion into intolerable pressures, whether it is by taxation or by loans. Either loans or taxes beyond the very minimum necessities of government will drain the resources of industry and commerce and, in turn, will increase unemployment.

"Such action can easily defeat our hopes, our plans and our best efforts for the recovery of our country and so indefinitely delay the return of prosperity and employment. We can carry our present expenditures without jeopardy to national stability. We can carry no more without grave risks.

Increases Must Be Avoided.

"The imperative moment has come when increase in Government expenditures must be avoided, whether it be ill-considered, hasty, or uninformed legislation of any kind, or whether it be for new services meritorious in themselves. Any alternative will strike down the earnest efforts of the citizenry of our Nation to start us back upon the economic paths to which we must return if we and our children are to have the destiny which every one has the right to hope and the heart to give to them.

During the past week your national commander and the members of the legion's employment committee came to me and offered to the Nation the combined strength of your million men and your 10,000 posts to help in relief over the winter. I here accept that offer, with the thanks of the Nation, in the fine spirit in which it was submitted.

But there is today an even greater service to our country. That is the determined opposition by you to additional demands upon the Nation until we have won this war against world depression. I am not speaking of veterans' legislation which has been urged for action at this convention, but I am speaking of demands for every other project proposed in the country which would require increased Federal expenditure. It is an attitude and an action toward the whole field of Government expenditures that is before us.

The first stone in the foundations of stability and recovery, both at home and in the world, is the stability of the Government of the United States. It is my purpose to maintain that stability, and I invite you to enlist in that fight.

Country's Need Second to War.

The country's need of this service is second only to war. I invite you to study the relation of their governmental finance to the daily welfare and security of every man, woman and child in the history of Europe during the last six months alone. It is for us to observe these lessons and to be helpful, but our first duty is to the people of the United States. Nothing would give a greater glow of confidence to our country today than your enlistment and the vigorous support you can bring to this effort to prevent additional burden on the government from any quarter whatsoever.

You would not have the President of the United States plead with any citizen or any group of citizens for any course of action. I made no plea to you. But you would have your President point out the path of service in this Nation. That I am doing now.

Postwar Emergencies.

"My mind goes back to the days of the war where you and I served in our appointed tasks. At the end of those years of heart sickness over the misery of it all, when the peace came, you and I knew that the wounds of the world were unhealed and that there would be further emergencies still before our country and the world when self-denial and courageous service must be given.

Your organization was born at that time and dedicated to that service by the very preamble to its constitution. No man can doubt the character and idealism of men who have come into the trenches in defense of their country. I have that faith. This is an emergency and these are the times for service to which we must put full heart and purpose to help and not retard the return of the happy days we know are ahead of your country and mine.

With the guidance of the Almighty God, with the same faith, courage and self sacrifice with which you, backed by the nation, won victory fourteen years ago, so shall we win victory today.

Legion Executives Divided On Hoover's Economy Plea

Detroit, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Approbation mingled with opposition tonight in the comments of American Legion officials on President Hoover's address before the national convention, in which he pleaded for a conservation of the assets of the Federal Treasury.

Many State commanders expressed unqualified approval of the President's stand, while others indicated they had no choice but to follow the dictates of their States and vote for immediate payment of the bonus.

Following are some of the comments:

Frank C. Corry, Vermont commander: "That was a wonderful message. It sounded the sentiments of a majority of the legionnaires. We do not want anything other than to serve our country as we did in the war."

W. P. Cramer, Louisiana vice commander: "We can not applaud the President's address. After thirteen years we are still asking adjusted compensation."

Robert H. Odgers, Maryland commander: "It was typical Hoover logic. We are against increasing the bonus, but for a Volstead act amendment to permit wine and beer."

Edwin H. Jones, Washington commander: "Our hands are tied. We have instructions to vote for the immediate payment of the bonus and no matter how we may feel individually will have to carry out orders."

Archie Adams, Rhode Island commander: "The legion should not touch the bonus now. The Rhode Island convention voted for immediate payment, but the delegates will probably split."

Walker Back Home Wears White Beret

Is Silent on Seabury Inquiry; Maier of Tammany Hall Returns Also.

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Mayor James J. Walker returned home tonight, wearing a milk-white beret, fondling a Japanese chow dog, and shrugging his shoulders in silence at all queries touching on the legislative investigation of the municipal government.

Standing on the bridge of the liner Bremen as it steamed up the bay, the mayor removed his visor-beret, which he claims to have originated, and exclaimed: "My favorite author is the guy who wrote 'Home Sweet Home.'"

David Maier, who once was convicted of bribery and who is now prominent in a fraternal society here, also returned on the Bremen. Maier refused to discuss the Seabury investigation of pier leases, or the arrangements for the passage of the Walker party to Europe.

Corn Price Plan Vetoed by Board

(Associated Press.)

The plan of Gov. Turner of Iowa for stabilizing corn prices was rejected yesterday by the Farm Board.

Emerging from a three-hour conference with the full board, Turner said a substitute proposal was suggested which the board promised to submit later to himself and the other members of the Turner committee. It was intimated the substitute involved utilizing some of the existing cooperatives and their elevators.

Later Chairman Stone said the board would give the problems of the corn farmer further consideration. The Turner plan contemplated organizing farmers in the corn belt States into State-wide organizations for the purpose of holding the 1931 crop from the market until the price reached at least 60 cents.

RENO DIVORCE WON BY JACK DEMPSEY

Actress-Wife Fails to Put Up Fight; to Press Own California Suit.

Reno, Nev., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey won a Reno divorce from Estelle Taylor, his actress wife, without a contest today.

A default decree was granted the former heavyweight boxing champion by Judge Thomas F. Morgan at the conclusion of a private hearing at which Dempsey took the witness stand for about 20 minutes and related that his wife's motion picture and stage career had broken up their marriage.

The actress, who is appearing on the stage in Chicago, was not represented, having announced she will push her own divorce suit which was filed in Los Angeles after her husband instituted action here.

Attorneys Plan Attack.

At today's hearing it was indicated counsel for Dempsey laid the groundwork for an attack on the jurisdiction of the California courts by carefully establishing Dempsey's legal residence in Nevada under the six weeks' divorce law.

Miss Taylor's suit is expected to come up for trial in about three weeks. She has said she would not be satisfied with a Reno decree, declaring every Nevada divorce that has been contested elsewhere has been set aside.

"We are absolutely satisfied that the decree will be valid and binding in every State in the Union," Dempsey's counsel said today.

A property settlement made in 1929 was approved by the court, but its terms were not made public.

Not Such an Ordeal.

He smiled after the hearing and remarked, "It wasn't as bad as I thought it would be." When he entered the courthouse he seemed to be as nervous as a fighter appearing on his first preliminary card.

His testimony, it was understood, concerned principally Miss Taylor's desire to follow her career as an actress and singer, despite his objections.

He was reported to have testified that before their marriage six and a half years ago, she agreed to settle down to home life after a short time, but failed to carry out the agreement, even to the extent of refusing to live with him when he was engaged in fight promotion work in Chicago.

Dempsey interrupted a barnstorming tour of Western States to come here for the trial. He plans to go to Midas, in eastern Nevada, to work as a laborer in a mine, of which he is part owner, to condition himself further for a comeback campaign which he hopes may lead again to the heavyweight title.

HOOVER ASKS LEGION HELP FOR ECONOMY

Important Session.

Today, however, it was different. The President of the United States had made an eleventh-hour decision to come out here, and the opening session became the most important session of all.

Just before President Hoover arrived at the Olympia Arena, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War in the Wilson Administration, made a speech to the legionnaires.

He was given a tremendous ovation when he appeared on the rostrum. Mr. Baker, who is regarded as the most formidable opponent of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York for the Democratic nomination for President, made a hit with the Legionnaires.

It had been reported that Baker would use the occasion to launch his candidacy. The former War Department head, however, announced in advance that he would never let himself be accused of making such a speech before an organization that is supposed to be nonpartisan.

Former Secretary Baker did urge that the United States take the lead in disarming, but the greater part of his speech was devoted to funny stories concerning his size—he is not much over five feet—and his experiences in France.

Theodore Roosevelt Present.

The American Legion is not supposed to have anything to do with national politics. There is a clause in its constitution which prevents it from taking any part in national politics. And yet there is probably no national gathering outside of the Republican and Democratic conventions at which one hears so much politics.

For example, when young Theodore Roosevelt, Governor of Porto Rico, was introduced today, one could hear legionnaires yelling, "the next Vice President."

There has been a boom for Roosevelt to succeed Vice President Charles Curtis, ever since President Hoover visited Porto Rico last March.

He appears to be tremendously popular with the veterans, one reason being that he helped organize the American Legion in Paris some 14 years ago.

When he was introduced today by National Commander Ralph T. O'Neill, the delegates cut loose with a roar of applause. "I am glad to be with the gang again," Roosevelt yelled.

But the big event here today was the visit of President Hoover. The President's journey of more than 1,200 miles for a visit of an hour and 54 minutes and a 13-minute address is without precedent. It was clear evidence of the gravity and concern with which he viewed the emergency.

Suspends Crisis Study.

The President's hurried dash into the heart of the Middle West for such a short visit compelled him to drop for the time his negotiations and studies of the crisis in world credits feared as the result of Great Britain's suspension of the gold standard.

The President's black picture of Government finances and his flat insistence that unwarranted expenditures must end and the nonvital appropriations must be cut was directed almost as much to Congress as to the legion. So clearly did he analyze the present depleted condition of the Treasury and the prospects for future revenues that Congress will have to take full responsibility for any hasty or ill-advised spending it authorizes.

Hawks Is 2 Hours Late, Delayed by Broken Feed

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Capt. Frank M. Hawks landed his record-smashing plane at Municipal Airport here at 6:21 p. m., two hours overdue from Amarillo, Tex., and after a crowd of 15,000 persons waiting his arrival had dispersed.

Hawks explained he was forced down and delayed more than an hour by a broken feed line which he repaired himself. He landed somewhere in the Texas Panhandle, but could not give the exact location, he said. His time from Angeles today was 10 hours 51 minutes elapsed time.

CUT IN DEBT-PAYING PREFERRED TO TAX

Lankford, Virginia, Declares Against Further Levies on Incomes.

(Associated Press.)

Paring of payments on the public debt yesterday was said by Representative Lankford, Virginia's lone Republican in Congress, to be preferable, in his opinion, to an increase in taxation.

"I see no reason," he said, "why we should continue to pay a billion dollars a year on the public debt during these times of stress and I am in favor of almost any other scheme of balancing the budget than by raising the income tax."

Representative Lankford said he opposed especially an increase in the lower brackets. He said that since this is "an economy year," he hoped World War veterans would not ask new benefits from their bonus certificates. He was a supporter last session of the bonus loan measure.

His own requests of Congress this year, he said, will be in harmony with the general Government program.

"Congress was very liberal to my district last time, and on account of the condition of the Treasury I will request only two or three items, which I consider essential and which are not expensive," he said.

Appropriations to be asked for his district, the Second, he said, would include $1,500,000 to complete the housing program at the naval operating base, an undetermined amount to purchase land for the naval air station and funds to continue the modernization program at the Norfolk Navy Yard.

A sharp reduction in the Government's operating expenses and an increase in the higher brackets of the income tax law to balance the Nation's budget was urged yesterday by Representative Knutson.

The Minnesota Republican also proposed enactment of a gift tax law. Asserting it is generally conceded that repeal or modification of the Volstead act would probably yield a sum as large as the deficit, Knutson said "we might as well face the fact that the drys are sufficiently strong to prevent such action."

He opposed the proposal of Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, for a general sales tax, contending it would place the bulk of the tax burden upon the masses "who are least able to bear that burden."

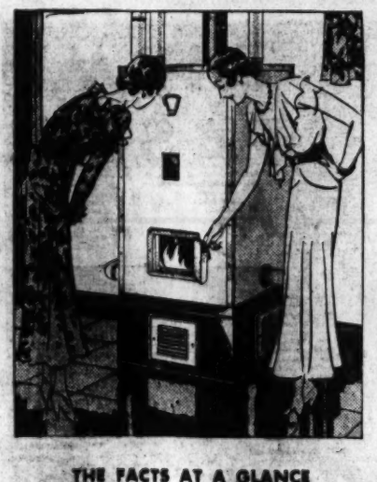
OIL BURNER and BOILER COMBINED

In one beautiful, automatic, self-contained unit that saves ⅓ to ½ in heating costs. Designed and built by the originators of automatic oil heat for homes. As low as



THE FACTS AT A GLANCE

1. Saves ⅓ to ½ on fuel.
2. Famous Petro Radiant Rotary Burner.
3. Time-tested boiler design.
4. Quiet sound-proof operation.
5. Gorgeous color combinations.
6. Completely automatic ... with oil or gas.
7. Burner sealed and concealed inside the unit.
8. No servicing in the basement.
9. Complete unit ready to connect to piping.
10. Costs no more than a good boiler alone.
11. Provides domestic hot water at lower cost.
12. All sizes ... for steam, hot water or vapor systems.

HERE'S WHAT USERS SAY:

"Up to the present time I have burned less than 500 gallons of oil ... which is 50% more efficient."
Omaha architect

Albany, N. Y. engineer

Duxbury, Conn. studio

"No service has been required and absolutely no attention on my part."
Elmira, N. Y. contractor

"My installation has supplied heat at a cost of $12.90 that formerly cost $75.00."
Long Island home owner

NOW comes the greatest advance in the whole history of heating homes! The crowning achievement of Petro-Nokol engineers. A magnificently beautiful heating unit ... 33% to 50% more efficient than the ordinary coal burning boiler ... with the famous Petro Radiant Rotary Oil Burner built right into it at the factory ... 100% automatic. Yet it costs no more than a good boiler alone.

Simple in principle ... advanced in design ... sensational in performance. So efficient that users in all parts of the country report savings from ⅓ to ½ in fuel bills. Nothing like it has ever been built before.

BURNER SEALED INSIDE

All you see is a beautiful cabinet ... finished to perfection ... in two tones of soft, velvety tangerine, or blue, or green or cardinal. Sealed within and concealed completely is the same famous burner that harnesses radiant heat. It is just as service-free and automatic as the finest modern electrical refrigerator. No servicing need ever be done in your basement. And once and for all, this handsome sound-proof boiler settles the question of quietness in oil heating.

The whole unit is assembled right at the factory. Production on a large scale ... in place of slow, laborious assembly by hand in the basement ... makes it possible to offer this Petro Automatic Boiler at prices that equal the cost of a good boiler alone.

(Installed without oil storage tank)
Prices of tanks completely installed range from $50 up according to capacity.

EASY TERMS

BURNS EITHER OIL OR GAS

Should the price of artificial or natural gas ever make it more economical than oil ... the oil burner unit can be removed and a gas burner quickly substituted. The Petro Automatic Boiler uses either oil or gas.

ABUNDANCE OF DOMESTIC HOT WATER

Without additional down payment, a special element can be added to provide you with an abundance of domestic hot water at a lower cost than any other automatic system.

Before you decide to buy any new heating plant ... be sure to see this beautiful new Petro Automatic Boiler. You can enjoy automatic oil heat in its most perfect form and heat your house for less money than with other fuels. Decide now ... before cold weather sets in.

LINDBERGHS SURVEY CHINA'S FLOOD AREA

Nanking, China, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—China's flood horror was spread today before the eyes of Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh. With Anne at the controls they flew their black monoplane over northern Kiangsu Province on the first of a series of survey flights for the flood relief commission.

Broken cities, obliterated farms and ruined villages appeared beneath their plane in such numbers that Col. Lindbergh commented it was hard to say where the disaster had struck its fiercest blow.

In 4 hours and 40 minutes of flying the Lindberghs obtained data which a representative of the relief commission said were of "the utmost value." Their offer to make the survey flights had been accepted promptly by President Chiang Kai-Shek and Finance Minister T. V. Soong, of the Chinese government.

Anne Lindbergh did the actual flying, and the colonel occupied himself taking pictures and making exhaustive annotations on a map of the area. They covered that part of the province lying east of the Grand Canal—one of the world's famous waterways. Tomorrow they plan to fly over the section west of the canal.

Col. Lindbergh told the Associated Press nearly all of northern Kiangsu was under water. The province is the most densely populated in all China. He said probably the worst hit city was Kaoyu, where the canal waters still were pouring with waterfall force through gaps in the canal dyke.

Hinghwa, a score of miles farther northwest, was described by Lindbergh as the next worst flood spot, with water 5 to 10 feet deep throughout the city. He said the flooded area extended almost from Hinghwa to the sea, although the dykes nearest the sea had held in spite of everything.

Nowhere, the Lindberghs said, did they see any indication that the flood waters which have ravaged provinces more than a month might be subsiding.

NEW WAR OUTBREAK REPORTED IN CHINA

but the foreign minister opposed this action and the session was adjourned until today. Meanwhile an announcement was made that more soldiers had crossed the Korean border into Manchuria.

In China nationalist government papers, officials and individuals protested the Japanese actions and tomorrow was set aside as national "humiliation day."

Peiping, Sept. 21 (U.P.).—Japanese troops, supported by bombing planes in various districts, occupied the important Manchurian city of Kirin today, an official communique issued by the headquarters of Marshal Chang Hsueh-Liang said.

Chinese officials charged that the Japanese were making their occupation of the entire Manchurian region complete and added that they were convinced Japan intended for it to be permanent.

Japanese aviators attacked and scattered Chinese troops with bombs and machine gun fire at Hsinmintien, Phushan, Tungliao, Taonan and Taotzetsai, the communique said. The Chinese troops were ordered not to resist the attacks. Troops were approaching Taonan, messages said.

Kirin City of 85,000.

Kirin, a city of some 85,000 population, is the terminus of a branch of the Southern Manchurian Railroad in central Manchuria, and capital of the large province of the same name which borders on Korea.

The occupation of Kirin was considered particularly significant because it is outside the recognized sphere of Japanese influence in Manchuria. The railroad branch on which it is located is owned by China, although it connects with the Japanese owned Southern Manchurian Railroad. Kirin also is farther northwest than the area in which Japan ordinarily had exercised influence.

Chinese officials said that Northern China was calm, with business as usual.

Blames Chinese Officials.

Peiping, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The Japanese News Agency here had a report today from Mukden that Gen. Honjo, commander of the Japanese forces in South Manchuria, had issued a notification that "violence perpetrated by the Chinese side this time is no spasmodic outburst of feeling, but premeditated action of Chinese authorities who have been accustomed to insult Japan."

"Had this been left unchallenged," the statement continued, "Japan's acquired rights and interests in Manchuria most certainly would be overthrown.

"The people of China are innocent, and ambitious militarists alone are responsible for the incident.

"In view of the heavy responsibility of protecting the South Manchuria Railroad, I have adopted determined steps. Since my object is to chastise the authorities and not the people, the populace should engage in their occupations in peace."

Suggests Volunteers.

The provincial Kuomintang telegraphed to the Nanking government urging war unless the Manchurian incident was peacefully settled and suggesting the formation of a national volunteer corps.

Moscow, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Pravda, official publication of the Russian Communist party, subjected the League of Nations and the Kellogg peace pact to a scathing attack today over the invasion of Manchuria by Japan, which it described as "a not unexpected move of Japanese imperialism trying to strengthen its economic and political hegemony."

INQUEST RETARDS MARR DEATH PROBE

Bowie Not Satisfied With Accident Theory Held by Sheriff.

Any investigation by the State's attorney's office of the shooting of Alem K. Marr in the caretaker's home of the Glebe Club at Mount Calvert, Md., will be postponed until after the inquest tonight, Alan Bowie, State's attorney, said yesterday.

While declaring himself not "thoroughly satisfied" with the version of accidental shooting held by the sheriff's office, Mr. Bowie said he believed that opportunity should be given to present this theory to a coroner's jury. The sheriff, W. C. Hopkins, believes that Marr was shot by one of three young children, who were playing with a shotgun.

Testimony of one of the three, George McKinzie, jr., 8 years old, led to this theory and the release of three neighbors held for investigation. George said that Philip, 5, and Joe, 6, were playing with the gun while Marr was asleep in the kitchen of the McKinzie home. George left the house after trying to take the gun from them and later heard a shot. When the sheriff arrived to investigate, George hid in the swamp nearby, he said.

Marr, who was 75, was buried in Trinity churchyard in Marlboro yesterday after services at Trinity Church. An earlier plan to return the body to his original home in Pennsylvania was abandoned.

CHAIRS, DESKS MISSING PUPILS TAUGHT ON FLOORS

schools would be used this year, Dr. Ballou said that it was impossible for him to keep such figures in his head and that he could see no possible connection between missing desks and portable schools.

Mr. Crane also placed the responsibility for the lack of desks and chairs at the doors of the comptroller general's office. He said the delay was caused through some hitch over determination of the low bid.

"Of course, you can't place an order for desks and chairs in the middle of July and expect to have them made and delivered by the first of September. The company is allowed 40 days for delivery.

"At that we would have had chairs for the children to sit on if the firm had not assured us that the shipment would reach Washington Saturday. They promised to have the things here then and said that they would have men on hand to install the equipment over Saturday and Sunday.

"If we had not counted on this promise we could have moved over enough chairs to accommodate the children on the opening day of school."

There are two carloads of chairs and desks missing somewhere between Washington and Gardner, Mass. One of the cars left Gardner last Thursday and the railroad company assured the school authorities that only three days would be required to make the trip.

Mr. Crane said he felt certain that all of the equipment would arrive and be installed by the end of the week. Workers will be held in readiness to rush the chairs and desks from freight station to schools as soon as the cars arrive.

In regard to the book situation, Mr. Crane said he did not see how there could be a shortage.

"There will certainly be no greater enrollment this year than last year, and there were enough books to go around at the close of the school term last year.

"They haven't been used during the summer, so they should certainly be on hand for use now."

Mr. Crane said he did not have the figures at hand on the number of portable schools to be used this year, but believed that about 30 of the temporary schools had been eliminated from the system this term.

More than 20,000 pieces of furniture were ordered for the new schools and were numbered yesterday among the missing. Immediately on arrival the desks and chairs will be loaded on trucks and taken to the schools where workmen are waiting to install them.

Six new schools opened their doors for the first time and many of the old buildings had new additions to accommodate an expected large enrollment.

Yesterday's enrollment totaled 68,935 in all departments, but officials had expectations of a large increase during the week. For instance, yesterday was Yom Kippur, Jewish Day of Atonement, and members of this faith did not attend the first day's school sessions.

At the new Lafayette School yesterday, Thirty-seventh street and Broad branch road, six of the classrooms were without equipment, but preparations were being made to install the seats during the night should they arrive. This building was completed only last week.

A similar condition existed at the Horace Mann School, Forty-fifth and Macomb streets, where pupils sat on newspapers and books. Several of the teachers took their classes out on the lawns where the children could be seated with more comfort.

It was found necessary to set up the heating plant at the Johnson School, Hiatt and Lamont places northwest, in the open on the sidewalk. The installation of the new plant had been delayed and the old one was put into condition to render temporary service should it be found that heat is needed in the building before the new equipment is ready.

Officials at the Franklin School, headquarters of the Board of Education, were besieged with last minute requests for transfers of students, and with enrollment applications of students from out of town who had neglected to come to the city before the opening of classes.

One hundred and seventy-two schools in all started classes yesterday with a staff of over 2,500 teachers.

14 KILLED, 60 HURT BY QUAKE IN JAPAN

First of Expected Series Also Destroys Buildings, Including Temple.

Tokyo, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Mid-Japan was shaken today by another severe earthquake which caused 14 deaths and injuries to 60 in Saitama and Gumma prefectures alone.

Landslides interrupted rail travel on various lines and 17 telegraph and telephone trunk lines were put out of commission, cutting off communication with Kobe, Dairen, Kumamoto and Hakodate. Thirty-two other trunk lines gave way in the metropolitan area.

Seismologists said the quake was the most severe this year. The shocks were felt over a wide area through the Kanto and Kansai districts, although the damage was concentrated in Saitama and Gumma prefectures.

Factory buildings were among the sufferers, several tall chimneys toppling. Roads were cracked. Here and in Yokohama thousands were frightened by the shocks, rushing into the streets in near panic.

Due to interruption of communications, no estimates of property damage done were available tonight.

Shinichi Kunitomi, seismologist at the central observatory, predicted further shocks within the next few days. He left immediately for Saitama and Gumma prefectures to inspect the epicenter of today's quake. The Tokyo municipality also sent a relief party, including hysicians and nurses.

EDGE VISITS LAVAL TO TALK OVER TRIP

Cabinet Expected to Approve of Premier's Coming to Washington.

Paris, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Official circles believed tonight that Premier Laval will visit Washington next month and discuss with President Hoover the urgent problems of the present with the hope that France and the United States by cooperation may ease the world's plight.

An official communique in warm terms voiced France's appreciation of the cordial wish of President Hoover, presented through Ambassador Walter E. Edge today, that the French premier visit Washington.

"Such an interview is desirable for examination of all the grave problems of the present whose solution can not but be facilitated by verbal interchanges," the communique said, and this was deemed in official circles an acceptance of the invitation in principle.

While no official invitation has been extended, Ambassador Edge's call on Premier Laval was considered tantamount to one and it was expected a formal bid would be forthcoming before the Cabinet meets Friday.

Officials unhesitatingly predicted the Cabinet would approve the premier's acceptance.

The opinion of the press was summarized in L'Information, which said it would be a good thing for the President of the United States and the chief of the French government to exchange views on the preoccupations of the nations for 1932, and establish a franker understanding between themselves.

It was considered too early to forecast the agenda of the projected interview, but it was thought likely Premier Laval would seize the opportunity to present French ideas of disarmament and prove France seeks only to stabilize the world and throw all her strength to the conservation of peace.

NEW OIL BURNER saves with RADIANT HEAT
Radiant heat . . . giving new and greater economy . . . new simplicity . . . new quiet . . . harnessed for the first time by any oil burner selling as low as $295
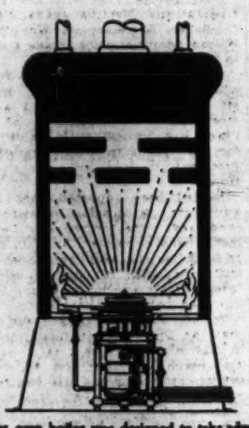
Fully automatic to burn cheaper oil



Your own boiler was designed to take advantage of radiant heat. Nearly 50% of all the heat your boiler absorbs is radiant heat energy from a luminous flame. That's what this new Petro-Nokol gives you. . . ideal, radiant heat that saves fuel. And for further economy . . . this radiant flame is located right at the grate level . . . where it belongs . . . where the coolest water absorbs the maximum of heat.

At 60 miles an hour . . . through two panes of glass . . . on the coldest day, you can feel the radiant heat from a bon-fire 50 feet from the truck! You can't see it or smell it. It's just pure heat rays. The new Petro-Nokol puts this radiant heat to work in your boiler.

IT'S here . . . on display today . . . the new oil burner that saves with radiant heat. The moment you see it in operation, you will realize why it is so much more economical. So utterly dependable. So perfectly quiet.

RADIANT HEAT CUTS COST

Radiant heat . . . the same intense heat you feel from the summer sun . . . is the ideal form of heat. No smoke. No odor. No sound. Just pure heat rays. To harness these and put them to work in your boiler is the supreme achievement of Petro-Nokol engineers.

Now . . . at the lowest prices in oil burner history, the cost of heating homes with oil is reduced even further below the cost of heating with other fuels. And this new low-cost oil heat is assured for a generation at least, due to the world-wide overwhelming surplus of oil. In many cases, this new saving over other fuels pays the whole cost of the oil burner installation in a few years!

SAVES ON DOMESTIC HOT WATER, TOO

While you are heating your home for less than with other fuels, you can also enjoy all the domestic hot water for bath and kitchen you can use. Winter and summer. As hot as you want it...at a lower cost than with any other automatic system. A special heating element which operates with the Petro-Nokol makes this possible.

You will want to see this new Radiant Rotary Oil Burner...that surpasses in economy, simplicity and quietness last year's model that broke all sales records. With all its new advantages...the price remains the same...$295. And a $25 deposit starts it working in your heating plant...saving you money . . . giving you new, undreamed of comfort...and complete relief from all care of your heating plant. Be sure to see it today!

$295 is the price of a complete installation (without tank) for a small house. The size, type and cost of an efficient oil burner installation varies just as greatly as the type, size and cost of heating plants and the houses themselves. We have thousands of our automatic oil burners in various size houses installed completely with tank for as low as $390—$450—$525—$675 (depending upon requirements) and on up to a recent commercial installation amounting to $55,000. All approved by leading safety underwriters.

Our new Petro Automatic Boiler for oil or gas has the burner sealed and concealed inside a beautiful cabinet—in a variety of rich colors, as automatic and service-free as a modern refrigerator. Saves ¼ to ⅓ on fuel. See it today!

THE PRESIDENT SPEAKS.

President Hoover performed a notable public service by journeying to Detroit to lay before the American Legion some facts of the present situation for the information not only of the veterans in national convention, but of all Americans. By taking the time to deliver personally his message to a great meeting and to millions of radio listeners, the President added emphasis to his counsel.

President Hoover made no direct plea to the veterans to forego the demand for an additional bonus payment. He did not separate them from all other American citizens when he said that what he desired to do was to point out the path of service. But he made it plain that the national welfare demanded determined opposition to further bonus payments and all other projects proposed in the country for additional drains upon the Treasury "until we have won the war against world depression."

Outlining briefly the decreased income of the Government, and the strict economy that is being exacted in every department of the Federal administration, Mr. Hoover warned that "every additional expenditure placed upon the Government in this emergency magnifies itself out of all proportion into intolerable pressures, whether it be by taxation or by loans. Either loans or taxes beyond the very minimum necessities of government will drain the resources of industry and commerce and in turn will increase unemployment."

The spontaneous enthusiasm with which the President's arrival at the convention was received and the ovation given him at the conclusion of his address were indications that his exposition of the necessities of the present situation met with general approval. The President did not minimize the difficulties of the financial situation that confronts the Government. He told the legion members plainly that "we can carry our present expenditures without jeopardy to national stability. We can carry no more without grave risks." As a faithful trustee he explained conditions as they exist, and left to the veterans the impressive statement that "the first stone in the foundation of stability and recovery both at home and in the world is the stability of the Government of the United States." "It is my purpose," he added, "to maintain that stability and I invite you to enlist in the fight. Your country's need of this service is second only to war."

That is a ringing call for cooperation, and there is every reason to hope and believe the veterans will give now the same patriotic and efficient service which they rendered their country when they were in uniform.

Nothing would give greater encouragement to the whole people than the hearty assurance by the American Legion that it will stand firmly behind President Hoover and cooperate with him in the restoration of prosperity.

OPENING OF SCHOOLS.

At the close of the school day yesterday—the opening of the scholastic year—68,935 children, white and colored, had enrolled in the public schools. This was a decrease of 1,058 over last year's enrollment of 69,993, a fact attributed to the Jewish holiday, Yom Kippur. It is believed by the authorities that more than 70,000 children will have entered school by the end of the week.

As the foregoing figures include enrollment in all grades, from the kindergarten to teachers' college, it is interesting to note the distribution, which is as follows: Teachers' College, 592; an increase of 337 over last year. High schools, 11,892, an increase of 4 pupils. Junior high schools, 11,749, an increase of 1,662. This heavy enrollment in the junior high schools is attributed to the elimination of the seventh and eighth grades in the grammar schools, an innovation that marks the new school year. As a result, the lower grades this year show a decrease of 2,788 pupils, the total enrollment being 43,965. Vocational training schools enrolled 737, an addition of 27 pupils over last year.

The white school population is given as 45,591, a decrease of 1,848; while the colored schools gained 790 over last year, bringing their total up to 23,344.

While Washington's school population probably will be larger than that of a year ago, the school equipment again furnishes the only source of complaint. Several hundred pupils yesterday were unable to sit in class rooms because furniture had not arrived on time.

ENGLAND'S REORGANIZATION.

The British government has finally adopted a policy which, if carried to its logical conclusion, will effect the reorganization of the nation on a sound basis. No longer able to redeem all its paper money with gold, England has suspended gold payments. The suspension, it is announced, is to be temporary, and doubtless that is a true statement. But the pound sterling will drop to a new valuation in gold—indeed, it has already dropped in all markets that remain open. Many of the great markets in Europe were closed yesterday for the purpose of preventing a collapse of the value of the pound sterling.

The British treasury holds about $650,000,000 in gold, which is barely sufficient to meet the necessities of the government itself. It must redeem its obligations in gold, as it has promised to do. Foreign bondholders will not suffer.

The pound sterling has been held at a fictitious value since the war. The effort to maintain this value has cost Great Britain dearly, and it is the part of wisdom to abandon the attempt. The shrinkage of exports, the ever-increasing cost of imports and the dwindling of Britain's foreign investments have done their work. Now the financial structure of Britain must be reorganized on a lower basis.

The brunt of the hardship of this ordeal will fall upon the people of the British Isles. They must pay more in depreciated currency for what they buy. Wages will purchase less food. The dole, already cut down, will not buy what it bought last week.

Great Britain has been spending $2,500,000,000 annually for imported food. It must now spend more, if it is to buy foreign food with money that is worth less than before. The foreigner will not reduce the price to conform to the lower purchasing power of the pound sterling.

Hundreds of thousands of acres of land capable of producing food are held in idleness in the British Isles, much of it reserved in great shooting estates. Doubtless the new privations resulting from the depreciation in the purchasing power of English money will expedite the process of breaking up the great landed estates in order to increase the agricultural output. But the nation must do more than this, as there is not enough agricultural land in Great Britain to sustain the people, even if every acre of it were cultivated. It is an industrial country. The workers must have work. The only method by which work can be created is to set up a protective tariff which will protect home workers and encourage home capital to resume manufacturing. Britain is a good market, although not comparable in size with the American market. The people of Britain are entitled to enjoy their home market. By monopolizing it they can provide work for millions and can produce much more food, thereby cutting down the immense outflow of money.

While Britain is undergoing this reorganization the credit of the country will suffer. But there is no excuse for a panic in other countries as a result of Britain's abandonment of gold payments. The United States saw German currency collapse entirely, but there was no panic here. France subsequently revaluated the franc at one-fifth of its former gold value, and emerged safely, with no panic in the United States.

For the time being other countries have done all that they could do with safety in assisting Britain to maintain the exchangeability of the pound sterling at the old figure. Now they have reached the end of their rope. No more gold will be lent to Britain, and Britain is not asking for more. She is courageously undertaking to readjust her money to its actual value. Some financiers believe that this operation will result in the stabilization of the pound sterling at about $1. Others believe that Great Britain's resources are such as to make the pound sterling ultimately worth about $2.50 in gold. Whatever the figures, British money will be worth its face in gold, which it has not been in fact for ten years. The fiction that the pound was worth $4.85 has cost Great Britain billions of dollars. The delay in enacting a protective tariff has cost billions more.

EFFICIENT RELIEF WORK.

The many expressions of confidence coming from all parts of the country must be gratifying to Chairman Gifford and the able men who compose the various national committees chosen by the President to assist in the organization of unemployment relief. The feeling becomes general that with such recognized executive ability directing preparations for the winter campaigns by States and municipalities there will be no lack of either emergency employment or direct help for the sick or incapacitated.

The wisdom of handling all relief work through local organizations is constantly more apparent as reports come from the experience of established agencies. Intimate personal relations and knowledge of community requirements are necessary if duplication of effort and flagrant impositions are to be avoided. Indiscriminate distribution of help without a return in work, or without due investigation, leads to many abuses.

Even in what are considered normal times there are in this country from 1,000,000 to 2,000,000 persons out of work. It is an inevitable condition due to shifts in population, business changes and other readily understood causes. Comparatively few of these persons require support. They have some reserve funds, or live with their families or relatives until they are again employed, and yet their numbers swell the unemployed rolls.

There are no exact figures to show the number of those who are permanently and constitutionally opposed to physical effort to secure a living, but they add considerably to the list of unemployed, though deserving of very little consideration in the scheme of relief work. They get along somehow year in and year out in their peregrinations among a charitable people. By some clannish means of communication word quickly passes among them as to where "easy" food and lodging are to be found.

Communities that have begun distributing aid indiscriminately without knowledge of the recipients have soon found themselves swamped by these unworthy drifters. It has been amply demonstrated that proper and deserving relief work can only be carried on through local, organized and coordinated agencies which can undertake the necessary inquiries and personal contacts that insure efficient service and prevent waste of effort and funds.

It is impossible to hide anything from that keen political analyst, Chairman Shouse. He discovered the very first day that Postmaster General Brown's reminder to the political appointees among the postmasters that there was no law against their engaging in political activities was not designed primarily as a boost for the Democratic party.

Before the people commit themselves to 3 per cent beer to cure unemployment they should be sure that it is intoxicating in fact and not merely in theory.

These foreign promises are deceitful. Even Canada fails to deliver that cold wave on time.

What is this grand jury giving the police, if it isn't the third degree?

WHEAT IN THE DIET

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Wheat seems to be very much in the news nowadays, and remembering your good cooperation in the educational work of the National War Garden Commission during the World War, it may be well to recall that there may be a close relation between the war garden and the wheat situation of today.

The slogan in the war days was "Food f. o. b. the Kitchen Door" and the war gardeners could be counted by the thousand. It is just possible that many of those thousands are still continuing their gardening. At any rate, if the American people consume products of the wheat field as they did 50 years ago, some 6,300,000,000 more pounds of wheat flour would be consumed annually than is the case today.

During the last fourteen years the food habits of the American people have changed. This shift is both interesting and of great economic importance. It is due largely to several different campaigns of public education that have militated against wheat products and in favor of other items in the diet. The Federal Farm Board would do well to consider a like program in favor of wheat consumption.

If the American people consumed products of the wheat field as they did 50 years ago some 6,300,000,000 more pounds of wheat flour would be consumed annually than is the case today. This is equivalent to more than 8,000,000,000 pound-loaves of bread. It represents a per capita decrease in wheat flour consumption from 223 pounds to 177 pounds. Every year, on account of this decrease, 147,300,000 bushels of wheat must find new markets. And why?

During the war the Nation enlisted under the banner of the National War Garden Commission. Wheat was needed for the men of the line, and the people responded. In 1918 some 5,000,000 war gardens, growing a crop conservatively valued at $500,000,000, were planted. This activity not only released the valued wheat for Army purposes, but it introduced many, many people to fresh vegetables and fruits. It started many habits of vegetable diet or change in diet—often both.

Other factors have entered into the picture. For example, the citrus fruit industry has combined into different groups and through them nationally advertised the healthful values of fruits, vastly increasing consumption. Growers and canners of vegetables have done the same thing. Vitamins have been "sold" to the American people in the printed word and over the air. Slenderness is the style, and to attain it a more or less wheatless diet is prescribed.

It is interesting to note what all those and other educational campaigns have done for vegetable products at the expense of wheat. In the last seven years 25 leading truck crops have enlarged their acreage by 39.4 per cent. In the ten years since 1920 fifteen important crops have increased car loadings 60.6 per cent. Lettuce ranks next to potatoes, 55,700 car loads of it moving from the shippers now as compared to 12,142 in 1920. Four times as many carrots are being eaten today as ten years ago. Spinach has forged ahead in about the same proportion, jumping from 2,800 cars to 10,000 cars in a decade.

All this dietary change could not take place without some other item of food feeling the effects. And wheat has suffered. It has bowed to the power of high-powered advertising, to the advance of refrigeration in transport, to the perfection of canning. If it is to regain its place it needs some one to plead its cause and to re-create demand for its use. If, on the other hand, the diet of America today is better than that of 50 years ago; if we are better off with salads, fruit, green vegetables and a lesser amount of meat than we were with a diet of bread, potatoes and meat, then some steps need to be taken to bring the production of wheat more closely within the limits of the demand for it.

It is too often a practice to accept old economic laws as gospel. After all, civilization is most of the time progressing. Progress means change—change in tastes, in habits and in standards of living. We would do well to consider the current problem of wheat from this viewpoint.

POST HASTE.

Now watch the silverites try to horn in on the British suspension of gold payments.

Mr. Shouse is tapering off the Democratic committee's constitutional repeal spree on legislative light wine and beer.

If any one doubted President Hoover's courage his trip to beard the Legion denizens demonstrated that he has the sort that "mounteth with occasion."

The governor of Manchuria is acting on the tip from Gandhi and us that his best bet is not to try to fight Japan.

"Poor old England—" Not yet; no Englishman wants your pity, and he fights best when "facing fearful odds."

"British common sense, if given a chance," says Lloyd George, "will find a way out." Possibly John Bull needed a hard jolt to make him realize how he was slipping.

Political prognostications can be made just as accurately today as any prophet can foretell what the business situation will be a year from now.

Democrats find the Shouse platform so comprehensive that if Mr. Raskob also insists upon it, it may be easier to consider just scrapping the Constitution and "buy laws" and starting all over again.

The Westinghouse company has an order for the largest synchronous condenser ever made. If it is to be used on the cotton crop another must be provided for wheat.

Speaking of safety slogans, a girl got a $100 prize for "Don't trifle with traffic."

It has been a dull summer for the boys who have to write a big political piece every day. Setting up a "draft Coolidge" dummy and knocking it down again has had to do double duty.

We find that very few really lose a job these days, though quite a number may be suffering temporarily from technological dislocations in their respective industries.

No news in the Graf Zeppelin's Atlantic flight. It arrived in Brazil on time.

Gen. Smedley Butler was recently mentioned for a senatorship, and now it's only for a representative's seat. First thing you know he will just be one of the presidential dark broncos.

And then there was the Washington man who went to New York to consult the bankers and found them "the Lord's frozen people."

THE GAME OF LIFE.

Youth takes a fling at fame and middle-age will dice
With fortune high or low to sell its strength at better price.
But later when the blood grows cool the older man will find
That from the lesser joys of life comes greater peace of mind.

Youth runs the race that's swift and likes the battle hot,
And middle-age oft looks for peace in joys that have it not,
But men in life's late afternoon their past mistakes review,
And see they might have lived their lives without so much ado.

For each will quit the fields they hold when comes the proper time.
And each will later come to sit beneath a shady tree

Why Serve in the Ranks If You Can Be the General in Command

By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE modern woman eager for a career throws away her greatest opportunity.

She is like those misguided and unhappy men who scorn the work for which they have a natural talent and thus doom themselves to failure.

Her first false step is caused by her failure to understand that success is measured by achievement—not by methods or appearances.

Many an executive fails because he is unwilling to delegate authority to others and so wears himself out in the effort to supervise countless details.

Only the artist can win success by himself. Others achieve greatness by inspiring able lieutenants and thus multiplying themselves. No matter how great their genius, the world's Napoleons must win their crowns by using other men.

This is the fundamental secret of success overlooked by the modern woman. Though she alone is endowed by nature with the ability to multiply herself, she thrusts aside this priceless advantage and limits herself to the success that can be achieved by her own unaided efforts.

Women of genius can succeed as artists despite the limitations of their sex. In other fields, commonly dominated by men, their sex robs them of the success their intelligence deserves. Nature fixed their role; and no matter how masculine they may become, they fall short of the greatness they might achieve as women.

The great women of history, like the great executives of today, are those who learned to use men as tools.

Greatest of modern women was Belle Case, wife of Robert M. aFollette. She chose a man who was determined to be an actor and made him governor of a civilized State, a senator, a worthy candidate for the Presidency. Of her own flesh and blood she created other men and made one of them a governor and another a senator.

Hers was a career no man can match.

Why should any woman possessed of brains exhaust her energies in doing one man's work in defiance of Nature when she can achieve ten times as much as the guide and inspiration of masculine tools?

PRO AND CON

House Insurgents.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

It was apparent immediately after the last congressional elections that the Republicans could not organize the next House without the support of all the insurgents. To obtain this support, concessions will be necessary. The first concrete proposal to this end, for the election of Representative Mapes, of Michigan, as Speaker and Representative Frear, of Wisconsin, as floor leader, has not had a favorable reaction. Mr. Mapes is a regular Republican and Mr. Frear is classed at least as a "Progressive."

It is not easy to visualize the Republicans placing themselves under Mr Frear's leadership merely to win the doubtful privilege of organizing the House. With the parties so evenly divided, little is to be gained from accepting the responsibility which will accompany nominal control. The opposition is all set to play politics with an eye to the 1932 campaign. The Democrats and Insurgents are preparing to press their radical measures for dealing with unemployment. With a dependable majority, however small, the Republicans would be foolish to surrender control to the Democrats. But after joining with the Republicans in organizing the House, so as to gain committee positions for themselves, the Insurgents would be ready to desert at the first opportunity.

Hoover on the Aggressive.

Baltimore Sun.

President Hoover's decision personally to carry an antibonus message to the American Legion convention at Detroit bespeaks a disposition to go out to meet trouble which the present Chief Executive has not heretofore shown. Mr. Hoover has been content, for the most part, to express the hope that everything would come out well, while doing nothing to shape events in accordance with his desires. Perhaps he will, by the sheer unexpectedness of his appearance, win support, as he did by the sheer unexpectedness of his moratorium proposal. He is at least to be commended for taking the offensive.

Just Around.

Macon Telegraph.

If the explorers are itching to find out-of-the-way places why don't they get up an expedition to search for the Unknown Corner prosperity is hiding behind?

To Promote Home Ownership.

Detroit News.

"It should be possible in our country for any person of sound character and industrious habits to provide himself with adequate and suitable housing, and preferably to own his own home." Thus President Hoover states a problem, the solution of which is to be the aim of one of the most important of his special conferences.

December 2, upward of 1,000 representatives of organizations either actively engaged in some sort of activities affecting home building or directly interested in its promotion, will meet in Washington. Elaborate preparation has been made. "Twenty-five committees, headed by men and women of authority and experience," says the announcement, "have been engaged for months in gathering and analyzing available information." Such a rallying of talent should at least focus public attention and convince the entire country of the importance of the subject considered.

False Hopes.

Mankato (Minn.) Free Press.

Resurrection of the equalization fee proposal, as contained in the McNary-Haugen bill, or adoption of the export debenture plan to aid the wheat farmer during the approaching session of Congress, seems particularly futile in view of existing conditions.

The world is in the grip of overproduction. Some might define it as underconsumption. The point is immaterial insofar as any relief through artificial stimulation of the price of any one commodity, such as wheat, is concerned.

Peg the price of wheat at any given figure, where a profit to the producer is assured while the prices of other farm products are down, and every marginal acre in the country will be planted to wheat another year. The surplus then, instead of staggering, would be overwhelming. The Farm Board's brief excursion into the field of price stabilization proved that. Beg, plead and exhort as they would, officials of the Department of Agriculture were unable to keep the wheat farmer from increasing his acreage this year. The final answer to the price stimulation of a year ago is written in the ruinous prices wheat is bringing today.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Tariff and Prohibition Held to Be Progressive and Necessary Under Present Conditions.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: In his latest declaration of war against the Republican party and bid for the Presidency, Gov. Ritchie makes a strenuous appeal for reduction of the obnoxious tariff and abolition of the prohibition amendment. Notwithstanding coyote clamor, the forests are not full of the wolves who would tear to pieces either the tariff or prohibition. Both are progressive and protective measures.

I have a handsome tie which I recently purchased at a drug store for a quarter. Sewed to it is a label, "La derniere facon de cravat de Paris." No haberdasher in the land could sell it, if made in this country, at less than a dollar and make a profit. I was recently asked by a lady if I had tried the Russian candy. If Soviet candy, matches and other articles are to invade our shores an army of storekeepers will soon be in bankruptcy. Out on our country roads Soviet gasoline is being bootleged at 10 cents a gallon. How many legitimate service stations can stand up against this invasion?

As to prohibition, Gov. Ritchie says the people want the truth. Well, here it is. With the country filling to overflowing with motor cars, trucks, busses and airplanes, these can not be run by those who drink. The scientific fact is that one stiff drink makes a man drunk. He is abnormal. Lindbergh neither drinks nor smokes. Every flight succeeds. If the truth were known, nine-tenths of the crashes might be found due to liquor. In this era of delicate machinery we must tighten up on the use of liquor or be destroyed. The trouble with Gov. Ritchie is he is obsessed with delusions, not truth.

EMOLAS.

Abolition of Prohibition Would Not Abolish Bootleggers and Beer Barons, Says Writer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Have just read Fenton Gall's letter in The Post deploring the fact that labor leaders spend money on beer propaganda when workingmen need bread.

I am heartily in favor of Mr. Gall's sentiments and arguments. I wish every voter in the United States could read them and give careful consideration, unbiased by the enormous flood of propaganda seeking by hysterical repetition to drown the individual's commen sense and ability to see things in their true light.

I grant that bootleggers and beer barons are growing enormously wealthy by traffic in alcoholic beverages; that crime and corruption are rampant, but, I do not admit that by simply abolishing prohibition you are going to do away with these evils. These powerful underworld rings would still derive immense incomes from gambling, prostitution and dope. And who says they would not still manufacture alcoholic beverages and dispense them through their present well-organized and well-protected channels, without the formality of paying to Uncle Sam that revenue, the loss of which at the present time is causing such a vast amount of concern to some people?

Suggests That Milk Producers Organize to Prevent Return of Beer.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The number of people engaged in the production, transportation and delivery of milk is very great, running into millions. Do these people realize that it is to their interest to prevent the return of the brewery? Before the adoption of the eighteenth amendment beer formed a part of the noonday lunch of millions of workingmen in all grades of labor. It does not today, simply because it is not available. Milk has taken its place, and the empty milk bottle is a common sight wherever labor takes its lunch, and this is one reason for the enormously increased production of milk in late years. With breweries operating and beer easily available, the demand for milk would inevitably fall off. Incidentally the laboring man would pay a large part of the increased tax which the advocates of the brewery propose to put on beer.

An enlightened self-interest which would include sympathy for the day laborer and a desire to prevent additional taxation being laid upon him would seem to indicate that all who are engaged in the milk business should oppose by every means in their power the return of the brewery.

Ownership of Homes Should Be Encouraged as Promoting Stability.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of September 17 on "Ownership of Homes" is highly commendable. The more home owners in any given area in proportion to the whole population, the more stability and contentment you will find as a rule. Hence all legitimate efforts to promote the purchase, or building, of homes should be encouraged.

Movements to remove hindrances and hazards to purchasing on the installment plan are properly in order, and there is room for much improvement in safeguarding such ventures. It is regrettable in the extreme that supersalesmanship is indulged by some dealers without due regard to the safety of the home seeker.

Recent scandalous developments in real estate dealings in Washington are a stench to every decent citizen, and should inspire to radical reformation in the business.

The finest sentiments of human nature and the noblest principles of character crystallize around the home—the real home—and home owning will in large measure promote these.

Bicentennial Air Program Planned

Aeronautics Committee Is Formed to Arrange for This Feature.

The District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission announced yesterday formation of an aeronautics committee which is to supervise a program for air observance of the bicentennial.

Members of the committee are Maj. Burdett Wright chairman; Col. E. C. Fauntleroy, Cliff Ball, Paul Collins, John S. Wynne Lawrence E. Williams, Earl W. Findley, Senator Hiram Bingham, Frank Fay E. G. Cross and John Rabbitt. Gerald E. Force, of the commission staff, is serving as secretary.

Preliminary plans call for erection of a permanent aviation exhibit in Washington to be viewed by bicentennial visitors, and for an air demonstration August 19, 1932, in recognition of Orville Wright's birthday and paying homage to the memory of George Washington. That date would be "Aviation Day" on the bicentennial program.

Fire Sweeps Buildings At Chester Ford Plant

Chester, Pa., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Fire of undetermined origin early today swept through three buildings of the Chester plant of the Ford Motor Co. causing extensive damage.

Ten minutes after the blaze was discovered a terrific explosion rocked the building used for the enameling of automobile parts. The flames spread rapidly and continued to gain headway for nearly two hours before firemen were able to check their sweep. The plant is located on the southern outskirts of the city along the Delaware River front.

Thief of $3,666,929 Surrendered to Courts

Chicago, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Walter E. Wolf, confessed embezzler of $3,666,929 from the Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co., was surrendered today to State's Attorney John A. Swanson for prosecution.

Swanson said he expected the former $75-a-week coupon department manager to plead guilty and said the grand jury would return an indictment Thursday.

Soviet Still Detains Professor's Wife

New Haven, Conn., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Prof. Dmitri Krynine of Yale University, who has for two years unsuccessfully attempted to persuade Moscow authorities to permit his wife to join him in this country, today said his application to George Bernard Shaw and Lady Astor in July has resulted in another refusal.

He received a cablegram yesterday, he said, in which Mme. Krynine told of the official refusal of her application for a passport, and added that she would make another application in a month. She was notified of the refusal September 10.

Prof. Krynine, in July, sent cablegrams to both Lady Astor and George Bernard Shaw, then visiting in Russia, begging them "in the name of humanitarian principles," to aid his wife to gain a passport to leave Moscow.

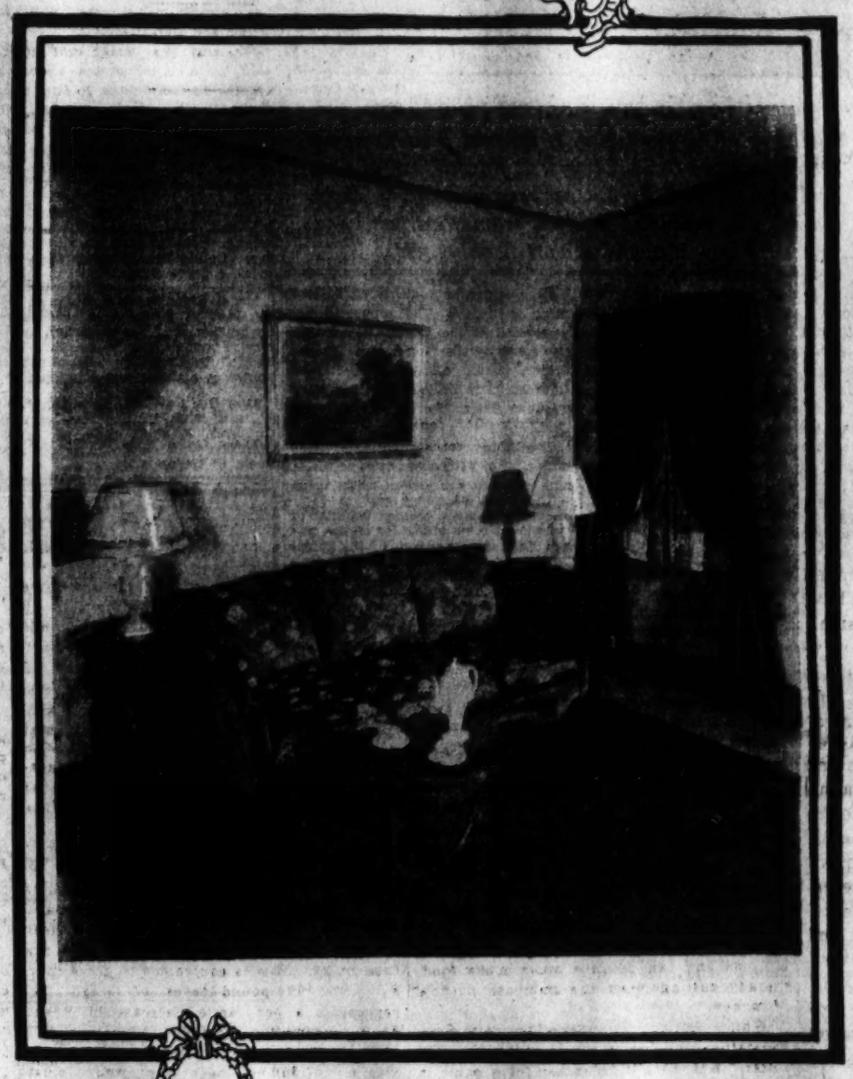
HOME DECORATIONS



An especially gracious arrangement, photographed in our Furniture Galleries, combines the Louis XV and Louis XVI periods. An inviting sofa, in green antique velvet—a pair of exquisite alabaster lamps in white—on a pair of equally exquisite tables—and dark red damask draperies (ready made)—make a corner of unusual distinction.

Consult the Woodward & Lothrop Studio of Interior Decoration

Whether your problem be the selection of a single important piece—the furnishing of a simple room—a town apartment, or a palatial town house—we are confident that a visit to and consultation with this Studio will prove most pleasing and satisfactory in the matter of correct home furnishings.

The Important Furniture "News" Is the Harmonious Combining of Many Periods

No single style predominates—and with the result that we now have a more delightfully livable quality in our homes than can be achieved when furniture and furnishings are of a single type. Occupying an important place—the late 18th Century period—here we use Chippendale particularly in occasional furniture—Sheraton, Hepplewhite and their corresponding American version—Duncan Phyfe and Queen Anne also play a smart part—and here you may choose them in their best examples—pieces that retain a period influence, and offer "down-cushioned luxury" as well.

FURNITURE, SIXTH FLOOR

Rugs and Carpets Reveal an Equal Importance of Plain Colors and Designs

The desire for more colorful interiors—as well as a new appreciation of the term "fashion" as applied to home furnishings—is having a decided effect on new floor coverings. In certain types of interiors, the beautiful Orientals, and the present-day reproductions, at comparatively inexpensive prices, are the only floor coverings. In others we find the plain color broadloom carpets—adding to their ubiquitous tan and taupe tones, new, beautiful eggplant, blue-greens, or tawny Autumn colorings. The collection here is one of the finest to be found—in both quality and value.

FLOOR COVERINGS, FIFTH FLOOR

Lamps, Among Decorative Accessories, Offer Great Variety and Individuality

Alabaster, porcelain—are outstanding—shapes range from the exquisite urn and column types to the amusing and decorative little Dresden types—pottery lamps are here in many smart versions—indeed, with the tremendous interest in period accessories, lamps will play a greater part than ever in our decorations. Of course, there are countless fashions in shades—but the simple drum of Empire shapes are prominently shown—it is here that the feeling for the 19th Century period is being felt in decoration.

LAMPS, SEVENTH FLOOR

In Its Windows Lies Much of the Charm of a Home

And, here again, we have the feeling toward greater variety and contrast—with a wealth of interesting fabrics from which to choose—for both draperies and upholstery. Formal fabrics—Moire, Velvet, Taffeta, Damask—also formal-patterned Chintz are important—almost every kind of trimming is usable—ball-fringe, cords, elaborate swags, shaped valances—to achieve the utmost in drapery and upholstery beauty for your home. Do see this fine collection of fabrics—and curtains.

DRAPERIES, SEVENTH FLOOR

We particularly invite you to see The Furnished Apartments (Sixth Floor)—they offer you an opportunity to inspect the result of harmoniously combining many periods.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

IS INFANTILE PARALYSIS SPREAD BY FOODS?

TWO years ago a part of California was having somewhat the same experience with infantile paralysis that parts of New York are now having. They found, as the East has done, that closing of schools, keeping children out of school, prevention of travel and any other precautions of control made use of in 1916 were of no service. Probably these methods accomplished nothing then, just as they were ineffective later on.

Based on the California experience, Dr. M. T. Burrows says we have been going at the thing wrong because we had a wrong understanding of the disease. We even have the disease named wrong. His opinion is that it is an intestinal disease, and that we take infection into the body much as we take in typhoid infection. On this theory, when infantile paralysis is around, we should eat no raw food, milk, water, vegetables, fruit or other articles; and we should be scrupulously clean as to our hands, and what we eat and drink with. The common drinking cup should be abolished. Perhaps we should war on flies and dust, as we tried to do some 30 or more years ago when some epidemics had us frightened.

The theory is that the microbes of infantile paralysis are swallowed and pass down the digestive tract to the same area in which typhoid locates. If they find entrance at this location they set up some bowel disturbance, or cause constipation and fever. If the physician examines his cases very closely he finds some abdominal tenderness, and a considerable enlargement of the glands. This, Dr. Burrows calls a typical case of the disease. Nine times out of ten that is all there is to the disorder. The name of the disease, therefore, should be changed, since paralysis is nothing more than an unusual complication. Occasionally, it happens that a few days after the acute symptoms have subsided, but while the disease is still active, the infection gets away from its point of first location and is carried to the spinal cord.

When this happens the fever may return and with it comes muscle soreness, tenderness, some aches, and a slowly progressing paralysis of a few muscles. Still later, there comes wasting of the paralyzed muscles. Since attention is so centered on the paralysis and wasting, physicians and laymen alike overlook the cases that never show these symptoms, and it is these, that are most responsible for the spread of the disease.

Should this theory prove correct, health officers should shift their attention to food flies, especially during hot weather. They should find a laboratory method of diagnosing the disease when the only symptoms are a mild fever, mild bowel disturbance, and enlarged glands. They should find a large animal that can supply a curative and preventive serum.

POMPHOLYX.

M. F. E. writes: What is pompholyx, and what is the cure?

REPLY.

Blisters on the feet. The condition comes in hot weather especially. Many cases of pompholyx are called ringworm of the foot and athlete's foot. Errors in the other direction tend to balance the account.

The simplest preventive is to use dusting powders very freely on the feet and socks, and in the shoes.

Jane Corbett Interprets the Mode

New York, Sept. 21.

'N SPEAKING of lingerie, as we do every so often, it all depends on you! I mean, it all depends on where you are—or where you're going! For it's divided its lovely self into two distinct classes with the coming of autumn, and woe betide the lovely lady who tries to mix 'em!

The first class, which is just as important and no more so than the second class, is "daytime lingerie." This is tailored, form fitting, untrimmed or slightly trimmed lingerie that's particularly suitable to wear beneath the wool crepe and dark daytime frocks, never to actually reveal its presence there. Well-tailored shorts or culottes fit very closely about the waist, and aren't the least bit bulkily. Slips are not very wide, and are fitted with brassiere-top arrangements that make them very snug at the bust. And they are ingeniously made shadow proof by inbrusted panels or wrap-around arrangements. 'Cause wool crepes are very, very thin, my deahs, 'n' satin crepes often are much more transparent than one suspects—and fashion, whether just for fashion or because of a return of Victorian modesty, has decreed that to be fashionable one must be opaque!

But—Evening Lingerie

Takes another course. It's frivolous, lacy, adorable! Finest satin is used for slips and nighties, and appliqued not just in spots, but all over, with dark exquisite lace! Crisply rustling taffeta is used for wide evening petticoats, with rows and rows of taffeta ruffles, and these ruffles are generally lace edge. 'N' panties and brassieres are as tiny as they can possibly be, and either entirely of lace or so lace trimmed that they appear to be. Ladies who are lovely after dark demand lingerie as lovely as their gowns.

* * * *

Black astrakhan sort of dares couturiers to commit their most original designs this autumn. It's a bold sort of fur, and enters upon unusual treatments in a very effective way. The coat I sketch for you today, to which the astrakhan is "hitched," as it were, is of black suede cloth, with the shoulders and sleeves cut in one piece for breadth, and very distinctive incrustations on the coat bodice and skirt. 'N' the astrakhan is put on in wide bands about the elbow, and in a squarish yoke that mounts into an upstanding ruff collar.

* * * *

* * * *

You can buy a really wonderful quality of astrakhan for very little money, comparatively, these days, so why not buy yours in some different and distinctive form?

* * * *

That "spare tire" of fat around your waist has always been bad for your silhouette, but never quite as bad as now, when slim waists and hips must melt harmoniously and without a creak into the uplifted bust line. 'N' if you have every tried to get corsets to do away with the bulge you know that they cost a lot of money. But you don't have to spend a lot of money, for if you sit down now and send your stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Post for this week's illustrated leaflet you'll get careful and explicit directions for making a corset for yourself—one that totally eliminates the "spare tire," too!

Au Revoir!

"VIRGO."

IF September 22 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 11 a. m., and from 5:15 p. m. to 7:45 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m.

September 22, viewed astrologically, will be a mildly favorable day, but does not hold forth any spectacular or eventful expectancy. Normalcy will be the keynote, and under such influences, speculation and risk should be avoided, and nothing out of the ordinary should be attempted.

A child born on this September 22 will be intellectual, studious, well informed, and an excellent and interesting conversationalist. In early years, its opinions will be quite extreme. Age will mellow and moderate its views, however. It should not marry young, as its standards of value will, with increased age, undergo a complete metamorphosis.

You, if born on September 22, are happy-go-lucky. You take life as you find it, and make the most of it. Come rain, come shine, you never worry nor do you ever become unduly elated. Ambition does not grip you, and very little satisfies you. Indolence is not, however, one of your vices. Indifference is your outstanding weakness. Only on infrequent occasions do you give a thought to life's problems, and then you snap out of it as quickly as possible.

Your freedom from worry, and your ability in making the best of what may be a bad job, endear you to many, and your friends are legion. The congeniality of your disposition is infectious, and, by your attitude, you are often able to relieve the cares of others, and enable them to glimpse the silver lining of many dark clouds.

If a woman, you are naturally shy in the society of men, but once you have thawed, you prove yourself to be a sympathetic companion and a dependable friend. You are not a tagger, nor a gossip-monger. Your heart is capable of a strong and passionate love, and your horoscope denotes that you will make some man supremely happy.

Both men and women are not exceptionally neat or tidy, neither are they fussy. They may not be, from the world's point of view, successful. They are destined, however, to be content and happy.

Successful people born on September 22:

Joseph Seligman, banker.

Peter Turney, jurist.

Business Women To Get New Home

Plans Filed by Y. W. C. H. for $9,500 Structure on Second Street.

The Young Women's Christian Home plans a new four-story building on Second street between C street and Maryland avenue northeast, it was revealed yesterday when plans to erect the structure were filed at the District Building.

The new building will cost $9,500, will be constructed of brick and concrete and will contain 84 rooms. Razing of buildings to make way for the new home will begin as soon as the permit for building is granted, it was announced by the trustees of the home. The site for the new home is in the same block with the headquarters of the Women's Party Club.

The Young Women's Christian Home, a distinct organization from the Young Women's Christian Association, was established in Washington about 42 years ago. Its object is to give a home environment to young women in business. The present home is at 311 C street northwest. Mrs. R. E. M. Dumbell is president of the board of trustees.

Staff Is Increased In Y.W.C.A. School

Additions Result From Demand in Advance of Opening.

Because of heavy advance demand for courses not offered elsewhere in the city, the Young Women's Christian Association has increased its staff for the coming winter, particularly in the department of general education, which is headed by Mrs. William Hurd Hill, with Mrs. Irving W. Ketchum as secretary, it has been announced.

The new instructors will begin their lecture series about October 5. Registration will open today at Seventeenth and K streets.

Among the new lecturers will be Miss Bertha Bass, A. M.; Mrs. Lydia S. Carroll, Senora Maria Z. de Arias, of the Pan-American Union; Miss Edna Goodwin, Mrs. Elizabeth W. Heilman, Henry D. Hubbard, A. B., and assistant to the director of the United States Bureau of Standards; Ira Lee Law, of the District of Columbia Red Cross; Mrs. Alonzo McDaniel, M. A.; Capt. Fortunato Porotto, Dr. Grace G. Purse, M. D.; Mrs. Ina Ritter, Veban P. Sharpless, A. B., junior astronomer at the United States Naval Observatory.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

By ELY CULBERTSON

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

A JUMP OVERCALL.

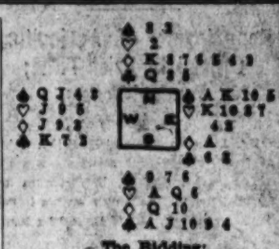
When the bidding is opened by one side, it is admittedly considerably more difficult for their opponents to reach a game, especially when the bulk of the strength held by the defending players is massed in one hand. The very fact that one player at the table has been strong enough to make an Opening bid and that partner of the player has been strong enough to assist or overcall, creates a psychological barrier which the players on the other side have to overcome if they decide to adopt aggressive tactics and bid for game themselves.

The means of conveying accurate information are not nearly so plentiful for the defending players as for those who have opened the bidding. In Contract Bridge, as in war, attack is often the best defense. It erects an imponderable barrier which tends to make difficult the disclosure of the allied strength on the other side and requires of the partnership holding the defending hands the ability to draw exact inferences and act intelligently thereon.

Today's hand, given me by Commander W. B. Howe, of the United States Navy, deals with a rather unusual bidding situation which the player in the East was able to turn so to the benefit of himself and his partner that they scored game and rubber after his partner had passed the Opening adverse bid.

Both sides vulnerable.

South—Dealer.



The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
1♣(1)	Pass	1◇(2)	3♡(3)
Pass	3♣(4)	Pass	4♣(5)
Pass	Pass	Pass

1—South's hand contains more than three honor-tricks and fully justifies the Opening bid.

2—North holds adequate support for South's club bid but the length of the diamond suit is the determining factor in his effort to improve the bid.

3—East desires to picture a rarely strong hand and one containing strength in both major suits. If partner has any strength game is not an impossibility even with two bidding opponents and a passing partner. The Jump Overcall is not Forcing but requires partner to respond with a weak, but not a bust, hand.

4—West answers his partner's call. He rightly reasons that East must be prepared for a very weak spade bid or is able to rebid his hearts. No harm can come by determining which it is.

5—East feels justified in his game bid in spades. His hand is very strong distributionally and West has made a distinct affirmation of some playing strength, including at least four spades in his hand. East realizes that if game is to be bid, he much bid it.

In the play North opened his Queen of clubs in response to his partner's bid. West, in on the second round, took two rounds of trumps, then established the hearts, losing two hearts and one club.

TODAY'S POINTER.

A bluff one notrump Overcall without a stopper in the opponent's bid suit is one of the simplest and most effective means of checking the opponents from bidding for a game or Slam. When First Hand opens with, say, one spade and the Second Hand overcalls with one notrump the normal inference is that the notrump shows a hand of general strength, including at least one stopper in the bid suit.

This obvious inference, moreover, furnishes the basis for a surprise attack after partner has passed. Second Hand opens with the suit bid and it is evident to the Third Hand, whose side is not vulnerable, that the opponents will reach game. This bid by the Third hand is directed largely at Fourth Hand, whose Responses it aims to block.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of The Washington Post, inclosing a 2-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope.

ANSWERS TO INQUIRIES.

PLEASE tell me what can be done with a Boston fern that is covered with white lice. The leaves are turning brown and the plant does not seem to have much life, though it is quite a large fern.

MRS. GEORGE S.

All you can do is to take a small brush and dislodge the insects. It is a case of scale, which are tenacious little insects. In order to prevent a return of these pests it will be necessary to spray both sides of the fronds twice a week with cold water. You may have to remove the worst infested of the fronds and in cases where it is impossible to clean the plant it is sometimes necessary to cut it back to the root.

Please tell me the name of the plant from which the inclosed leaf was taken. It bears a flower and the plant grows about two feet tall. F. D. W.

I am sorry, but I do not know the plant; it is likely a wildling.

Please tell me the name of a weed destroyer which will rid my grass of dandelions, plantain, moneywort and ground ivy. LOIS M. O.

I am sorry, but we can not publish names of proprietary articles in this column. Your seedsman will likely be able to tell you the name of a commercial weed destroyer. If you do not find one, write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. We will then send you the name of one which will kill the weeds you mention.

Please tell me what to do to improve the condition of my fuchsia plant. It was full of buds when I bought the plant. They soon fell off without even one bud opening. I have it in an eastern window which I sometimes open. I have given it fertilizer but that does not seem to have much effect on it.

MRS. H. W.

At this season your fuchsia should be where it has fresh air at all times. Sudden drafts or dry roots for even a few hours will cause all the foliage and buds to fall. Too much fertilizer is unnecessary. The florist no doubt had it growing in soil which would supply it with the necessary food for at least a year. The fuchsia must be watered twice a day.

My dahlia buds are being eaten with some insect resembling a small fly. When what remains of the bud opens it is withered and soon dies. What do you suggest to rid my plants of these unwelcome visitors?

MRS. J. C.

Spray your plants every day or so with any nicotine spray you happen to have. Direct the spray right into the growing point of the branches. This will usually clean the plant, but if it does not, try dry powdered tobacco. After the plants are free from insects they will likely recover and soon show signs of normal growth.

We have earth worms on our lawn. The entire lawn is alive with them. What can we do to get rid of them?

MRS. R. H. D.

Unless these crawlers are in such numbers that they loosen the roots of the grass, they really improve a garden instead of injuring it. However, there are times when we must destroy them. If you care to write again, inclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope, we shall be glad to send you the name of a commercial worm destroyer.

I. C. C. HEARS PLEA FOR HIGHER RATES

(Associated Press.)

Freight rates adequate for the railroads to maintain their lines properly and meet fixed charges were demanded of the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday by railroad counsel.

Clyde Brown, of New York, attorney for the New York Central and head of the legal staff presenting the railroads' side of the 15 per cent rate increase, argued the Nation's shippers owed the railroads rates high enough to earn a "fair return" on their investment. He contended the commission had no alternative but to grant the rates that would give the carriers the legal fair return on their investments. He said, however, the roads were not asking what they considered the full fair return at this time because of the serious economic situation of the country.

While the arguments here were proceeding, rails led one of the best rallies in weeks on the New York Stock Market. These advances were attributed to vague rumors that the Interstate Commerce Commission would grant a freight rate increase soon.

The bullish optimism was so strong that a leading New York banker remarked that overenthusiasm would be unfortunate since serious problems related to the European crisis are yet to be solved.

Mr. Brown was the first of 100 attorneys who will argue before the commission during the next week or more. The entire commission is sitting along with seven representatives of State commissions, assigned by the National Association of Railway and Utility Commissioners.

FOR THE BEST ANSWERS EXPLAINING THE

AND TELLING HOW THIS QUART BENEFITS MOTORISTS

Fact No. 1—Thousands of motorists and service station men have observed that after a car has been given its first fill of Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and is driven 200 to 350 miles, a look at the crankcase gauge shows that about one quart of oil is apparently missing . . . but

Fact No. 2—These same people have noticed that on the second and later fillings with Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil, scarcely a drop of oil will disappear during the first 350 miles and practically none at 500 and up to 1,000 miles!

The above facts have been checked by actual tests with cars that use six quarts of oil for the crankcase, cars in good mechanical condition and driven at ordinary rates of speed. These facts will also prove true for your car, in proportion to the amount of oil your crankcase usually holds, your car's mechanical condition and the speeds at which you drive.

What becomes of the "hidden quart"? The answer is easy if you study the Facts given above and keep in mind the things that only Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil can do. The explanation of the whereabouts of the "hidden quart" is simple—no technical knowledge of motors or oil is necessary.

Remember—The "hidden quart" of Germ Processed Oil does not escape through leakage . . . does not burn up, wear out nor evaporate. It is "present but unaccounted for." Fact No. 2, given above, proves all this.

After you've found where the "hidden quart" goes, you can easily see the special benefits it gives the motorist—advantages that no other oil can give.

Ask at any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer for free Entry Blank, which contains information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil that may help you win. Conoco Station and Dealer employees will gladly answer your questions. Remember, you do not have to buy anything to enter this contest.

Any Conoco Station or Conoco Dealer will give you, free of charge, a convenient Official Contest Entry Blank for writing your answer.

Answers written on one side only of any plain white paper will be accepted as accredited entries in the contest. But we recommend that you secure an Official Contest Entry Blank, which gives valuable information about Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil and its operation in motors—clues about the "hidden quart" that may help you write an answer that will win a prize.

THE QUESTION—"What becomes of the 'hidden quart' and how does this quart benefit the motorist?"

COMPLETE RULES OF CONTEST

1. Answers may be any length not exceeding 200 words; length of answer will not determine winners. Write answers on Official Contest Entry Blank preferably, or on plain white paper. Conoco Stations and Dealers will give you an Official Contest Entry Blank free. Elaborate presentations of answers will not count in your favor.

2. Write your answer in plain, simple language. Technical terms or special scientific knowledge will not influence the judges.

3. Contest closes midnight, September 28, 1931, and no entries bearing postmarks after midnight, September 28, 1931, will be accepted.

4. Contest open to everybody except employees and executives of the Continental Oil Company, Conoco Stations, Conoco Dealers and the Company's advertising agency, and their families.

5. In case of tie, both contestants will receive full amount of prize tied for.

6. You do not have to use or purchase Conoco Germ Processed Motor Oil or other Conoco products to compete for prizes.

7. All entries submitted, whether or not they win prizes, become the property of the Continental Oil Company and may be used in advertising without payment, and none can be returned to senders.

LIQUOR CASES FILL DOCKET IN FAIRFAX

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245. Fairfax, Va.
Phone Fairfax 166.

September term of the Fairfax County Circuit Court was opened yesterday morning by Judge Walter T. McCarthy. Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr presented 100 cases. Of this number all but twelve were for violation of the State prohibition law.

Members of the grand jury were Robert D. Graham, of Fairfax, foreman; Ernest V. Burke, Clifton; Perry M. Compton, Clifton; Benjamin F. Nevitt, Ox Road; J. Everett Dove, Engleside; L. T. Dowden, Baileys Cross Roads; Horace E. Brown, Falls Church; Charles F. Broadwater, Fairfax; Walter G. Byrne, Great Falls; Lesley Lanham, Forestville, and Jether Dove, Navy. It considered 23 cases classed as felonies, and true bills were returned in all cases but one.

Indictments by the grand jury were as follows: Carroll Carter, felonious assault; John Smith Davis, John Dalton, Bernard Lawrence, all for felonious wounding; R. V. Harris, attempt at murder; Albert Hurst, Frank Hurst, David Payne, George Pruitt, all for grand larceny; William H. Smith and two indictments against Joe Wells for house breaking; Charles W. Womer, car breaking; Noel Windsor and Robert Scott, felonious robbery; J. B. Praether, second offense, prohibition law; two indictments against Gus Quayle, second offense, prohibition law; three indictments against Earl Posey for second offense prohibition law; Clarence Wells, third offense, prohibition law; John Myers, second offense prohibition law; William H. Lanaham, manufacture of ardent spirits.

Misdemeanor cases presented to the court by Commonwealth's Attorney Wilson M. Farr charged 20 persons with driving while drunk. They were Grady Abernethy C. W. Barksdale, Joseph Carter, James Colbert, John M. Collins, Clarence Carpenter, John Dumhart, J. Feirs, Rodney D. Harrison Frank alias John Harris, Aubrey M. Hawkins, William G. Leizert, Wheatley Lightner, James Lewis, Clarence H. Lunsden, Everett Nelson, Joseph F. Phillips, Richard Rayburn, Thomas A. Redman, Ida Rowe, M. L. Shealy, Albert Shiflet, Herbert Simmons, Bruce Stevens Clyde Stoneburner, Weber Thompson, Lewis Warner, Mathew Washington and Robert Wells.

Presentments for possession of ardent spirits were made against eighteen persons and against the same number for transportation and possession of ardent spirits.

Eight were charged with possession of home brew. One was accused of the sale of ardent spirits. The home brew cases were all set for next Monday.

Ten defendants pleaded guilty to the charge of driving while drunk and each was fined $100 and costs and 30 days in jail, jail sentences being suspended during good behavior. They were Grady Abernethy, C. W. Barksdale, Joseph Carter, Rodney D. Harrison, William G. Liezert, James Lewis, Herbert Simmons, Weber Thompson, Lewis Warner and Clyde Stoneburner. Bruce Stevens was fined $150 and costs and given a 30 days' suspended sentence on the same charge. John Dumhart was fined $100 and costs, and given four months in jail for driving while drunk and transporting; Mathew Washington, $100 and costs and 30 days in jail for drunken driving.

Twelve persons were fined $50 and costs and given a month in jail, jail sentences being suspended, on charges of transportation and possession of liquor. Three others were given the same fine but their sentences were not suspended. Two were fined and given jail terms for transportation and one was fined and sentenced on a sale charge.

Heaviest sentence of the day was imposed upon Joe Wells, who was under two indictments for housebreaking. He was sentenced to serve three years in the State penitentiary on each charge, sentences to run concurrently. Earl Posey, under three indictments for the second offense against the State prohibition law, was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to eight months in jail for each indictment, sentences to run concurrently. John Myers pleaded guilty to the second offense against the prohibition law and was fined $5 and costs and sentenced to six months in jail.

Other cases assigned for hearing at this term of court, which lasts two weeks, were continued until the November term. The criminal docket was so crowded that Judge McCarthy refused to allow the docket of civil cases to be called this term.

Paul E. Brown Appointed Judge of Juvenile Court

PAUL E. BROWN.

Paul E. Brown, attorney of Fairfax, Va., was appointed judge of the Fairfax County Juvenile and Domestic Relations Court, yesterday by Judge Walter T. McCarthy of the county circuit court. He succeeds Judge Abner C. Ritchie, who submitted his resignation some months ago when the county board of supervisors withdrew the county welfare worker from under the State welfare bureau's control.

Judge Brown was born 28 years ago in Arnett, Okla., and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jennings E. Brown, of Five Oaks, Va. Prior to moving to Clifton Station, Fairfax County, in 1918, he lived in Missouri, Indiana and Washington, D. C. He was educated in the Clifton high school, Tech High in Washington, Devitt Prep and National University in Washington. He graduated from law school in 1927 and was admitted to the Virginia bar in 1928. For some years he was employed in the Southern Railway company's office in Washington but since 1927 he has been associated with Attorney John W. Rust in Fairfax.

He has been secretary of the County Bar Association since January 1929, has been a commissioner in chancery of the county circuit court since 1928 and is secretary and charter member of the Fairfax Rotary Club. He is married and has two children.

NEW POLICY APPLICATION IS BARED IN WIMBLEY CASE

the plot to sand-bag and burn the Tench family. On Saturday, before Crowder had confessed the plot, Mr. Tench said, "It is not so much what it is, as what it might have been." From this detectives gathered that perhaps some move toward realization of the plot might have been made. No charges have yet been placed against Crowder and Wimbley.

An inquest into the drownings will begin at the Morgue at 11 o'clock today. Six witnesses will testify to the actual finding of the bodies. Then, it is expected, the inquiry will be postponed for several days until the police investigation is completed.

Tell Story in Detail.

The gasoline station where the fuel was bought is 70 miles from the Tench home. Station attendants told in detail Wimbley's story to obtain the gasoline can, which was that he had a truck stalled down the road.

Employes of one gasoline station visited gave information which coincided with Crowder's confession to the effect that Wimbley, after buying seven gallons of gasoline, tried to obtain a can full, but was unsuccessful. They then went across the street, station employes said, and obtained the five-gallon can.

At the station where the can full of gas was bought, the employes recalled a $2 bill was given as a deposit on the gasoline and the can. This, too, was in accord with Crowder's story.

Detective Sergt. Robert Barrett is en route to Casaville, Mo., to interview Ida Mae Graves, who is being detained there by authorities. Miss Graves was married to Wimbley on April 3 at Rockville, Md., under the name of Howard G. Dickerson, and Wimbley, she says, induced her to buy an insurance policy with a double indemnity clause, making him the beneficiary. The face value of this policy has been given as $1,000 and at $10,000. Detectives have not determined the exact value.

Blackmailing Alleged.

Information from a reliable source came to headquarters last night to the effect that Wimbley had blackmailed a "wealthy and elderly woman" of $3,000 early this year. This phase of the investigation has not been completed.

What may be the beginning of startling developments in the case is the scheduled meeting between Crowder and Wimbley, at which the former's confession will be read to Wimbley.

Private Charles F. Gerber, of the United States Army, who formerly lived with Wimbley at the Clifton Terrace Apartments, yesterday offered to aid police in tracing $5,000 in bonds, which Mrs. Wimbley obtained from the death of her first husband, William Traylor, and most of which Wimbley admits spending.

Contemplated Marriage.

Gerber also gave information to the police of Wimbley's story of blackmailing the "wealthy Washington woman;" of his disposal of some of the bonds belonging to Mrs. Wimbley; of his contemplated marriage to a Census Bureau clerk, who is now in Oklahoma, and of Wimbley's relations with other women.

Early this year, Gerber said, Wimbley and the Census Bureau clerk, who lives on East Capitol street near Second street, had planned to get married. On May 2, she left for Hanna, Okla., and Wimbley went there about a week later. It was while there that he collected $1,000 insurance on an automobile he said was burned, and on which he also tried to collect another $1,000 when he returned here.

Asked About Limit.

On July 17, according to information uncovered by Detective Sergeant Darnell, Wimbley appeared at an insurance company here and asked "the limit" of insurance he might buy on his wife. He was told $4,000 "straight life".

Two weeks later he reappeared at the office with the application and was told to bring his wife to the company doctor for examination. This he did not do. This policy was never issued. However, on July 31, he admits he bought a $10,000 accident insurance policy on his wife's life. He admits forging his wife's name to this application and the policy was in force at the time she was drowned.

Detective Sergt. Trustcott yesterday found a mechanic at an automobile rental agency here who remembers placing the white cloth in the car, which Wimbly rented, and which Crowder says, was used to fashion the sand bags. Examination of Crowder's permit shows that, in accordance with his story, the dates had been tampered with so that they were illegible.

The $10,000 accident policy on Mrs. Wimbley's life also had a double indemnity clause for death by burning, which, Crowder said, Wimbly had told him when the burning plot was discussed.

Inspector Frank S. W. Burke said yesterday that in all probability William M. Jurgen, who is being held in connection with the drownings, would be released. He said that, in his belief, "Jurgen was in the clear."

$375,000 Bonds Bids To Be Opened Today

Bids on bond issues totaling $375,000 will be opened today by the Montgomery County Commissioners in Rockville. In view of the troubled financial market, it is possible that the commissioners will have to exercise their right contained in each of the bid advertisements to reject any or all bids.

The bond issues are divided as follows: Montgomery County Police Station refunding bonds of 1931, $30,000; courthouse bonds of 1931, $175,000; police deficiency bonds of 1931, $70,000, and suburban district road bonds of 1931, $100,000. Each of the issues will be sold as a separate unit so that action on the issue will not affect others sold today.

Hit-Run Driver Sought After Child Is Injured

Police are looking for the driver of a small truck who knocked down a child late yesterday, turned the victim over to a passing motorist and disappeared after promising to follow the car to Casualty Hospital. The boy is Cecil Darden, 11, 1214 U street southeast. He received a possible fracture of the leg and lacerations to the scalp.

Cecil was crossing Nichols avenue southeast, near Good Hope road, when the accident occurred. The truck driver stopped, picked him up and placed him in the machine of James J. Gallagher, 2042 Bennett place northeast, saying he would follow the car to the hospital. He did not give Mr. Gallagher his name.

Prince Georges Liquor Raids Net Three Arrests

Three persons were arrested and 107 gallons of alleged liquor seized by Prince Georges County policemen who patroled the Baltimore boulevard over the week-end.

Those arrested were Joseph L. Gray, New Hampshire avenue near L street; Lewis Taylor, E street northeast near First street, and Albert Talbott, of Pikesville, Md.

Montgomery Teachers Study.

Montgomery County school teachers turned out en masse for the first classes in school subjects which have been arranged for them by the school board. Classes in high school art, music and industrial arts were held yesterday at the Rockville High School.

School Children Can Fruit Given by Montgomery Men

Montgomery County school children are the first to start conservation measures with the bounteous fruit supply which has been one of the causes of low prices in Maryland and other fruit growing States. The children are canning the fruit in their home economics classes under the direction of their teachers.

The fruits are to be used this winter in the school cafeterias and the surplus is to be given to the Social Service League for distribution to the needy families of the county. The fruit is the gift of county farmers who found the plentiful supply caused such low prices that the fruit wasn't worth hauling to market in many instances.

The conservation measures are being carried out under the direction of Mrs. Fern Snyder, county supervisor of high schools, originator of the idea, assisted by Miss Margaret Ansdell, county Red Cross nutrition worker, according to Edwin W. Broome, county superintendent of schools, who is cooperating to the fullest extent.

Chief of Police Alvie A. Moxley has been asked to cooperate by donating the jars captured in liquor raids after their contents have been emptied.

COUNTY CANDIDATES WAIVE INDORSEMENT

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 508. Clarendon, Va.

In reply to the questionnaire of the Better Government League sent to all candidates for the Arlington County board, Fred A. Gosnel, W. R. Rose, W. W. Wright, C. F. Rauth and Louis C. Carl, the five candidates last night made public the following reply which has been mailed by each of them to Mrs. Thomas E. Bilbert, secretary of the league: "Referring to your letter of August inclosing certain interrogatives, I respectfully request that my name be not considered at your meeting to be held for the purpose of indorsing candidates for the county board."

When J. E. Spaulding, chairman of the county Republican committee, was informed and shown a copy of the letter, he said: "It demonstrates the spirit of cooperation permeates them and has characterized their united campaign method.

After years of effort to have a hard surfaced road leading from Rosslyn direct to Alexandria, County Engineer C. L. Kinnier announces it has been accomplished and is now open to traffic.

The first section, which is known as the oil road, passing the several storage oil plants, was completed some time ago. The second section which lies between the south wall of the Arlington National Cemetery and Mount Vernon avenue, has just been completed and was opened to traffic yesterday.

Rounding out his twenty-fourth year as county treasurer and again seeking reelection at the coming county election in November, E. Wade Ball enjoys a conspicuous place on the ballot which will contain the names of 78 candidates seeking the several offices in that he is without opposition.

This is the first time in twelve years that he has not had some opposition.

Mrs. Florence E. Cannon, of Arlington, and Mrs. Elizabeth B. Magruder, of Clarendon, candidates for the county board of five, which, on and after January 1, 1932, will replace the present three members of the county board of supervisors, will speak at the monthly meeting of the Ashton Heights Woman's Club to be held this evening in the clubhouse on Clarendon avenue at 8 o'clock.

The Woman's Auxiliary to the Clarendon Volunteer Fire Department will hold its monthly business meeting tonight in the Firemen's Hall at 8 o'clock.

Police Hold Pans As Beer Is Drained

Drip Traps Man, Officials Say, Poured Beverage Into Sink at Raid.

Drippings from a waste pipe at the home of George Schafer at Silver Hill, Md., enabled Prince Georges County policemen to arrest him on two charges of possession when they raided his house last night.

Last week Sergt. A. W. Hepburn and another policeman went to Schafer's home and looked for liquor after reading a warrant. They found no contraband, but unknown to Schafer two more policemen were waiting with pans at the end of the waste pipe from the sink. They caught a quantity of what they say was analyzed as 2.5 per cent beer, which they claim had been poured down the sink.

Last night they went to Shafer's place again to arrest him for the alleged beer found last week. This time, they say, they found about a gallon of whisky in the house. Shafer was freed when he posted bond of $500 on each charge.

Council to Meet Tonight On Traffic Light Issue

The town council of Hyattsville will hold a special meeting tonight to confer with representatives of a traffic light firm on the possibility of getting a permit to install two lights in the town permanently. The hours when the new parking ban is to be in force will also be discussed.

The town has agreed to buy the two lights to be placed on the Baltimore boulevard, but the State Roads Commission has refused to give permission for their permanent installation on the ground that they may impede traffic. The town is reluctant to spend $2,700 for lights which it may not be allowed to use.

Takoma Park Council Rejects Paving Plan

Plans of the Montgomery County commissioners to concrete Hodges Lane in Takoma Park, Md., and cut down the 19-foot grade to link it with Saratoga avenue were rejected last night by the Takoma Park Town Council at its meeting in the firehouse.

The town council decided that the improvement would be too costly for the benefit to be derived. Under the commissioner's plan, the town would pay half of the cost. The town council held that it had rather go ahead with its own plans for concreting town streets and assessing the costs against butting property owners. Other routine business was carried on.

Liquor Charge Brought After Car Hits Signal

Austin William Browne, 23, of 1445 Park road northwest, was arrested yesterday on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor with intent to sell after his car crashed into a caution sign near Burtonsville, Md. Browne was arrested by Policeman Lawrence Dixon, of the Silver Spring substation, Montgomery County Police.

The car overturned on a curve after striking the warning sign. Eight cases of broken bottles were found, from which police salvaged about a gallon and half of alleged liquor. Browne was found in the vicinity of the wreck by the policeman.

Montgomery School Tests.

Physical examinations of the high school children of Montgomery County will start today under the auspices of the Playground Athletic League of Baltimore, of which Dr. William E. Burdick is director. The tests will be held at the request of Superintendent of County Schools Edwin W. Broome and County Health Officer William T. Pratt.

QUANTICO MARINES PAY BUTLER HONOR

Special to The Washington Post.

Quantico, Va., Sept. 21.—The Marines' farewell to Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, who retires from the corps October 1 after 31 years of service, will get under way at noon tomorrow with inspections, smokers, luncheons and military display.

Features of an elaborate program will include a dress parade at 5:45 p. m. on Quantico parade grounds, and a review at 2 p. m. by the aircraft squadrons, East Expeditionary Force, commanded by Maj. R. S. Geiger.

Guests will gather at the Officers' Club at noon for luncheon, and shortly after 1 o'clock the signal will be sounded for brigade mobilization on the post parade grounds. Stores will be moved from warehouse to dock and the mobilized brigade will be inspected by Gen. Butler.

Units under his scrutiny will include communication personnel under Maj. W. G. Hawthorne; machine gun and howitzer companies, commanded by Lieut. Col. J. R. Henley, and artillery batteries and motorized units, Lieut. Col. A. B. Drum.

Following the air review, expeditionary stores will be inspected at the post dock at 3:15 o'clock, and at 3:30 p. m. guests will visit "A" Barracks and commissary and aviation units. There will be a dinner for guests of Gen Butler at the Officers' Club following the dress parade, and at 8 o'clock there will be a smoker in the school gymnasium.

The second day's program calls for landing operations by a battalion of marines, reinforced by a howitzer company and assisted by aircraft.

Polish Convention Program Starts

Mrs. Honarata Wolowski Is Chairman of Session at Willard.

New officers of the Polish Women's Alliance of America to serve through its annual convention were elected at the opening session in the Willard Hotel yesterday.

Mrs. A. Emily Napieralski, supreme national president, presided at the formal opening yesterday. Those elected to officiate during the convention were Mrs. Honarata Wolowski, of Pittsburgh, Pa., chairman; Rosalia Bidron, of Buffalo, N. Y., vice chairman, and Mary M. Porwit, convention secretary.

A feature of today's session will be an address by a representative of the Marshal of Poland. A banquet will be held tonight at the hotel, with Representative Leonard A. Schuetz, of Illinois, scheduled to deliver the principal address.

The program this afternoon will be devoted to a tour of Arlington and Mount Vernon. The delegates will place a wreath on the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, followed by an informal meeting in the Amphitheater.

A reception at the Polish Embassy tomorrow, and an audience with President Hoover, followed by a trip to Annapolis, Md., on Thursday, are among other features of the convention program. The sessions will conclude Saturday.

Texas Legislature Limits Cotton Crop

Austin, Tex., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The Texas Legislature enacted a cotton acreage reduction bill late today designed to effect a 50 per cent curtailment in the State's cotton plantings in 1932 and 1933.

The bill needed only the signature of Gov. Ross S. Sterling to become a law and that was regarded as assured.

Each farmer would be prohibited from devoting to cotton next year more than 30 per cent of the land he cultivated in all crops this year. The same percentage basis would apply in 1933 with the additional provision that no 1932 cotton land could be planted to cotton in 1933.

After 1933 there would be no percentage limit, but no land could be planted to cotton in successive years.

The bill, a compromise measure, was adopted 19 to 10 by the Senate and 80 to 32 by the House.

Such is the answer of Texas, the largest cotton producing State in the Nation, to the demand from the South for cotton acreage restriction by law.

LISBON-U. S. FLIERS ARE RESCUED AT SEA

likely that they might have landed somewhere in the wilds of Canada.

Last Monday night, in fact, it seemed certain that they would complete their flight to New York, and hundreds gathered at Roosevelt Field and other Long Island airports to welcome them.

When dawn came without word from them, fliers started up the Coast searching for some trace of the ship which had disappeared so mysteriously.

Planes and Ships Search.

Rody is in his early twenties—a youth who always dreamed of flying the Atlantic and woke up one morning to find he had inherited sufficient money to realize his ambition. He bought the Junkers monoplane and engaged Christian Johanssen, also a young man and an expert pilot.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT seems reasonably certain now that Maude Adams really is coming back to the stage to play Portia in "The Merchant of Venice." She is reported by Mr. Mark Barron, chief of this department's finger-in-the-wind bureau in New York, to have confided her definite intention to Richard Pitman, once her leading man, when he visited her last week.

This apparently puts at rest the rumor that her return to the footlights would be in that John Colton drama which was first announced for her about a year ago.

It is further stated that Miss Adams has not as yet decided who will play Shylock to her Portia, nor is she at all sure just when rehearsals will be begun.

As to the Shylock in the case, Arch Selwyn seemed emphatic Sabbath evening in his declaration that it would be none other than Otis Skinner.

Mrs. Fiske is another of the stage's most distinguished stars who is about to embark on a lengthy tour in a new comedy by Carlos Drake. Rehearsals already are under way. The piece is a humorous commentary on American society folk and bears the title of "Against the Wind."

The premiere is set for Springfield, Mass., with engagements in Rochester, Cleveland and Chicago to follow. It is not expected in New York until January.

There are, perhaps, during a New York season only a half-dozen premieres which so arouse public curiosity that the demand for first-night tickets begins weeks before the event and attracts a glittering audience of literary, theatrical and social celebrities.

Such, it seems, will be the metropolitan premiere of "Brief Moment," a five-starred occasion in the playhouse. It is to be the first production in the Belasco Theater since Katherine Cornell leased this theater; the first play by S. N. Behrmann since his "Meteor," in which Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne acted for the Theater Guild; Francine Larrimore's first new role in New York since Rachel Crothers' "Let Us Be Gay" two years ago; the stage debut of Alexander Woolcott, drama critic, author and radio speaker, and the inaugural production in Guthrie McClintic's season, which will bring out three unusual modern dramas.

"Brief Moment" will be presented in New York late in October following one week on tour.

It will come as a sad blow to those who have been combatting this month's high temperatures by taking a daily dip, to learn that the Crystal Pool, out Glen Echo way, will close for the season next Sunday night, September 27, at 11:30 o'clock.

One of the best appointed open air pools in the country, this popular hot weather recreation place has richly deserved the high favor into which it sprang so quickly following its formal dedication last Memorial Day.

And Mr. Hardie Meakin, manager of the RKO-Keith Theater, conveys the breathless tidings that Fifteenth street is going in for comedy in the grand manner these next few weeks.

Next week he will present Clark and McCullough in "False Roomers," and the week of October 9, the second of the new series of Masquers comedies, "Oh, Oh, Cleopatra," in which Wheeler and Woolsey and a host of other stars will be the principal funmakers.

Many of his Washington friends will be happy to know that Bob Hamilton, by far the most musicianly pipe organist who has ever presided at the console of the local Fox Theater's triple-manual, double-pressure Wurlitzer, is now playing on Broadway at the Roxy and scoring the same sort of personal triumph he achieved here.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

"CHERRIES ARE RIPE," Arch Selwyn, in association with Erlanger Productions, Inc., presents Mary Ellis and Basil Sydney in a new comedy in three acts, by John Emerson and Anita Loos. Performed for the first time this season in the National Theater last night, under the direction of John Emerson.

—The Cast—

Baron Peter Stereny.
Sybil's husband.....Richard Sterling
Margit.....Juliana Taberna
Janos, his secretary.....Gavin Muir
Gisi.....Natalie Schaefer
Bela.....Jeremy Bowman
Sybil Stereny.....Mary Ellis
Count Sandor Bathyany, Basil Sydney
Gypsy.....Juan Varro

By NELSON B. BELL.

Lacking much of the individual exuberance and quick timing of speeches essential to its greatest effectiveness, this thoroughly unconventional bit of continental satire on the unbiquitous problem of staid wives and philandering lovers nevertheless established itself as a sagacious, subtle and at times startling piece of writing in the minds of last evening's sweltering audience. It pursued a course of cumulative interest, each successive act surpassing its predecessor in humor, verve and dramatic substance.

"Cherries Are Ripe" derives its title from the crytic message Count Sandor Gathyany agrees to send his friend Baron Peter Stereny, if after a day or two alone with the latter's wife on their rambling country estate it develops that her fidelity to her husband and her wedding vows is something less than it should be. The preliminary situation, thus, is one that well may cause foreboding lest only another threadbare specimen of triangle triteness is to be unfolded. But nothing of the sort happens.

John Emerson and Anita Loos, quite to the contrary, have evolved a neatly turned psychological study of a wife who may just possibly not have been quite so prim as she seemed and a handsome young swashbuckler of the Budapest drawing rooms and cabarets who turned out to be nowhere near the devil among the women he had modestly deemed himself to be.

It is a play for audiences that do not insist upon physical action as the major factor in their drama. It is far less a comedy of situation than of dialogue and it is for this reason that its tempo stands in urgent need of being speeded up. Last night's first act—the worst offender of the three—dragged hopelessly, consisting almost entirely of seemingly needless dialogues, the longest of the lot between two men!

Mary Ellis, in the role of Sybil, the wife, is an actress of vivid personality and infinite charm. Always the dominant figure last evening in the scenes in which she participated, she also displayed a well modulated singing voice in one song, naturally introduced in the action of the first scene in the second act, "Only With You." In the opposite role of Sandor, Basil Sydney was a trifle phlegmatic even for an oppresive first night, although his reading was productive of perhaps the major bulk of the laughter with which the comedy is sprinkled.

An unusually deft bit of quiet comedy is contributed to the story's somewhat daring disclosures by Gavin Muir, as an unobtrusive secretary who permits few of the emoluments of such a position in the home of an elderly gentleman and a beautiful young wife to elude him. This was an applauded performance. Natalie Schaefer also acquitted herself with smart and sophisticated skill in the decorative role of Gisi, not averse to receiving adulatory masculine attentions. The others in the small cast rounded out a competent and adequately balanced ensemble.

The entire action of the three acts takes place in the handsome living room of the Stereny country place in Hungary.

A comedy for audiences of adult intelligence this, although once its daring premise is accepted there is nothing in it too risque for general family consumption.

GAYETY

Ballyhooed as one of the best shows on the wheel, "Southern Belles," this week's attraction at the Gayety is just that and more. A fine selection of songs, dances and comedy in just the right proportions doesn't leave a dull moment. Much care was apparently taken in the preparation for this revue. All scenes and costumes are new and entirely different from any appearing last season.

Heading the cast are Reds Marshall and Nora Ford. Reds is about the best comedian playing in burlesque, and Nora is so well known to local fans that she needs no further introduction. As a blues singer she leads them all.

Having two entertainers of such great popularity means the rest of the cast must also be of the best or suffer by comparison. Pretty little red-headed Edna Dee, who, by the way, is playing her first season in burlesque, and Charlotte La Burr, a beautiful blonde, put over their numbers in a big way. Also we have the girl with the perpetual smile, Rae La Anse and Ann Meyers, the prima donna of the company. The Hop Den scene in which Miss Meyers plays a prominent part is well staged and received much applause. Another who deserves mention is Edythe Lyons. She has a good voice and in her specialty "The Memphis Strut," appeared to good advantage.

Last, but not least, is a chorus of eighteen shapely damsels. The singing and dancing of this group is par excellence. They do much to round out a good show. W. L. W.

GUESTS NO PROBLEM AT WOODLAND BEACH

Summer Home at The Post's Colony Offers Solution for Old Dilemma.

When company drops in suddenly or relatives come to visit you for weeks and months at a time, isn't it a great inconvenience to have them around the house cluttering up the place and no way to entertain them.

What is the solution? Have a summer place where they will enjoy life considerably more than in town and where they can go and come as they please, without disturbing any household routines.

Where to get such a place? At Woodland Beach, The Washington Post's summer home development, on the South River, in Maryland. There you and your guests may spend spring, summer and fall in comfort, with plenty of recreation available.

Then too, the purchase of a lot at Woodland Beach is not going to ruin the family budget. Lots are selling at only $93 and even this amount, need not be paid in cash. A down payment of $9 together with a subscription to The Washington Post will enable you to select a location for your summer home and you may then pay the remainder at the rate of $3.50 per month.

Woodland Beach is served by motor, electric car and bus and as it is only 32 miles away, is easily accessible for short journeys when vacation time has not yet arrived, or has past. The beach offers bathing, boating and fishing; with pleasant coves in which the children may wade and play in safety.

Hundreds have found the beach just the place in which to spend most of the year. Why not join this contented group and watch the community grow and be a part of it?

Virginians Press State Duck Plan

Ten-Week Hunting Season Is Backed by Swanson and Lankford.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Swanson (Democrat) and Representative Lankford (Republican), are aiding in the presentation of Virginia State officials' request for a revised duck and goose hunting season in the Old Dominion.

Senator Swanson communicated with the Bureau of the Biological Survey yesterday, urging consideration of the plan supported by Gov. Pollard and A. Willis Robertson, chairman of the Virginia Game and Inland Fisheries Commission, for a ten-week season with three shooting days a week.

Upon recommendation of the Biological Survey, President Hoover recently proclaimed a 30-day season, abolish the old season of ten weeks with four hunting days each. Both the senator and Representative Lankford have informed the bureau that unemployment would result among guides and boatmen should the season be curtailed.

CAPITAL'S BUSINESS IGNORES GOLD NEWS

Stock Exchange Maintains Balance and Leaders See Coming Prosperity.

Developments abroad did not interfere yesterday with the slow but steady flow of local business. The Washington Stock Exchange maintained a good pace, and more shares changed hands than on any one day last week. The general impression seemed to prevail that the trend of business will take an upward turn as the result of Great Britain's step to protect her gold.

A survey of Washington conditions by the Standard Statistics, Inc., brings evidence "of a philosophical assumption that times will improve, and that depression is not permanent."

Some concern is evidenced by the decline in value of nearby farm lands. But counterbalancing this is a feeling of optimism, resulting from the report that Washington took third place in the country in August in the volume of building permits issued.

Maryland Lands Drop.

The value of Maryland farm land has decreased in estimated value per acre 45 per cent from the 1920 index of 165.5 per cent, according to Richard C. Ross, Agricultural Statistician for the Maryland crop reporting service. United States land values dropped about 64 points in the same period. Maryland and United States land value increased rapidly from 1912 to 1920 and declined from 1920 to 1929, at first sharply, and then more steadily, the country's values descending somewhat faster than Maryland's.

This decline in farm land values has put a severe strain on all mortgage bonds and Federal bank loans have suffered more than is justified by the long term outlook, in the opinion of local financial authorities, according to the survey by Standard Statistics, Inc.

The total of building permits last month was $3,375,650, against $2,306,115 in July and $2,398,620 in August, 1930. The District of Columbia was exceeded by only eight States last month in volume of prospective building activity.

Railway Income Less.

Gross revenues for August of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad Co. were $11,040,979, a decrease of $1,178,861 under August of last year. For the first eight months of this year, the railroad company showed gross revenues of $80,837,483, a decrease of $10,816,852.

For the third consecutive year, Leopold V. Freudberg, life insurance underwriter in charge of the life insurance department of Young & Simon, Woodward Building, of this city, has become eligible to attend the breakfast conference of the Million-Dollar Round Table, to be held in conjunction with the annual convention of the National Underwriters Association at Pittsburgh on September 22 to 24. To be invited to the round table one must deliver at least $1,000,000 of paid life insurance within the year. Mr. Freudberg made this record in 1929 at the time of the national association in Washington; repeatcd it again last year for the Toronto convention, and by virtue of this year's production he is now a permanent member of the million-dollar round table.

Only 100 Chosen.

From among the many thousands of life insurance salesmen in the United States, probably 100 will be eligible to attend the breakfast, it was said.

As a member of the faculty of the Washington College of Law, Mr. Freudberg has been teaching insurance law for the past eight years and is considered an authority on income, estate tax and business life insurance. During the seventeen years he has represented the Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Co., of Springfield, he has been instrumental in placing some of the largest lines now carried by prominent Washingtonians.

Mr. Freudberg is a member of the District of Columbia bar. He has for many years been active in civic affairs. During the World War he served with the United States Marine Corps.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—W. A. Selberling, president of the rubber company bearing his name, said today that its sales of tires increased 46 per cent in the first seven months of 1931 compared with the like period last year. He said the company's Akron plant is working around the clock, with three eight-hour shifts.

Roscoe Seybold has been appointed comptroller of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co., it was announced today by Chairman A. W. Robertson. He has been assistant to the president. A native of Rockville, Ind., and a graduate of Purdue University, Seybold joined Westinghouse in 1907.

H. T. Parson, president, F. W. Woolworth Co., said today that $25,000,000 of the $27,000,000 cash accruing to the American company through recapitalization of F. W. Woolworth, Ltd., had been received. He said the money had been transferred since early in July and that the remaining $2,000,000 had been left as complimentary deposits in English banks.

Word was received here today that Canada will ship $500,000 in gold to New York. More than $2,000,000 was received here from Canada last week. The present Canadian gold reserve is $70,000,000 or 52 4-10 per cent of notes in circulation.

The meeting of the board of directors of Fox Film Corporation which was scheduled for today was postponed. No announcement of the date on which the meeting would be held was made.

Britain's Gold Change Advances Silver Price

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The temporary abandonment of the gold standard by England helped the price of silver today, and the metal advanced 1½ cents in the New York market to the highest level reached since July.

Silver was quoted at 29¼ cents an ounce, compared with 27¾ at the close Saturday. There was a similar rise in London, where it advanced over the week-end from 12⅞ pence to 14⅛ pence.

Stock Exchange Firm Is Declared Insolvent

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The New York Stock Exchange firm of Schuyler, Chadwick & Burnham was suspended today for insolvency.

The house was a small one, with only one out-of-town office, that at Montclair, N. J., but was one of the older members of the stock exchange. It was admitted to membership June 4, 1906. David E. Knoblauch, floor member for the firm, has been a member since October 6, 1905.

"I want to tell you — that red-blood cells are the very foundation of sturdy health"

—let's pause a moment to give those vital red cells the consideration they deserve. They mean so much for better health and happiness.

It is not fair to expect one to like work or to enjoy play with a "lowered" blood count.

So often the reason is simple—that good body of ours has "run-down" under the strain of our way of living . . . pressure of work and worry.

If this is your trouble why not take steps to overcome it—remembering that a "tired feeling" may be a warning . . . so are pimples, boils and paleness. A general run-down condition means a lack of normal resistance to infection and disease. A lagging appetite often leads to underweight and ill health.

For generations S.S.S. as a tonic has been helping people gain New Strength, better health and happiness. Its successful record of over 100 years in restoring strength and vitality to the blood surely warrants your giving it a good trial.

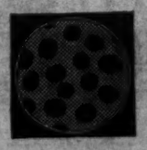
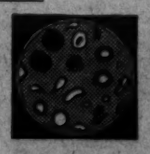
Why you should be interested in your Blood Count

It is important to know that the red-blood-cells are the "ships" that sail in the blood stream and carry nourishment and oxygen to all parts of the body . . . they build and sustain—they also remove impurities from the tissues.

Whenever the number of red-blood-cells is materially reduced, lowered vitality ensues and the system becomes more susceptible to the ravages of various diseases. It is a great protection to health and physical well-being to keep the red-blood-cell count up to normal.



(Left) Microscopic view of healthy red-blood-cells. The blood stream should contain about 5,000,000 of these cells to the cubic millimeter. They carry nourishment and oxygen to every part of the body—they also remove impurities from the tissues.



(Right) Weak red-blood-cells—only 60 per cent of normal strength—they lack the power to resist infection and disease or to rebuild flesh and to carry away the impurities. Such a condition is often responsible for body weakness, paleness, sallow complexion, pimples and boils.

STOCK RALLY HALTS LOSS FROM SELLING

Curb on Shorts Sends Prices Up Despite Effects of European News.

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Wall street refused to become panicky today over Britain's temporary suspension of the gold standard. Since the New York Exchange and the Paris Bourse were virtually the only important world markets doing business as usual, it was inevitable that a rush to liquidate should appear at the opening here. However, the market had been skillfully bolstered against demoralization, and after less than an hour of selling prices rallied vigorously.

With minor interruptions the rally extended into the final hour when further reactions developed, although on light volume, and final prices were irregularly lower.

The Standard Statistics-Associated Press average was off 1.2 points net, but numerous pivotal stocks were higher. Volume was large, especially during the morning, and sales totaled 4,441,535 shares, the largest turnover since June 24.

Leaders Start Rally.

Two decisions made by financial leaders contributed to what some brokers called the market's amazing ability to rally against severe odds. First was the fact that the market opened at all when so many others had elected to remain closed. Second was the discouragement given short sellers by the exchange's notice that such transactions, at so critical a time, would be viewed as a violation of the rules. This meant a huge volume of short covering for the absorption of offerings, a cushion that quickly caught the list after early losses of 1 to about 6 points.

U. S. Steel was never off more than 5/8, and it used its position as market leader to good advantage when short covering finally outweighed selling. At the top of the rally it was 3½ higher. Closing at 80, the net gain was 4¾. Westinghouse, General Motors, Case and American Can likewise returned net gains, while losses were generally moderate. American Telephone, which broke 5¾ at the worst, made full recovery and then sagged about a point.

The strongest rally was in the rails which profited by a well-timed rumor that a favorable freight rate decision was imminent. Extreme advantages, amounting to several points, faded before the close, but carrier group was the only section to finish higher. A short squeeze in Reading boosted that issue 25½ points, 15 of which were held.

Foreign Exchanges Demoralized.

Foreign exchanges were demoralized, sterling going as low as $3.75 and ranging thereafter up to $4.35, but little or no actual business was done.

Wheat hit new lows and then reduced the losses to fractions. Corn was off 1/8 to 1 3/8 net and cotton only 20 to 45 cents a bale at the close. Bar silver was strong.

Bankers did not assume that Great Britain had permanently dropped the gold basis, recalling that in eleven of the last seventeen years she has been off that basis, and thus the question of possible revaluation has not yet received much serious discussion here. One immediate result of the government's action is the removal of the necessity for supporting sterling, which has been the source of considerable embarassment in recent weeks.

Inflation Is Seen.

It is also probable some inflation will be witnessed in England, but that would be more helpful than otherwise, especially at a time of difficult budget balancing.

There is no concern here over possible ill effects on this country. Banking credits granted to England this summer are payable in dollars; so are most of her bonds owned by American investors. Balances of American banks in London are small and a large proportion of their total is said to be protected through forward sales of exchange.

There have been grave doubts as to Britain's ability to sustain the pound and this uncertainty has added to the unsettlement influencing the financial markets during much of the summer. Hence, although bankers frankly warn against unwarranted optimism, it is felt that a constructive step has been taken. Furthermore the strength of the British people can be stressed as a most important factor in working out the ultimate solution.

BONDS REPEAT DROP TO NEW LOW LEVELS

Heavy Liquidating Causes Losses Up to 10 Points; Sales $16,521,000.

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Prices of bonds, both foreign and domestic, gave way sharply today under the weight of heavy liquidation in the most active session recorded on the stock exchange in more than two years.

Reflecting the uneasiness over the financial situation in Europe following abandonment of the gold standard by Great Britain selling pressure extended to all sections of the list and closing prices ranged from 1 to as much as 10 points below Saturday's previous close. The price level as gauged by standard statistics averages, fell 1.5 points to a new low for recent years. Sales amounted to $16,521,000 par value.

Virtually the entire list gave way under the wave of liquidation, but it was the foreign section that suffered the most as a whole. The marked stability of the British 5½s which opened unchanged, rallied a point and closed only a point net lower, was regarded as encouraging, but the bonds of some of the British dominions did not fare as well. Canadian Governments eased 1 to 3, and Australia issues receded about 4 points on an average.

Sympathetic selling was apparent in many foreign issues, with the French 7½s reacting 11 and the 7s 2 points. German government issues receded more than 5 and the Berlin city 6½s yielded 16. Japan 6½s closed 5 points lower. Belgian governments were off about 8, and Italy 6s yielded 2½.

The feature of trading in domestic bonds was the unusually heavy turnover in United States governments which exceeded $2,500,000 on the exchange. As a general rule a larger proportion of the total business in governments is done in the over-the-counter market. Sales of the new Treasury 3s approximated $1,485,000 with the bond fluctuating between 99.17 and 99.10. It closed off 1-32nd, net at 99 15-32. All government issues with the exception of Liberty 3½s yielded some ground, with Treasury 4s 4¼s and 3¾s receding about ½ a point on an average.

An unusually large list of corporate domestic bonds was traded in today. Industrials were the hardest hit with losses in the rails and utilities being about on a parity with each other. Average losses in domestic bonds were smaller than in foreign obligations.

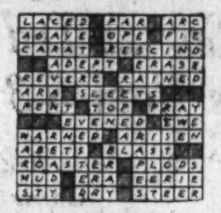
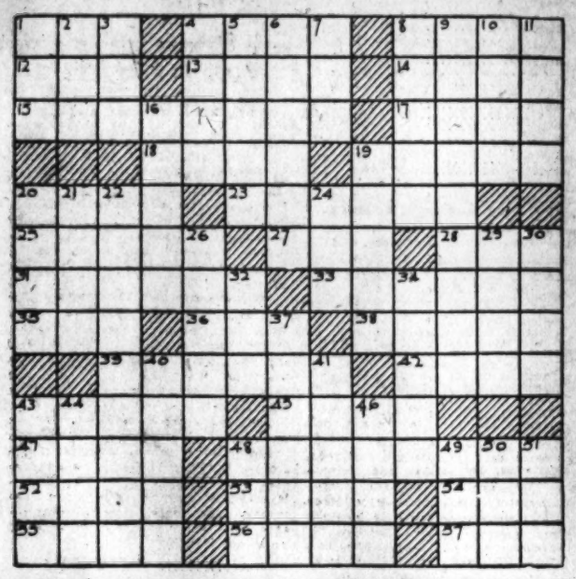
YESTERDAY'S ANSWER.



(Copyright, 1931.)



Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

Should He Desert Her?

JUST what does the average man mean when he promises to "cherish" a woman 'till death? Or does the average man know the meaning of the word cherish? Does it mean to give her a home—which she could supply for herself—or does it mean a little more than that? Jerry has married a wife, the only woman he ever saw who meant all things to him. And now that the time has come for him to do a little cherishing, he is all humped up and on his dignity. In fact Jerry thinks he would like to "divide 50-50 and part." Divide what? The sticks of furniture that in Jerry's mind make a home? Divide the memories of what might have been a marriage? Jerry, like a lot of his addle-pated brothers, seem actually to think that even a child can be "divided." What do these men thing life is, anyway? What do they think a woman is? Or a child? Do they ever think at all?

Has Jerry the least right in the world to forsake this girl who has been all a wife could be, who has made him happy, given him a child, loved him wholly? What would become of the world if at the first hint of need, lovers deserted each other, wives scorned husbands, men forsook wives? Who would want to live in such a world? Read Jerry's wild refrain and put yourself in the place of the girl who is Jerry's wife? Then tell Jerry what to do if he hopes to continue to regard himself as a man.

Dear Frances McDonald—Although I have never known you to give a man an even break yourself, I am hoping some of your readers may help me to make a decision that I feel unequal to making for myself. I will be brief. I have been married sixteen months to the only girl I ever saw who seemed the answer. I knew her only two weeks when I asked her. I admit she was reluctant, and said she would never marry. But she reminds me that she tried to tell me and I refused to listen. True. But a man does not expect the sort of thing that she had to tell. She needed no urging to keep it to herself. We now have a son five months old. The day of his birth, when I saw him, was the happiest day of my life—and I am 40 years old. But my wife, the moment I started to make a fuss over him began to weep. I thought it was just illness. But her unhappiness continued and in such degree that at last I realized something out of the ordinary was the cause.

"At last she told me. She has another child, a girl, 3 years old. An elderly relative in the country has the child. To say I am disgusted is putting it mildly. I want to clear out. We have bought a home and I am willing to divide 50-50 with her and clear out of the whole mess. She can go join her child in the country and get a divorce and rope another fish. But I do not see why I should be a laughingstock. I have talked with the clergyman who married us. She was not of my faith, but he has added to my predicament by denouncing me for my stand. She of course claims that it was love for me that made her change her mind about never marrying. The father of the first child was never informed of the child's existence, as she hated him and threatened to kill herself if made to marry him. He had gone West to school and was married there. Her attitude is the weeping martyr role. Legally I could obtain divorce. But my religion forbids it. My parents wish me to go to another city and adopt the other child. Is any woman worth what I would go through in such a program? My wife is 21. I could have married her kind a thousand times. I wanted a decent woman and I am asked to adopt something out in the country. Perhaps some one can inform a mere husband as to the usual etiquette of such a happy occasion?"

JERRY.

Well, who will suggest the "etiquette?" We can tell Jerry about the humanity of the occasion. And we can tell him that he can be happy fathering that baby in the country, but never nursing the petty hurt to his pride that is dictating his present course. Life is a big proposition for a small man. Jerry will decide according to his size. Wonder what his measure really is?

Auto on Left Turn Has Right of Way

Pratt Explains Phase of New Regulation of Traffic.

A large number of motorists are apparently under the false impression that through traffic has the right of way over vehicles making a left turn, Maj. Henry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, announced.

Under the regulations now in effect a vehicle making a left turn, which is within the intersection and about to complete the turn, has the right of way over through traffic which has not yet entered the intersection.

Maj. Pratt urged the full cooperation of motorists in complying with this provision of the new left turn regulation.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

DARLING BLOOMER DRESS.

Plenty of freedom and smartness marks this cunning bloomer frock. The full-cut bloomers have knee bands.

So many attractive materials are sturdy for its development that will tub and press so readily.

Dimity prints are especially nice.

Then there are innumerable rayon weaves, tiny gingham checks, wool challis prints, linen, pique and cotton broadcloth prints so splendid.

Style No. 288 is designed for sizes 2, 4 and 6 years. The 4-year size requires 2¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¾-yard of 35-inch contrasting and ¾ yard of ribbon.

Price of pattern, 15 cents. Address Fashion Department, The Washington Post, Fifth avenue and Twenty-ninth street, New York City.

NATS REGAIN SECOND-PLACE TIE AS YANKEES LOSE

This Morning with Shirley L. Povich

THE $660 difference between the world series checks for second and third place teams will lean toward either the Yankees or the Nats this evening after the result of today's game between Washington and Chicago is tabulated.

The four-game series this week in which the Nats and the Yankees meet in New York has been hailed as the clashes that will decide the second-place issue, and so they will, but in the final reckoning today's game here will have an important bearing.

While the Nats are active today, the Yankees will idle. With the two teams now in a deadlock, the Nats can give themselves a tremendous advantage by winning today, while a defeat by the White Sox will seriously handicap their ultimate chances to take second place.

Clubs Exactly Tied

The New York and Washington clubs are exactly tied with 90 games won and 58 lost, with the Nats having six more games to play and the Yankees only five as a result of a tie with the White Sox last week which they are unable to play off due to the schedule arrangement.

Thus, if the Nats win today and both clubs fare alike in their remaining five games, Washington will have clinched second place by half a game. Washington, if victorious today, can gain an even break in their four games with the Yankees and win the last game of the season with Boston while the Yankees beat Philadelphia and still gain second place by a half game.

Better than an even split for the Yankees in the four-game series in New York this week will be required if the Yanks are to retain their second-place chances.

Their efforts for sweet charity two weeks ago, when they postponed a game with the White Sox in order to meet the Giants for the benefit of the unemployed, has been extremely costly to the Yankees. The postponed game which was played as part of a double-header in New York last week ended in a tie and deprived the Yankees of the chance to win the game and improve their standing.

Burden on Nats

The Nats can stop counting the second place shekels for a while if they lose today's game with the White Sox. A defeat will show them with one more loss than the Yankees with the same number of games to play and it will be the Nats who will be required to sweep the series or take at least three out of four from New York if they are to gain second place.

Manager Johnson, realizing the importance of today's game, is in a hole for pitching talent and has nominated Carl Fischer for mound duty. Crowder and Marberry would be forced to pitch out of turn, and these two dependables are being saved for the New York series starting Wednesday. Either will be rushed into today's fray, however, if the Nats' chances are threatened.

The schedule makers were kind to the Nats in the closing days of the pennant race, giving them as opponents outside of the Yankees the Chicago White Sox and the Red Sox, while the Yanks were forced to meet Cleveland in three games and Philadelphia in one, which will close the season.

Advantage Doubtful

With the White Sox in the throes of a long game-losing streak, they were not calculated to cause the Nats much trouble, but the Cleveland Club, with Wes Ferrell available, was likely to win one game from the Yankees, which they did yesterday.

Should the second-place fight go down to the final day of the season for decision, the Nats apparently will have the better of the schedule, meeting the Red Sox while the Yankees are forced to battle Philadelphia. But with the pennant safely stowed away, Connie Mack may hesitate to use any one of his pitching aces against the Yankees four days before the world series starts, which makes the Nats' advantage doubtful.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 21.—Ral Parr, prominent Maryland turfman and resident of this city, yesterday obtained a license in Philadelphia to marry Mrs. Sonia Walsh Whitman, who two weeks ago obtained a divorce in Reno from Francis S. Whitman, directory manager for the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co.

At Mr. Parr's home here, it was learned last night that he went to Philadelphia today to obtain a marriage license but his family was without word as to whether the ceremony had been performed.

Landers Gets Draw With DeAngelo

Loses Decision After Fort Fight Verdict Is Reversed.

3,000 See District Fighter Rally in Closing Rounds.

By JACK ESPEY.

THE lightning left hand of Frankie De Angelo plus the sharp wits of his manager, Patsy Donovan, combined last night to stop the winning streak of Billy Landers, Norfolk's bantamweight with a middleweight's punch, in a slashing eight-round bout at Fort Washington.

Nearly one-third of the crowd of 3,000 pop-eyed fans left the arena under the impression that Landers had won, but five minutes after the original announcement Jimmy Lake, master of ceremonies, reexamined the ballots of the referee and judges and stated that the official verdict was a draw.

Donovan, jumping into the ring upon the first announcement, insisted on a reexamination of the ballots, and Lake discovered that the writing of Judge Pat O'Connor, who voted a draw, was indistinct. In his reading of the ballots at first he had mistaken this for Landers' name.

Referee Votes for De Angelo.

Referee Charlie Short, whose decision awarded Landers a victory over De Angelo last month at the fort, voted last night in favor of the Southeast Italian. Judge George King favored Landers.

The Washington Post score sheet listed five rounds for De Angelo, the second and the last four.

Landers, who was seeking his fourth straight win, was the same old two-fisted, determined fighter, but he encountered a different De Angelo this time and found himself completely outboxed and not a little stung by Frankie's rapier-like left jabs and sweeping hooks.

The dynamite in Landers' fists exploded as was expected, but the full force of it failed to connect at any time on a vital spot. Frankie's clever footwork—and it wasn't all backpedaling, enabled him to slip many intended haymakers.

Landers forced most of the fighting and gave an amazing demonstration of gameness. He caught his foe's blows ofttimes on the jaw and bounced back for more. He knew only one style of fighting and never forgot, but with a better boxer in front of him he was at a loss to use this effectively.

In the in-fighting Landers had the better of the argument by a wide margin, yet here again failed to do much damage beyond giving Frankie's white skin a reddish tinge.

For the first four rounds, it looked as if Landers would land a finishing punch at any moment. He was shooting the works viciously without expending much wind. But as the bout wore on and De Angelo continued to snap out his left hand, the Norfolk slugger gradually lost steam while absorbing punishment about the head and face.

During the last four rounds De Angelo frequently sailed into Landers, trading wallop for wallop. This change in tactics, surprisingly enough, gained points for Frankie, whereas it had been thought suicide for him to meet Billy at the latter's own game.

Sailor McKenna, De Angelo's stablemate, won a technical knockout over Mickey Morley, all-Navy lightweight champion, in the semifinal. Scheduled for eight rounds, the bout was stopped after the fifth round by Referee Short, with Morley bleeding profusely from a cut over the left eye. McKenna previously had piled up an edge in points.

The six-round main preliminary also failed to go the route, as Soldier Clark, of Fort Washington, won on a foul from Caspar Leon, New York lightweight.

In the other bouts, all four-rounders, Jack Cody, Fort Myer, outpointed Sammy Hogan, Mohawk Club; Billy Hoe, Mohawk Club, won the decision from Heine Welsh, Baltimore; Marini Marino, Washington, earned a decision over Soldier Lavane, Fort Myer; Sailor Oden, Washington, knocked out Soldier Green, Fort Myer, in the second round, and Fred Shaefer, Washington, stopped Soldier Sager, Fort Washington, in the third.

Gill Drives Run Home With Triple; Rally in 9th Checked.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ALTHOUGH the Nationals looked like "hitless wonders" yesterday against the Chicago White Sox, they managed to insert enough of their eight bingles at opportune times to score five runs. And, as the visitors could mold but three off the combined offerings of Irving Hadley and Fred Marberry, a third straight victory over the Windy Citians resulted. This loomed exceptionally large, however, as the Yankees bowed to Wes Ferrell and the Indians, and the result was that the Washington club climbed back to a second-place tie with the New Yorkers.

The Sox started off as if Hadley would not last through the first round, but he limited them to a single run, thanks largely to a double-play being negotiated by the Cronin-Myer-Kuhel combine and the Nationals then forged into a comfortable lead which was not threatened until the ninth.

Chisox Show Signs of Rally In Ninth.

In this frame, Marberry walked one and granted two singles, putting one run over and the tying ones on the bases. Two were out at the time and Pitcher Ted Lyons, who went the route for the visitors, had a chance to do something really helpful for his cause. His best, though, was a liner to Bluege and the Sox, who have not won a game since a week ago Sunday, lost another.

Johnson's charges did not look impressive at the bat, though, and won because they were able to take advantage of most of the breaks. Lyons walked five and four of these strollers later scored while the other put a mate in scoring position. In the sixth, the veteran uncorked a wild pitch and even this proved of help to the home team and made the possible difference of a run.

But the White Sox were not doing much hitting either. They, too, were credited with eight safeties but they could never crowd more than two in any one frame, while only one of the two passes doled out to them was put to any good use.

Blue opened the game with a lusty double to right and Sullivan, next up, singled in the same place, scoring the lead-off man. Jolley flied out, however, and then Fothergille rolled into a double-play. The Nats equalized in their half when Rice coaxed a pass and Gill trpled him home.

No Hits Needed for Score In Third.

Lyons walked Hadley and Myer, first two to face him in the third, and the Nats went into the lead without the need of a hit. Rice's sacrifice moved both runners along and the pitcher tallied after Jolley's catch of Manush's long fly.

Spencer watched four wide ones pass him opening the fifth and Hadley's suicide and Rice's single gave the Nats another run and put them 2 up. The Sox cut this margin in half in the next inning, however, by molding a marker from Sullivan's double and Fothergill's single.

In the home half, the Washingtonians stepped out again, scoring twice and giving indications of having a big inning. With one gone, Cronin walked, took second on a wild pitch, and went to third on Kuhel's scratch safety past Blue. Bluege singled one run home and Spencer another, the third baseman being nipped trying to gain two bases on the catcher's clout. Phelps hit for Hadley and rolled out.

This brought Marberry into action and he had no troubles until the ninth. With one out, he walked Watwood and then held Appling to an outfield fly. This was a signal for the small gallery to start for the exits, but most of the cash customers tarried when Kerr dropped a Texas leaguer single to center and became somewhat worried when Fonseca, up for Garrity, followed suit. Lyons, not a bad hitter, was given the opportunity of helping himself with the flail, but he failed.

Gill, with a triple and single, led the home guard's attack, although two safeties each were credited to

Fischer and Faber Oppose in Finale

Nats Have One Game Here After Today; To Split Series Money.

Except for the season's final here next Sunday with the Boston Red Sox as the Nationals' guests, the 1931 baseball season ends here this afternoon with a contest with the White Sox. Having caught up with the New York Yankees yesterday, it is up to Johnson's men to hold the second-place tie by winning today or to be in a position to gain in case the Indians again upset the New Yorkers.

Manager Walter Johnson last night planned to start Lefty Carl Fischer on the hill this afternoon, while Denie Bush is expected to nominate the veteran spit-baller, Urban (Red) Faber, although there is a possibility that Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas will get the call.

Manager Johnson and the players who have been with the Nationals prior to September 1 will gather in the locker room at 11 o'clock this morning to decide how their share in the world's series melon will be doled out. Whether the club finishes second or third does not figure in the division, as the division is made by shares and fractions thereof, with parts of shares being voted to ineligibles who have been here only a part of the season but who have helped in the race.

Campolo in Knockout Victory Over Italian

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Victorio Campolo, Argentine heavyweight, stopped Umberto Torriani, of Italy, in 32 seconds of the second round of their ten-round bout at the New York Coliseum tonight. Campolo weighed 229 pounds, Torriani 213½.

Torriani went down three times in the first round, the bell coming to his rescue when he was flat on the canvas the third time. Campolo floored his rival twice in the second round before the referee stepped in and halted the uneven contest.

FOUR WOMEN TIED IN U. S. GOLF PLAY

By ROBERT J. CAVAGNARO.

BUFFALO COUNTRY CLUB, Williamsville, N. Y., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Four players, including Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, the titlist, scored 82s today to tie for medal honors in the qualifying round of the thirty-fifth United States women's golf championship.

It was the closest qualifying race since 1901 when Margaret Curtis, of Manchester, Mass., a former national champion, broke a four-cornered deadlock to capture the medal.

Mrs. Vare's three challengers in the duel for the medal were Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., Canadian champion; Mrs. Opal S. Hill, of Kansas City, Mo., Western champion, and Mrs. Harley Higbie, of Detroit, Mich.

The foursome was not required to play off for first place. H. H. Ramsay, president of the United States Golf Association and Mrs. Helen Payson Corson, of Philadelphia, chairman of the tournament committee, decided to give each of the players a silver bowl symbolic of the medal.

Two Leading Players Fail.

Over sodden fairways, made heavy by rain yesterday, the qualifying round was played with only two of the leading players failing to make the grade. They were Mrs. Helen B. Stetson, of Philadelphia, who won in 1926, and Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, who led a team of American women into England last year. Mrs. Stetson and Mrs. Hanley scored 93s and missed qualifying by one stroke.

Four players bracketed with 92s engaged in a play-off for the thirty-second place in the championship division. They were Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo; Mrs. Elaine R. Reinhardt and Jane Weiller, of Chicago, and Jane Broadwell, of Springfield, Mass. Miss Broadwell won the playoff on the fourth hole.

Besides Mrs. Vare, Mrs. Hill and Miss Orcutt, other strong protournament favorites who came through today were Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago, who bowed to Mrs. Vare in the finals in 1928 and 1930; Marion Hollis, of Santa Cruz, Calif., who won in 1921; Helen Hicks, of Hewlett, Long Island, women's Eastern and Metropolitan district champion; Mrs. Leona Pressler, of San Gabriel, Calif., and Enid Wilson, massive British champion.

Miss Van Wie Shoots 85 Round.

Miss Van Wie and Mrs. L. C. Nelson, of Dayton, Ohio, stood alone with 85. Miss Hollis carried an 86;

Chisox Win 9th Straight Defeat, Near Cellar Goal; Schacht Tells a Secret

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

THE Nats yesterday dealt the White Sox their ninth consecutive licking, scoring 5 to 3, and the Chicago Club, with five more games to play, can cinch eighth place with one more defeat. After the mathematical cinch has been achieved the boys can ease up and win a few, but, theoretically, the Tigers, who are five games ahead of them, still have a chance to tie.

Al Schacht, the coaching clown or clowning coach of the Washington Club, was not at work today, but spent the afternoon peering through the wire screen in the press coop. There are those who have seen Mr. Schacht's clowning unkind enough to say he ought to work behind a screen always, like the Cherry sisters. He was not at work because the day was Yom Kippur, a holiday in his religion, and when he explained this to Ted Lyons, of the Sox, Mr. Lyons said, "Hell, when we have a holiday we play a double-header.

Incidentally, it may not be generally known that Mr. Schacht and his fellow-artist, Nick Altrock, have, as the saying goes, ph-t-t. Al states that temperament was in no way responsible for the schism, explaining that Mr. Altrock, in a gay mood, clouted him over the head with a 24-pint suitcase one evening as they were leaving Detroit.

"Then he was always putting something extra into his work when we were wrestling or fighting on our act," says Mr. Schacht. "One day he would run his thumb in my eye clear up to the shoulder. The next day he would put his knee in my ribs. An-

Macks and Tigers Split Double Bill

Detroit Makes Triple Play; Foxx Hits Homer With Bases Jammed.

Philadelphia, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The Philadelphia Athletics, tuning up for the world series, divided a double-header with the Detroit Tigers today. The champions had most of their regulars in the first game, which they won, 3 to 2. A mixture of rookies and second-string help dropped the second game, 6 to 5.

Jimmy Foxx, who along with Al Simmons hit for the circuit in the opener, hit his twenty-ninth home run of the season as a pinch hitter with the bases filled in the seventh inning.

The Tigers made a triple play in the fourth inning of the first contest. With Foxx on second and Miller on first Dyke's liner to Gehringer, whose throw to second, catching Foxx, was relayed to first by Rogell in time to retire Miller.

Tilden Will Sail After Match Here

Net Troupe Will Not Accompany Him on Tour of Four Continents.

Next Sunday's appearance of William T. Tilden, 2d, at Wardman Park Hotel in an exhibition singles match against Vincent Richards, bane of the former's existence during the days when both were amateurs, will be his final before he departs for a visit abroad which will carry him to Europe, Asia, Africa and Australia. Richards will not accompany Tilden and his traveling tennis troupe abroad.

Tilden and Richards have not met since the final round of the world's professional championship at Forest Hills in July, where Tilden reached the greatest peak of his long and brilliant career to beat the master volleyer with a succession of thunderbolt drives which caused veteran followers of the sport to see in Tilden that day the paragon of all tennis play.

Three thousand fans saw Tilden beat Kozeluh at Wardman July 19 in a five-set match and another 500 were turned away for lack of seats. For the Richards match only about 2,000 seats are available.

Unemployed to Profit As Whitney Sells Stock

New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—C. V. Whitney, millionaire sportsman, today announced the dispersal sale of approximately 60 of his best thoroughbred mares and several young stallions, with 25 per cent of the gross receipts to go to the unemployed.

The sale will be held on Whitney's Kentucky farm at the time of E. R. Bradley's charity race meet in November. In making the announcement the youthful master of the famous Eton blue and brown capped silks, said the distribution of the select breeding stock was in accordance with the intentions of his father, the late Harry Payne Whitney.

Dundee, in Income Tax Bout, Cites Racing, Theater Losses

(Associated Press.)

JOHNNY DUNDEE, whose flying fists carried him to the featherweight championship in the prize ring, has asked the Board of Tax Appeals to give him the decision in a bout with the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

Johnny is known to the bureau as Joseph Carrora and lives at West Orange, N. J. The bureau notified him that its agents had found income that somehow or other did not appear on his income tax returns for 1920, 1921 and 1922.

Dundee was assessed $42,816 in deficiency tax and a penalty of $21,408 for not reporting it. He filed a petition before the board today asking it to redetermine his tax, asserting he had reported all of his income, and that the bureau had erred in disallowing deductions for boxing expenses and $19,000 he invested in "Tattle Tales," a show that didn't show.

HALCYON WINS OPENING DAY FEATURE AT HAVRE DE GRACE

Whitney Colt Wins From Sunvir

Favorite Has Length Margin; Blind Lane Third.

Sun Melus Is Winner in Opening Sprint; Double O Wins.

By J. B. SNODGRASS,
Special to The Washington Post.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md., Sept. 21. A rousing welcome to Maryland was given the thoroughbreds here today at the opening of the twelve-day meeting by 15,000 racing enthusiasts and it was fitting that a horse named Halcyon, on such a fall day as this, should win the feature, the Autumn Handicap. The only drawback was the heavy track, which dried out considerably before the running of the feature, in which the C. V. Whitney colt was enabled to run the mile and 70 yards in 1:44 1-5, after a bad start.

Five started in the feature. Mrs. Kathryn Hitts's Sunvir took the lead after the gate was sprung, following a delay caused by W. R. Coe's filly, Conclave. Halcyon was almost shut out by the crowding at the start, but soon was alongside the pacemaker, Sunvir, the latter holding the lead until Steffen on Halcyon caught him at the far turn.

Halcyon Draws Away to Win By Length.

In the stretch, Halcyon drew away to finish a length in front of Sunvir. The Goodstone Stable's filly Blind Lane, which had been prominent throughout, finished third, four lengths back, and Sidney Grant was fourth. The winner, much the best, paid $4.40.

Several favorites went by the board, due to the condition of the track. Many of the 2-year-olds needed schooling, as they delayed the start. There were some close finishes during the afternoon.

Willis Sharpe Kilmer made it a double when his filly, Suntica, won the third race, for 2-year-old fillies, going away at the finish. W. R. Coe's Laughing Queen was second and the Greentree Stable's Parry third. Parry was an odds-on favorite. She lunged through the starting gate and finally was taken to the outside. The veteran Maiben rode the winner of this $1,400 purse and she paid $16.10 for $2.

Kilmer's previous victory had been scored by Sunmelus in the opening event, which beat Grand Union by eight lengths. Ladfield was third.

Fred Avon Noses Out Backgammon.

In the Shore Acres, fourth race, S. W. Labrot's Tred Avon got up in time to win a nose decision from the Sagamore Stable's Backgammon. Hillsborough was third. The winner paid $7. Masked Ball set a fast pace and much was taken out of Backgammon in racing her into defeat. Once in the lead rounding the stretch, Backgammon found a dangerous challenger in Tred Avon, but seemed able to withstand it until reaching the sixteenth, when the two were heads apart. In the final nod, Tred Avon got the decision.

The sixth race, at a mile and a furlong, was a hard earned victory for J. J. Farrell's Double O., 5-year-old son of Omar Khayyam. Danish Prince, which had set the pace most of the way, was second, and Fair Dawn, third. Royal Charge, favorite, second on the back-stretch, dropped out of contention in the home-stretch. The winner was well ridden by W. Roussell, and paid $14.80. Time, 1:53 3-5. Princess Isabel delayed the start and was put on the outside. Twelve started.

AMERICAN FENCERS LOSE.

London, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The American Women's Fencing Team suffered the first defeat of its British tour tonight, bowing to a team from the Salle Tassart-Perkins, 7 to 2. Marion Lloyd, captain of the American team, won one match and lost two, as did Miss Burnside. Miss Locke suffered three straight defeats.

Capital Jockey Winner Of Season's First Race

The opening of the Maryland racing season was signaled by the victory of Charley Phillips, Washington jockey, in the first race at Havre de Grace yesterday.

Phillips, who formerly lived in Northeast Washington, had the mount on Sunmelus, breezed home to win by six lengths. Later in the day he won the last with Fairdale, coming from seventh at the half pole to win by half a length.

Phillips was the leading rider in Canada this season with 42 winners. He is under contract with the Willis Sharpe Kilmer stable and piloted Sun Beau in most of his recent stake victories, including the Arlington Cup in which Sun Beau gained distinction as the greatest money winner of the turf.

†Willis Sharpe Kilmer entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUNTICA (entry), $16.10, $6.10, $2.70; LAUGHING QUEEN, $10.90, $4.00; PARRY, $2.20.

SUNTICA, breaking slowly, secured clear racing room near next the inner rail in the first furlong to reach a forward position, closed stoutly when straightened out in the home stretch and wore LAUGHING QUEEN down in the final sixteenth. PARRY, very unruly at the barrier, broke from the outside of starting stalls. She lacked early speed after breaking well and was forced to race on the outside for the entire trip. STEP SIS was held safe the entire journey. DARK VICTORY weakened. MONEL stopped badly.

FOURTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,500; allowances. The Shore Acre. For 3-year-olds. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:06. Off at 4:08. Winner, S. W. La Brot's br. or gr. f. (3), by Sir Greystee—La Murion. Trained by W. Irvine. Value to winner, $1,075; second, $250; third, $125; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49, 1:14 2-5, 1:40 2-5, 1:43 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRED AVON, $7.00, $3.60, $2.50; BACKGAMMON, $3.50, $2.40; HILLSBOROUGH, $2.80.

TRED AVON, steadied in close pursuit of the leaders, moved up stoutly when leaving the back stretch, took a brief lead in the final furlong and just lasted long enough. BACKGAMMON forced a steady pace while following MASKED BALL closely, saved ground when entering the home stretch. He came again nearing the finish. HILLSBOROUGH, the early pacemaker, rallied in the early stages, responded to punishment during the closing sprint and was wearing the first two down at every stride. He was racing much the strongest at the end. MEASURE finished with courage. MASKED BALL faltered in the final three furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $2,500. The Autumn Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:42. Off at 4:45. Winner, C. V. Whitney's b. c. (3), by Broomstick—Tenderly. Trained by J. Healey. Value to winner, $1,800; second, $400; third, $200; fourth, $100. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:48 3-5, 1:14, 1:40 2-5, 1:44 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—HALCYON, $4.40, $2.90, $2.30; SUNVIR, $3.30, $2.50; BLIND LANE, $2.60.

HALCYON, rushed stoutly going to the first turn, was taken in hand while racing close to SUNVIR, moved into the lead midway of the back stretch and, kept under pressure, held SUNVIR safely. Latter, also well, continued stoutly after being displaced. BLIND LANE was unable to improve her position at any stage. SIDNEY GRANT was never a factor. CONCLAVE was outrun.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:16. Off at 5:28. Winner, J. J. Farrell's ch. h. (5), by Omar Khayyam—First Watch. Trained by D. T. Morris. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 1-5, 0:50, 1:16, 1:42 3-5, 1:58 3-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DOUBLE O, $14.80, $8.20, $6.30; DANISH PRINCE, $14.10, $8.10; FAIR DAWN, $11.70.

DOUBLE O, reserved off the leaders until well settled in his stride, circled his opposition when making his final effort, wore down DANISH PRINCE gradually and was under severe urging at the end. DANISH PRINCE sprinted into a good early lead, was rated along after the first five furlongs and continued with good courage when challenged. FAIR DAWN improved her position stoutly in the final mile. MADCAP MARVIN lacked early speed and was held safe in the final drive. DOCTOR RANKIN was used up early. ROYAL CHARGE faltered steadily during the final stages.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from stalls. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:35. Off at 5:37. Winner, D. Homewood's b. g. (5), by Ormondale—Fair Phantom. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $950; second, $200; third, $100; fourth, $50. Time, 0:24 3-5, 0:49 2-5, 1:16, 1:42 2-5, 1:58 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIRDALE, $20.90, $8.50, $5.40; VOWED VENGEANCE, $7.10 $4.80; BLANC SEING, $5.20.

FAIRDALE, outrun in the early stages, went to the outside of the leaders when entering contention, finished resolutely during the final quarter mile and was up nearing the finish. VOWED VENGEANCE, a keen factor from the start, disposed of BLANC SEING, but could not stave off the winner. BLANC SEING had good early speed, saved ground, but tired in the final three furlongs. TRAUMEL raced well. COGWHEEL was not good enough. GONE AWAY was racing strongly when he fell very lame at the far turn.

Boots and Saddle's
(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)
—Havre de Grace Selections—
By J. B. SNODGRASS.

HAVRE DE GRACE, Sept. 21.—The Havre de Grace meeting having gotten away to a flying start, the program for the second day shows the presence at this course of an unusual number of horses, and of high quality. The track will be fast for the second day, having dried out satisfactorily. The first of the three major stakes of $20,000 added value will be run Wednesday, the Potomac Handicap, for 3-year-olds. A. C. Bostwick's Mate will carry top weight of 127, with St. Brideaux next with 121.

The feature tomorrow is the Lochraven, a mile and a sixteenth, for older horses, having an added value of $1,800. WHITE CLOVER II, winner at Saratoga over Sunvir, appears best. It is understood the Kilrane Stable has him in good trim for this race and the work tab here proves it. MORSEL is a tenacious sort and speedy. He should be the contender.

FIRST RACE—Thirty-six 2-year-olds are attempting to get in the first race, but only twelve are permitted to start. PLAYING and LINE OF FIRE probably will fight it out, with the preference for PLAYING. DUSTEMOFF, of the second flight of the C. V. Whitney juveniles, should hold the others safe.

SECOND RACE—The second race is for maiden 3-year-olds. CAPLIN, formerly racing well for the Rancocas Stable, but not quite able to win, is in a cheaper field here than he has been running with and is picked to win from BOUNDLESS DEEP, which has worked fast and shown a good turn of speed. The latter may be better than his races show and is believed to be awaiting the right spot for a killing. POURBOIRE has some good races to recommend him and the only question is the route, which may be too long.

THIRD RACE—PHILLIP is selected in the third. He has been racing well and has worked well. It seems strange not to be picking THE HEATHEN in a race like this, but the former speedster of Maryland has done so little this summer in New York that he should be set back second. He is not the horse of old. ROCK BELLE, of the Coe Stable, should have a chance for the short end of the purse. Her last race at Belmont Park was a good effort.

FOURTH RACE — WISE COUNT, which has much early speed and light weight, should win the Yorktown. BURNING BLAZE is the class of the field on Western form, but is carrying 122 pounds and will have difficulty in catching WISE COUNT. MEXICO, a stake winner in New York, also will figure in the race. BURNING BLAZE will be at these when he gets weight off and becomes accustomed to the track.

SIXTH RACE—Another large field goes in the sixth race. ALBAZANO which has been racing in the West, but is not unknown in Maryland, should win, but will find stern competition from ALL COLUMBIA. VISIONAY should be next. ALBAZANO appears equal to the task of carrying 119, top weight.

SEVENTH RACE — TANTALIZING should score in the curtain number. JERICO has been working fast, raced well in the West and will be a contender. BOB'S PLAY can not be shut out of the money. REDIVIVUS has an outside chance.

SEKYRA VS. LEVINSKY.

Chicago, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Joe Sekyra, Dayton, Ohio, heavyweight, has been matched for a ten-round bout with King Levinsky, of Chicago, as the main attraction of the coliseum's opening show of the season September 30. Sekyra recently outpointed Charlie Retzlaff, of Duluth, Minn., to slow up the latter's drive for the contending position among the heavies.

G. P. O. DEFEATS ELDBROOKE IN WEEK-DAY LEAGUE SERIES, 13-6

Printers Hold Slim Chance For Title

Commerce Can Clinch Flag by Winning Today's Game.

STANDING OF THE TEAMS.

GOVERNMENT PRINTING OFFICE clung to its slim chance of tying Commerce for the Week-Day League championship yesterday by smothering the Eldbrooke nine under a 13 to 6 score on the Ellipse before a gallery of 1,000 fans. If Commerce does the unexpected and loses today to Eldbrooke in the last game, G. P. O.'s hopes will be realized. Today's game starts at 4:15 on the same field.

A seven-run attack in the second inning gave the Typos the lead they never relinquished and another splurge of six runs in the fifth took all competition out of the contest. Darkness brought a halt to the proceedings at the end of the fifth after Eldbrooke retrieved one run.

Churchmen Open With 3-Run Splurge.

G. P. O. launched its big rally in the next inning passively enough, filling the bases on a pair of walks and an error after one was out. At this stage Third Baseman Homan crashed one of Payne's offerings to the deepest reaches of the field for a home run.

Commerce is a heavy favorite to defeat Eldbrooke today to clinch the championship. In two earlier games, Commerce defeated and tied the Churchmen. The only loss suffered by Commerce in the series was inflicted by the Constructioneers, who finished their schedule in last place.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

AS stated in yesterday's cartoon, kerosene is actually used to extinguish fires. And here's how: When cotton is being baled, it sometimes catches fire from a spark produced by the machinery during the process of ginning or from the cigarette of some careless smoker. Often the fire is not discovered until the cotton has been baled, and then it might be burning in the center of the bale. In this case, kerosene is used to put out the fire, because water will not penetrate into the interior of the bale. The kerosene cuts off all oxygen, and thus extinguishes the fire.

Cards Nose Out Robins, 11-10; Kauffman Stars

St. Louis, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—While Tony Kauffman gave one of the finest exhibitions of relief pitching seen here this year, the Cardinals came from behind to tie the score in the eighth inning and then nose out the Brooklyn Robins, 11 to 10, in 10 innings today.

Relieving Hallahan in the sixth inning after the Robins had taken a three-run lead, Kauffman retired two batters in order and then turned the visitors back for four straight innings without a man reaching first. He struck out five batters, two of them in the tenth inning.

The Cardinals jumped on "Pea Ridge" Day, third Brooklyn hurler, for three runs to square things in the ninth. Moore, who relieved him, made the mistake of walking Jim Bottomley in the tenth after one was out.

Five Cub Pitchers Pounded by Giants

Chicago, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Pounding five pitchers for 27 hits, the New York Giants observed their last appearance in Chicago this year by outscoring the Cubs, 15 to 7, in a wild exhibition today.

The Cubs were never able to do much with young Hal Schumacher until the rival inning, when they scored three of their runs. Vince Barton's home run accounted for one Chicago score.

Good Red Sox Hurling Beats Browns Twice

Boston, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The Red Sox got some fine pitching from Eddie Durham and Ed Morris and took a double-header from the Browns today, 2 to 0 and 9 to 2. The double win gave them undisputed possession of fifth place and stretched their consecutive winning streak to five games, their longest this season. The Sox now have won 14 of their last 17 games.

In the nightcap, Morris and Sammy Gray had a pitcher's battle for five innings. Then Gray weakened. The Sox made five runs in the sixth and four in the seventh to clinch the game.

Municipal Pools Remain Open to Public

More than 500 persons of all ages sought relief from yesterday's midsummer heat in the municipal pools at Seventeenth and B streets northwest. This number rivals single-day attendance marks of the summer months.

The pools will remain open to the public free of charge as long as warm weather continues, authorities of the Playground Department announced last night. With the opening of the school year, restrictions on mixed bathing have been lifted, so that now persons of all ages and both sexes may swim at any time between 6 a. m. and 6 p. m.

Tech High to Play Bethlehem Gridmen

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 21.—It was announced by Faculty Manager Phil Phillips, of Bethlehem High, today that McKinley (Tech) High School, of Washington, D. C., had been signed up for the annual Turkey Day game here. The Capital boys are District of Columbia high school champions. The team will take the place of the annual Thanksgiving Day game with Allentown High. Bethlehem High has severed relations with Allentown. The game will take place in Taylor Stadium at Lehigh University. This holiday game attracts about 25,000 people.

VINES VICTOR IN COAST TENNIS

Wins in Love Sets; Wood Is Extended by Boy Champ.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The more than a score of titled net nomads campaigning for the fifth annual Pacific Southwest Tennis Championship coasted through the first round matches of the tournament today.

The leader of the racket wielders, youthful Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, Calif., National Men's Singles champion, made quick work of his opening opponent in the first round of the men's singles, Jack Beckham, of Los Angeles, winning in love sets, 6—love, 6—love.

George Lott, of Philadelphia, seeded No. 2, likewise had little difficulty in eliminating Hyde Braley, 6—2, 6—2, while John Van Ryn, of Los Angeles, third on the list of seeded players, ran into the sternest opponent of any of the stars, Dick Hinckley, of Pasadena. Van Ryn beat Hinchley, 6—love, 8—6

TECH, EASTERN, CENTRAL ELEVENS IN GAMES THIS WEEK

Initial Tests For School Gridmen

TODAY.
Emerson vs. National Training, at Bladensburg.
FRIDAY.
Tech vs. Baltimore Poly, at Baltimore.
Eastern vs. Episcopal, at Alexandria.
SATURDAY.
Emerson vs. Woodberry, at Orange, Va.
Tech vs. Winchester, at Winchester.

DOMINATED by the initial appearance of the year of Tech High, the scholastic football season swings into action this week with a vengeance—seven games having been booked by the high school huskies. Other teams in action are Eastern, runners-up to the high school crown last year; Central's first Coggins-coached team; Devitt, and Emerson.

A thoroughly disappointing Tech High team, according to Coach Hardell, will commence its season Friday afternoon at Baltimore against Baltimore Poly, and, as usual, will follow up the next day against Winchester High, at Winchester. Tech lost to Baltimore Poly last year, in a night game, 7-0, while Winchester and the local high school champions battled to 6-6.

The make-up of the Tech team remains unknown. Hardell, for a change, is out to win both games and the team he chooses probably will be the one which will represent the school during the ensuing year, barring unlooked for prodigies.

Eastern plays perhaps its hardest foe of the year in Episcopal Friday. Kelley is sending in an almost raw team against the seasoned Virginians, and through no preference of his own. The only regulars in the line-up will be Capt. Mades, Wolf and Campbell, linesmen, and Tony Palmer, full back, who reported to Lincoln Park grid squad unexpectedly yesterday, and was immediately put in uniform.

Friday probably will see Adams and Minni at half back, and Boyd calling signals for Eastern, while Bernie Leib, the all-high basket ball player, will do the crouching over the ball.

The line-up of Bert Coggins' first Central team remains a mystery, even to Bert, and it is not likely that the Blue and White squad will show spectacular form. Emerson, however, may show unexpected strength against Woodberry. Its squad, though small, is select and boasts of such former high school stars as Shorb, Buscher, Kelso, Dow, McLaughlin and Wilson.

McDevitt does not really form its team until today, and, on paper, should show ragged form against Alexandria, but like Emerson, will tote real dynamite in the legs of its former high school boys, notably Childress, Naylor, Mayer, Kelley and Doeller.

King Pin No. 2 Wins in 3 League Games

Bowling spasmodically brilliant, King Pin No. 2 beat Hecht Annex last night at King Pin, rendering 1,677 pins horizontal while the department store maple mashers were mashing only 1,646 to take three games.

The winners visibly showed the effects of the long summer's layoff. Alsof and Jones, for instance, both experienced boys, were guilty of games in the disgraceful 80s, while Mahew bowled these consistent scores, 150, 94, 123.

As the season progresses, such scores as Mahew's 94 disappear like magic. The better the bowler the less his game fluctuates. Smith, of King Pin No. 2, with 113, 123 and 115, being a good example.

Other King Pin Business Men's League results saw First Americans taking two out of three from Chestnut Farms, while National Lithographers, aided by a six-pin handicap, squeezed out two of it three games with the Nationals.

Sarazen Medalist In New England Open

Quincy, Mass., Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Gene Sarazen, Long Island professional, became a medalist for the second consecutive tournament today when he led a field of 176 in the opening round of the New England open golf play at the Wallaston Golf Club.

Gene, who topped the field in last week's P. G. A. championship qualifying rounds at Providence, clipped two strokes off this windy course's par by putting six birdies on top of several poor holes for a total of 71.

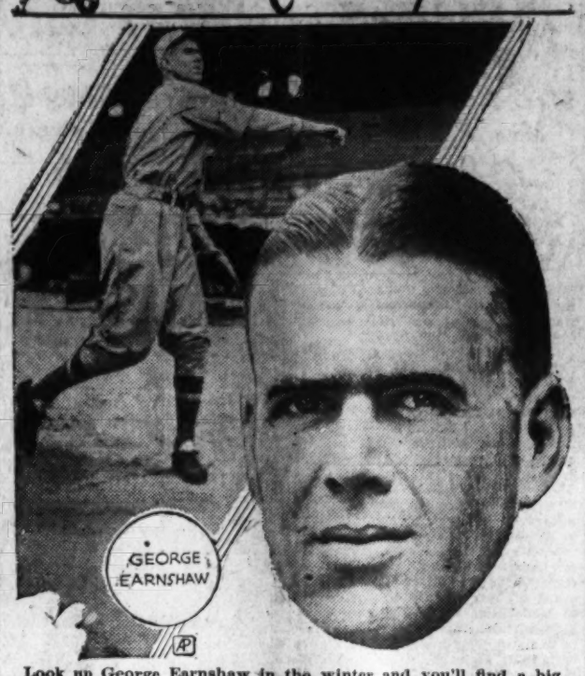
Four professionals, Bobby Cruickshank, of Purchase, N. Y.; Dave Hackney, Lowell; Charley MacAndrew, Quincy, and Larry Lowe, of Portland, Me., equaled the par 73 and finished deadlocked for second place. Three were tied for third with 74's—Bill Mehlhorn, of New York; Johnny Farrell, Mamaroneck, N. Y., and Bert Nicol, of Belmont.

Mr. Sponge Winner In Aqueduct Feature

Aqueduct Race Track, New York, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—The Queens County Jockey Club threw open its gates here today for the opening of its annual fall meeting of twelve racing days with the Bay Shore Handicap, a sprint of 7 furlongs, the inaugural feature. The event had only two starters after the early withdrawal of Battleship, with J. E. Widener's Mr. Sponge held at 2 to 7 against the Flying Horse Farms' Commuter. The Widener star easily annexed his fourth purse in a row and beat Commuter by two lengths.

The gelded son of Luke McLuke earned $2,490 and ran the seven panels in 1:25 3-5 over a fast track. Mr. Sponge carried 123 pounds while Commuter, a 3-year-old, toted a mere 102. Commuter jumped into the lead at start and Georgie Rose let the colt step along but Garner kept Mr. Sponge lapped to the Transmute colt, never allowing him to get away. As they turned for home Garner gave Mr. Sponge a little free rein and the bearer of the scarlet and white stripes breezed to the front, opening up two lengths in the stretch and was doing little more than galloping as he crossed the finish line.

Connie's Crew—Up Close



Look up George Earnshaw in the winter and you'll find a big business man around Philadelphia and Montclair, N. J. In the summer he's the big rough right-handed ace of the world's champion Athletics' pitching staff.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—"Big Jarge" Earnshaw may be a big rough fellow on a ball field, but out of the park he's persuasive enough to own a highly profitable insurance business and gentle enough to cut a wide swath through the highest society of Philadelphia and Montclair, N. J.

Earnshaw went to college at Swarthmore, the robust son of a family wealthy enough to have kept him away from physical toil if he had had ideas of that sort.

Instead, "Big Jarge" was the college pitching hero, 200 pounds of willing brawn stretching 6 feet 3 inches in height.

Stubbornest Rookie in Game's History.

He carried that willingness into baseball although he displayed the stubbornest streak in rookie history breaking into the game.

For three years after leaving college he was the property of Jack Dunn, manager of the Baltimore Orioles. Each spring Dunn sent him a contract and each year, without ever having thrown a ball professionally, he penciled the document "not enough money" and sent it back.

Now he sits on the bench of the champion Athletics and tries to find enough pitching work to satisfy him. When Connie Mack looks around for relief for some struggling hurler, Earnshaw tries to beat Bob Grove to the nearest ball so that he can get out there and go to work.

"I'll stop 'em," he says. "Give me that leather."

Earnshaw, now the best right-hander in baseball, thinks he gets too much rest. He'd like to work every other day, but Connie won't let him.

"If I rest too much I lose my control," he insists.

Earnshaw is a rollicking sort of fellow, good-natured with a bent toward the comedian, popular with the club.

He fancies himself tremendously as a hitter and when he really is batting well he confesses that he'd hate to be the pitcher who had to face him coming up to bat.

He got four hits against the Browns one day and was so proud that Al Simmons, the slugger, approached him with doffed cap in mock humility and inquired:

"What is your weakness, Mr. Earnshaw?"

"Honest," the pitcher replied, "I don't know. If I had to pitch to myself right now I'd be absolutely puzzled."

Shows Great Interest in Ambidexterity.

The subject of ambidexterity interests him deeply. He heard once of a fellow who could pitch with both arms equally well.

"Golly, that would be great," he announced. "I could walk up to Connie in the spring and tell him I'd sign up all right for my left arm, but I wanted more for my right. I could hold out one arm on him unless he came across."

The thought intrigued him so he tried to warm up a couple of times with both arms.

For once this fall it seems as though he will get enough work. The world's series schedule with the Cardinals is so arranged that there are rest periods between the first two in St. Louis and the three in Philadelphia, and before the final pair in St. Louis, providing the last two are necessary.

If Grove wasn't around Earnshaw would like to pitch every game. As it is he'll pitch at least two and probably three.

Kuhel and Bluege. The latter and Sam Rice shared fielding honors, each coming through with a brilliant play in the fourth. The third-sacker dove for Fothergill's grounder and got up in time to make the out on a great peg, while the fly-hawk raced to deep left center to grab Appling's long looper with his gloved hand to rob the hitter of at least a double. Young Billy Sullivan was the only visitor hitting safely more than once. He singled home a run in the first and his double in the sixth started a baby alien rally.

SETS TROTTING MARK.

G. W.'S COACH IS PRESSING GRIDMEN

Finishing Touches Being Put on for Saturday's Opener.

BACK home again, after their two weeks' training camp sojourn at Camp Letts, Md., the George Washington University 1931 squad resumes practicing again today back at the Tidal Basin, its 1930 stamping ground.

With only four days remaining before the opening game with Shenandoah College in Central Stadium Saturday afternoon, Coach Pixlee and his staff plan pushing the men at a brisk pace to have them in top shape to get away to a winning start.

Sprained Ankle May Keep Fenlon Out.

The squad returned from camp in fine condition. There were few casualties, but Johnny Fenlon, one of the most dependable backs on the team, sprained his ankle and likely will be kept on the sidelines in the opener. He has been ordered to take a complete rest so he will be ready for the big games later on in the season.

As yet Coach Pixlee has failed to name a regular team and has each man in his squad hustling and scrapping to earn a coveted place in the starting line-up.

Before breaking camp, after lunch yesterday, the squad was sent through a brisk two-hour workout, despite the intense heat. The players hustled back to town in order to get registered for classes. Those who failed to register yesterday will do so this morning.

HEAT SLOWS NAVY GRID DRILL

Easy Session Listed; Spirit of Players Pleases Coach.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 21.—The return of the heat wave, combined with humidity, greatly interfered with practice of the Navy football squad today, especially at the afternoon session, and the two-hour period was curtailed by more than half an hour. Head Coach "Rip" Miller took his charges along at an easy gait, and at that the players showed the effects of the heat.

Signal and formation drills were carried out under slackened speed, and the scrimmaging program was confined entirely to the skeleton order in which the large group of back-field candidates were given further tuning up on the variety of plays. Today saw the return of Chung Soon, an Hawaiian, and member of the sophomore class, to the back-field squad.

Coach Miller today expressed his great pleasure over the high spirit that is being shown by the entire squad. Every man is putting forth his best efforts, he said, and that means a whole lot.

Mills Forced to Lighten Work for G. U. Gridmen

CLASSROOM registrations cut in heavily upon Coach Tom Mills' football plans yesterday and the Georgetown squad experienced only a light drill on its new athletic field on Reservoir road as the first day's program following the return from Rehoboth Beach.

In addition to the absentees who were busy with scholastic requirements, several players were forced to abstain from the workout on account of injuries.

All four of the right half backs had to idle due to ailments of one nature or another. Joe Alenty was suffering a strained abdomen, Mack Stanley underwent treatment for a shoulder injury, Russ Daniue had to favor an injured hand, while Louis Dee limped around on a swollen leg.

Coach Mills views the injury bugaboo with increasing alarm as the day of the opening game with Lebanon Valley draws near. It is quite possible that Georgetown will enter the inaugural Saturday at Griffith Stadium with a patched-up back field as a result of the casualties of pre-season practice.

SOCCER MEETING DELAYED.

The meeting of the Washington and Southeastern District Soccer Association has been postponed until tomorrow night. The meeting, which is open to all soccer enthusiasts, will be held in the board room of the District Building, instead of the playground office, as originally planned.

ST. STEPHEN'S DRILL.

Tuning up for their game Sunday against Palace, the St. Stephen's eleven will practice tonight at 7:30 o'clock on the Monument Grounds. The following men are asked to report: Crouch, Simmons, Moxely and the Joseph brothers. Uniforms will be issued at the clubhouse, 2422 K street, before the drill.

LANDIS FINES TEAMS.

Chicago, Sept. 21 (A.P.).—Baseball Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis today levied fines on the Newark, N. J., and Youngstown, Ohio, Clubs for failure to file transfer agreements with his office. He fined Newark $150 and Youngstown $100.

SEEK GRID PLAYERS.

The Washington Robins eleven, which will join the Capital City Grid League, is looking for players ranging from 135 to 140 pounds. Call Manager Evry, Lincoln 1320.

CHEVY CHASE READY.

Games with strong teams are wanted by the crack Chevy Chase Grays, who have been spilling the best clubs in this section. They have Saturday and Sunday open. Call Wisconsin 2478.

C. U. MENTOR WILL START D'MELLO

Campbell Forced to Quit; Team Drills in Secret

SECRECY was the watchword yesterday as Catholic University's football men spurted through a lively afternoon practice period in the Brookland bowl. Behind closed gates, Athletic Director Bergman directed his squadron through an exceptionally strenuous session.

Perspiring freely and apparently willing to call it a day, the athletes filed wearily, but none the less enthusiastically, into the locker room shortly before twilight.

De Mello to Start In Backfield.

Among other details settled during that workout was the definite placing of Carl DeMello, diminutive half back, in the starting back field that is to oppose Boston College Saturday. DeMello, a half back, will run the ball and also do some of the punting.

After a valiant fight, Half Back Tom Campbell, who has been drilling despite a fractured finger on his left hand, temporarily was forced to call it quits yesterday. The game youngster checked in with a badly wrenched left knee that failed to respond to the treatment of Trainer Louis Brunelle.

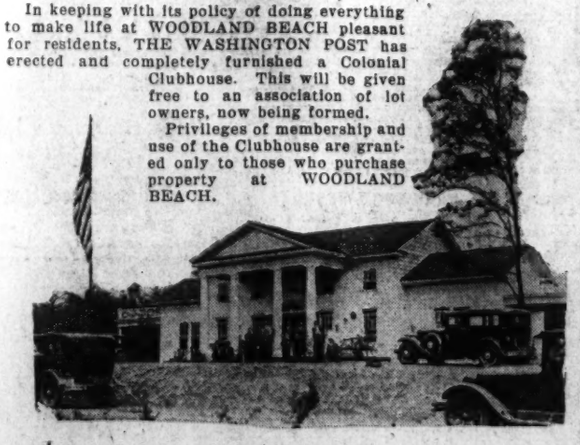
BY buying a lot at WOODLAND BEACH you can have your own summer home at a resort which offers everything to be found at the most expensive summer places. Think of it! A place to send your wife and children away from the heat and dirt of the city and enjoy all the healthful recreations and sports which WOODLAND BEACH offers. Can you afford to miss this unusual opportunity?

THE WASHINGTON POST feels that in offering WOODLAND BEACH to its present and future readers it is rendering them a real service. It is giving them an opportunity to establish a permanent summer home at the lowest possible cost.

WOODLAND BEACH is one of the beauty spots of this section of the country. It is located on two beautiful coves of the famous South River, an arm of Chesapeake Bay, and is easily and quickly reached by road from Washington and Baltimore.

In keeping with its policy of doing everything to make life at WOODLAND BEACH pleasant for residents, THE WASHINGTON POST has erected and completely furnished a Colonial Clubhouse. This will be given free to an association of lot owners, now being formed.

Privileges of membership and use of the Clubhouse are granted only to those who purchase property at WOODLAND BEACH.



How to Get There

WOODLAND BEACH is only 32 miles from Washington and 30 from Baltimore. It is reached from Washington via the Defense Highway (U. S. No. 50) to Camp Parole, then south across South River Bridge to Mayo Road, then follow signs direct to property.

WOODLAND BEACH BUS

Washington, Marlboro and Annapolis Bus to Woodland Beach leaves 11th and Pa. Ave. N.W. at 9 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. Returns 4:30 p. m. Fare $1.10 each way.

SCHENK BACK, WAITS CALL AS WITNESS BY STAPLES QUIZ BOARD

Former Policeman Here on Second Journey From Leavenworth.

FIVE ACCEPT PLACES TO CONDUCT HEARING

Grand Jury Report Expected Tomorrow to Accuse Others of Beating.

A second trip from Leavenworth Penitentiary has been made by Frederick A. Schenk, former Washington policeman, whose letter to Representative Blanton, of Texas, and testimony before the District grand jury precipitated the muddled situation in the Orville Staples "framing case."

Schenk was brought again to Washington to testify before the special investigative board of five attorneys appointed by the District Commissioners to sift charges that Staples had been "framed" by higher-ups in the Police Department when he was ousted after a police trial board hearing.

The special board will desire to hear Schenk's testimony at first hand because otherwise it might be difficult to get the direct testimony given before the grand jury. The Department of Justice is believed to have arranged the prisoner's second trip to the Capital. Schenk is being held at the District Jail, awaiting his call to talk before the special board.

Trial Board Is Named.

As this angle was developing in the Staples case yesterday, District Commissioners gave out the names of the five men who have been selected for the citizens trial board, which will act on any charges preferred by the attorneys after their special investigation.

The men named to this body, selected from a large number of representative citizens, are William Knowles Cooper, William H. Lewis, jr., Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin, Dr. Charles B. Neill and Rabbi Abram Simon.

The Commissioners explained that the men were named alphabetically and would select their own chairman. Members of the board will receive a small compensation, probably $1 a week, in order to satisfy the requirements of the law.

William Knowles Cooper is former general secretary of the Washington Y. M. C. A. and is now an investment dealer with Crane, Parris & Co.

Two Educators Included.

Dr. Cloyd Heck Marvin is president of George Washington University.

Dr. Charles P. Neill is also a educator, professor of political economy at Catholic University.

Rabbi Abram Simon is head of the Washington Hebrew Congregation and a member of the Board of Education.

"At the request of the Commissioners, the presidents of the Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, Merchants and Manufacturers Association, Federation of Citizens Associations and Federation of Civic Associations furnished the Commissioners with a list of somewhat over 40 names of persons of unquestioned standing in the District of Columbia and from whom the Commissioners could choose five men to sit as a Police Trial Board, should one be required to hear any cases based on the recent grand jury report," a statement issued by the Commissioners yesterday said.

Bias to be Avoided.

After going over the names carefully the five were selected, the statement declared:

"All of these gentlemen have accepted the invitation solely because of their interest in the District of Columbia and their willingness to aid in a public service. None of them is in any way associated with police affairs and all are outstanding citizens whose standing in the community and whose integrity insure a verdict which the Commissioners believe will be accepted as free from any bias," it concluded.

After several days and nights of hard work, District building stenographers yesterday completed five copies of transcripts of testimony taken before the Police Trial Board, which heard the Staples case. The special board of attorneys was furnished five copies of the transcript yesterday.

Twenty-two District employes, who worked overtime Friday night, Saturday afternoon and Sunday so that the special civilian board of five should have copies of the record of the trial of former policeman Orville Staples before the Police Trial Board will be repaid with extra leave equal to their overtime work.

Report Expected Tomorrow.

This was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners at the same time they thanked the men and women stenographers, typists and clerks who copied the record.

No new developments are expected in the investigation of third degree practices in the Police Department before tomorrow when the grand jury returns its report on whatever indictments it may have.

Indications are that about fifteen policemen will be indicted on charges of assault in connection with brutality charges. Five were indicted previously and are awaiting trial at October term of District Supreme Court.

The District Commissioners are still awaiting the special report of J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation of the Department of Justice, concerning facts uncovered by his department in the long investigation.

Administration Blamed For Broken Promises

Frank B. Lord, newspaperman, was the principal speaker last night at a meeting of the District of Columbia Women's Democratic Educational Council, held at the Hay-Adams House, Sixteenth and H streets northwest.

In his address Mr. Lord condemned the policy of the present administration. He declared that 9% promise of national prosperity has failed to materialize. The Hawley-Smoot tariff, he said, had destroyed foreign trade.

FIVE WILL CONDUCT STAPLES HEARING

DEAD HOTEL GUEST FORMER RESIDENT

Man Tentatively Identified Here as E. L. Gunnell, of East Point, Ga.

Part of the mystery which surrounds the finding of a body in the rear of the Allies Hotel, 482 Pennsylvania avenue northwest, Sunday night, was lifted yesterday when police tentatively identified the victim as E. L. Gunnell, of East Point, Ga., a former resident of this city.

This information was gained after headquarters investigators, discovering in the dead man's effects a receipt for automobile repair work by a Meridian, Miss., garage, learned that the job had been done for Gunnell and that he was missing from his home in East Point. His stepfather is W. O. MacKenzie, a deputy sheriff of Fulton County, in which East Point is located.

License plates on the automobile, found parked in front of the hotel after the guest's body was discovered below a third floor fire escape, were issued to Miss Mildred E. Felix, of Atlanta, Ga., the Associated Press learned yesterday.

Telephone and city directories of the Georgia capital listed no such name, and officials in charge of the Atlanta office building, which she gave as her address in applying for the license, declared they did not know her.

The Dobbs Tire Co., of Atlanta, likewise was unable to identify the name of E. J. Janes, under which the man registered at the Allies Hotel several hours before his death. Two cards which were found in his pockets bore the name William M. Todd, Dobbs Tire Co.

The theory that the victim was E. L. Gunnell is bolstered by the fact that the initial "G" was on his belt buckle. His body remains at the Morgue, awaiting a claimant.

Builders to Seek Ways To Speed Prosperity

Practical ways and means by which the construction industry may be utilized to lead the country out of the present economic depression and afford relief to the unemployment situation will be subjects for major consideration at the fall meeting of the governing board of the Associated General Contractors of America here September 30 and October 1, according to Edward J. Harding, managing director of the association.

The board, headed by President A. P. Greensfelder, of St. Louis, and composed of construction leaders from every section of the country, will have laid before it the reports and recommendations of its various technical committees as to what steps the industry itself may take to improve conditions by means of better financing methods, more wholesome competition, elimination of waste and in pointing out advantageous fields for the development of new construction to relieve unemployment.

Suicide Pair Wills Estate To Children

Two days before they carried out a suicide pact, Serge N. Petrenko, Bureau of Standards scientist, and his wife, Mary, a Russian translator in the Department of Agriculture, drew up their wills, it was shown yesterday when the documents were filed for probate in the District Supreme Court. At the time the wills were being devised, the couple evidently did not expect to include their young son, Vadim, in the pact, for provisions were made in the testament for him.

Petrenko's will provides that in the event his wife survived him, she should obtain all the estate. In return, her will stipulated that, if she alone were to die, all should go to her husband. Their wills then commonly set forth that if both should die, all the estate was to go to Ariadana S. Petrenko, eldest daughter, who was was requested to care for her two brothers, Eugene and Vadim, who was found dead with his parents in their home at 4812 Forty-first street northwest, on the afternoon of the seventeenth.

Col. Alexander Krynitzky, 1119 Sixteenth street northwest, a Russian compatriot with Petrenko, is named as executor of the will. Attorney Stanley D. Willis drew up the two documents, which were found in a safety deposit box at the Friendship branch of the Riggs National Bank.

Staples and Allen To Speak at Forum

Former District Policemen Assail Third Degree and Brutality.

"The Third Degree and Police Brutality" will be the subject of the opening meeting of the season on the schedule of the Washington Open Forum Saturday evening, October 4, with Orville J. Staples and Robert J. Allen, former policemen and foes of many prevailing policies in police administration, as the speakers. This was announced yesterday by the president of the forum, Linn A. E. Gale.

The hall in which the Staples-Allen and other lectures will be delivered is yet to be decided upon and will be made known in a few days.

Speakers in October, aside from the two former policemen, will be: October 11, Warren B. Strong, "What I Saw in Soviet Russia"; October 18, debate, "Will Religion Ever Disappear?" between Morris Talpalar, for the affirmative, and the Rev. Charles D. Brewington, for the negative; October 25, "Who Are the Real Insane?" John A. Savage, president of the American Equity Association. On the first of November, William R. Bullion, president of the National Association Opposed to Blue Laws, will lecture on liberalism in legislation.

CURTIS OPENS RADIO AND ELECTRIC SHOW

Televox, Thyratone Organ Among Features to Be on Display This Week.

Lauding members of the Washington Electric League as "men of vision," who are "setting an example of enterprise which others may well follow," Vice President Charles Curtis last night opened the Radio and Electric Show, which is being given by the league at the Auditorium.

In addition to the Vice President, other features of the show last night were an exhibition of televox, the electric man, and music and comedy skits by radio artists. A number of scientific curiosities, some of which are being developed commercially, were also shown at the numerous booths taken by electrical manufacturers.

The show is "the National Capital's answer to America's call for action on the part of its business men," the Vice President said. The men behind the show "are not talking of the depression, they are trying to forget it and are making every effort to prove that industry in general can do much to restore confidence and greatly improve conditions," he continued.

Among the commercial exhibits which will be on display this week is a combined radio, phonograph and machine for showing both silent and talking pictures. This is the first time this has been shown.

In addition to televox, the electrical machine which lights lamps, turns on switches and blows a horn in response to notes of a whistle, there is also a machine which sorts black balls from white ones by means of their color. The Thyratone organ, which derives musical tones from vacuum tubes and is tuned by rheostats, is also on display. One of the featured performers is Dr. John B. Taylor, from the Electrical House of Magic. Dr. Taylor shows how music may be carried on a beam of light, and makes sound visible.

Raymond Knight, the radio announcer, was master of ceremonies at the stage show last night. Other artists who performed for a crowd of about 2,000 persons were Mary McCoy, the Russian Cathedral quartet, Elsie Mae Gordon, and Walter Preston. These are all NBC performers, and much of the program, including the speech by the Vice President, was broadcast. The music was furnished by Leon Brusiloff and his orchestra.

Raid Yields Still With Rum Supply

Finding 150-Gallon Plant Here Follows Arrest of Truck Driver.

Police yesterday followed up the arrest of a truck driver, said to have been transporting 66 gallons of liquor, with a raid on his alleged source of supply, where they seized a 150-gallon active still, 46 barrels of mash, a small quantity of alleged whisky and other paraphernalia.

As a result, Joseph Cittidino, 32, is charged with illegal possession and manufacture of intoxicants. He gave 713 Massachusetts avenue northwest as his address.

Shortly after Cittidino was taken in custody near Fifth and H streets northwest, police and prohibition agents went to 1326 Twelfth street northwest, where they seized the still. The raiders said the plant was still warm, and they seized three and one-half gallons of alleged liquor which they say had just been manufactured.

Rum Raid Is Fruitless But Five Men Are Held

Although police of the Headquarters Vice Squad failed to find any intoxicants when they raided an establishment on Vermont avenue, opposite the United States Veterans' Bureau, yesterday afternoon, five men were charged with illegal possession.

The raiding party, headed by Sergt. N. O. Holmes, entered the place with a search warrant.

Those arrested were Patrick J. Ahearn, 27 years old, alleged proprietor of the place; John S. Peyton, 29 years old, of 223 B street northeast; Lester B. Simmons, 24 years old, of 1900 F street northwest; Henry W. Wood, 27 years old, of the Vermont avenue address, and Joseph Hall, colored, 27 years old, of 1109 Q street northwest.

Justice Letts Heard As Law School Opens

The Washington College of Law formally opened its thirty-sixth fall season last night with ceremonies at the institution, 2000 G street northwest. Associate Justice F. Dickinson Letts, of the District Supreme Court, was the principal speaker.

Edwin C. Dutton, president of Washington College, presided over the meeting. Mrs. Grace Hays Riley, dean, introduced Justice Letts and the other speakers. For the ensuing year, 350 are enrolled.

AMERICA IS GIVING AWAY BIRTHRIGHT, R. C. WHITE HOLDS

Labor Official, Addressing Daughters of America, Asks Stronger Alien Laws.

REELECTION OF HOOVER IS URGED AT BANQUET

America has been "giving away her birthright," Assistant Secretary of Labor Robe Carl White declared yesterday in an appeal for stronger naturalization laws, before the annual convention of the State Council of the District of Columbia, Daughters of America, at the Mayflower Hotel.

The Labor Department official outlined activities of the border patrol in redistricting alien smuggling from Mexico, and told of efforts to raise present immigration barriers. He said citizenship "is the most precious thing America has to give."

An appeal for the reelection of Herbert Hoover was made at a banquet of the organization last night by National Councilor Hattie Ven Buren, who paraded "The Sidewalks of New York," as a Hoover campaign song. A response was made by State Councilor Ethel E. Burroughs, while National Councilor Naomi Swann presided as toastmaster.

The following nominations to offices which will be filled today by election were made at yesterday's business session: State councilor, Mrs. Mabel Downing; associate State councilor, Mrs. Emma Brooks; State vice councilor, Mrs. Belle Gibson; associate State vice councilor, Mrs. Helen Luckett; State warden, Mrs. Ollie Montgomery; State conductor, Mrs. Ella Stone; State secretary, Charles H. Miller; State treasurer, Mrs. Mildred Rock, Mrs. Florence Campbell and Mrs. Grace M. Rickett; State inner sentinel, Mrs. Deborah Streitberger; State outside sentinel, Mrs. Rose Wells and Mrs. Clara Nace; trustee, Mrs. Viola Frazier; judiciary, C. O. Bohrer and Mrs. Flora Reagan.

Memorial services were held yesterday for the late past State councilors, Mrs. Grace M. Lowry and Mrs. Ella Herbert. Election of officers will be at today's business session, and class initiation and installation of officers will be tonight at the Mayflower.

Piracy Advanced As Death Theory

Authorities Think Man Found in Bay Was Slain and Robbed on Yacht.

A theory that pirates, posing as friends of the elderly man whose body was found floating in Chesapeake Bay last week by a power boat captain, killed him for his money and threw him from a seagoing yacht, was advanced by St. Marys County authorities last night.

No progress has been made in efforts to identify the dead man, whose watch bore the initials J. H. S.

In substantiation of the new theory, Harry Hoke, proprietor of a resort at Point Lookout, where the man's body was brought, said the man seemed to have been prosperous and cultured. He expressed belief that the dead man had been a member of a party aboard a pleasure yacht making its way leisurely from some point on the north Atlantic coast, possibly New York. A map of directions for navigation between New York and Florida was on the man's person and Hoke adduced from this that the death craft was en route to the southern coast of the United States.

Theft of Milk Brings One-Year Jail Term

One quart of milk will cost Benjamin Owens, Negro, one year of his freedom, Judge Gus A. Schuldt ruled in Police Court yesterday when Owens was found guilty of the theft of the quart bottle.

Joe Herins, milk wagon driver, caught the Negro taking a quart of milk from in front of a house on C street southwest. He held the man until Policeman F. C. White, of the Fourth Precinct, came along and arrested him. White testified that Owens admitted taking the milk. A long previous record cost Owens his chance of a light penalty.

Husband Asks Control Of $150,000 Estate

David F. McConnaughey, husband of Anna L. McConnaughey, who died at Rockport, Me., August 21, yesterday asked the District Supreme Court to appoint a m administrator of her estate, a search having failed to reveal a will.

Mrs. McConnaughey owned no real estate, but she had securities valued at $150,000, cash of $600 and personal effects valued at $500. Mrs. McConnaughey is also survived by a sister, Louise M. Roth.

Pierce Hall Group Plans Three Plays

One-Act Presentations to Be Staged in November; Committees Named.

The Pierce Hall Players will present three one-act plays in November, according to plans decided upon at the group's first meeting this season, at the Unitarian Church, Sixteenth and Harvard streets northwest.

One of the plays will be cast entirely from persons who have never acted before, Chairman William G. Eliot 3d, announced. The names of the plays, dates for tryouts and directors will be announced later.

Chairmen of the committees appointed to arrange the presentations are, staging, K. Hilding Beij; membership, Betty Johnson; music, Mrs. H. L. Knight; dance, Kathryn Dunkhorst; membership, Mabel Van Dyke, and costuming, Alice W. Cushman Laurence C. Staples will be in charge of the October 11 inaugural meeting.

Paroled Man Must Get Job Or Be Sent Back to Prison

Conviction as Bank Robber Apparently Dissuades Prospective Employers From Giving Him New Chance; Was Formerly U. S. Government Worker.

How would you like to face a situation like this: To have to get a job within a week or go to prison for five years? That is almost exactly the dilemma in which No. 10078 (only that isn't his real number), formerly of a Western penitentiary finds himself.

No. 10078 has served nine years of a 15-year term for bank robbery. He was paroled in May and has been diligently searching for work since. He hasn't found any. The brand of the prison bars him. The funds with which he left prison are almost exhausted and unless he finds work before his money is gone he will have to go back to prison. The parole board will not permit him to remain at large without some means of support.

No. 10078 came to Washington hoping he might find work with the Government, having served with the United States Geodetic Survey and with the Hydrographic Office in the Navy Department. But now the fact that he has been convicted of a felony bars him from Government work.

His parole forbids him from leaving the District of Columbia, since he told the Pardon Board that he thought he could get work here.

"I have been to almost a thousand places here," No. 10078 told a Post reporter, "and have had three or four offers of work, but the minute I tell them about this parole, all bets are off."

No. 10078 is far above the average in intelligence. In prison he taught classes in mathematics, navigation and nautical astronomy. He is 39 years old, but looks five years younger. He is clean cut, very presentable and an interesting conversationalist.

No. 10078 has learned a lesson. He wants no charity, no philanthropy.

He wants only to a find an employer somewhere who will give him a chance to make good,—an employer who doesn't believe that a prison sentence bars a man forever from making good in the outer world.

PLANS FOR CLOISTER AT CATHEDRAL FILED

Unit, to Cost $90,000, to Aid Unemployment Situation; Funds Are Donated.

Plans for the building of a $90,000 cloister at Washington Cathedral, on which work is intended to be started as soon as possible, were filed yesterday at the District Building.

The new unit of the growing edifice on Mount Saint Albans will be known as the east cloister and will be the first of three to be built. The other two will be on the north and west.

Cathedral officials said that although it had not been panned to proceed with work on the cloister at this time, they had decided to push the work through in order to relieve, to that extent, the unemployment problem. A contribution covering the cost of the work was given some time ago by an anonymous donor.

The east cloister will connect the Cathedral with the administration building and chapter house, which have not yet been built, and the College of Preachers, which has been completed. A direct connection will be made with the administration building and the two other buildings will connect with this latter.

The cloister will consist of two stories of vaulted passageways 100 feet in length, spaced with Gothic windows and built of limestone, opening onto a Gothic garden, the entire development to be in keeping with the design of the rest of the Cathedral. Building of the new unit will not interfere with construction of the north and south transepts of the Cathedral, which is now in progress.

Jeweler Robbed Of $1,500 in Gems

Jewelry valued at $1,500 was stolen from a desk drawer of a jewelry store at 1417 G street northwest between Saturday and yesterday morning, according to Lee Manchell, manager of the store.

According to the police, Mr. Manchell suspects a white man and his wife who worked in the store for three days and failed to return to work yesterday. The loot consisted of six diamond rings and three ladies' watches.

Th home of Dr. Robert S. Beale, at 1318 Nineteenth street northwest, was entered through a second-story window some time last week and jewelry valued at $186 was stolen. According to the police the rear window on the second floor was jimmied for entrance. No one is suspected.

Massachusetts Avenue Liquor Raid Nets 2 Men

Two men were arrested and a quantity of alleged liquor seized last night when a headquarters squad raided an apartment at 1402 Massachusetts avenue northwest. Charges of illegal possession were lodged against Gus Marcarelli, 27, and Stanley Egnick, 35.

Alleged intoxicants confiscated on the premises included 46 pints of whisky and three bottles of rum. Inspector Thaddeus A. Bean's squad conducted the raid.

METHODIST PASTOR FACES TRIAL TODAY

The trial of the Rev. William A. Shelton, pastor of Mount Vernon Place Methodist Episcopal Church South, on charges of an unrevealed nature by his former secretary starts in Alexandria this morning.

The defense in the hearing, it is reported, plans to start with an offensive against the charges, which were preferred by Miss Carry A. Williams, 5322 Forty-first street northwest. It is understood that the defense plans not only a refutation of the charges, but will seek to show that the minister has been made the victim of a deliberate plot.

The prosecution, it is said, will charge that the minister has been guilty of serious moral indiscretions.

Twelve persons from Atlanta, Ga., where Dr. Shelton formerly served a church, arrived in the city yesterday afternoon to appear as witnesses for the defense. They made the trip on their own volition, it is said.

Dr. W. A. Lambeth, who Dr. Shelton succeeded as pastor at Mount Vernon, may appear as a witness, it has been reported.

A jury of twelve prominent clergymen, chosen from various points in the South, will hear the case. Bishop E. D. Mouzon, the ecclesiastical head of this conference, will preside at the trial.

Justice Adkins Is Back After Busy Vacation

District Supreme Court Justice Jesse C. Adkins returned to the bench yesterday after his summer vacation. He will sit in all branches of the court until October 6, when the fall term of court begins and all the justices resume their seats.

Justice Adkins returned to Washington last week after addressing the members of the Bar Association of the United States in annual convention at Atlantic City. He spent a good deal of his vacation at the home of his son, Archibald Adkins, of Denver, Colo., who is an engineer in the reclamation service. After that, Mr. and Mrs Adkins went to the home of their daughter, Mrs. Sidney L. Eaton, whose husband is one of the masters of the Loomis School at Windsor, Conn.

Free Lance Group To Criticize Stories

Discussion of Markets to Follow Considerations of Manuscripts.

Short-story writing and criticism of manuscripts will feature bimonthly programs of the Free Lance Club this winter, its officials announced yesterday.

The plan, proposed by Felix Schwarz, calls for consideration of a single type of story, contributed by members, at each bimonthly meeting. Discussion of markets will follow constructive criticism of manuscripts.

Election of officers and talks by members will feature the next meeting of the club October 1, at 7:45 p. m. in the Thomson Community Center. A number of addresses by literary authorities are scheduled for the season.

DISTRICT CONSIDERS 5 STREET CHANGES AT PUBLIC HEARING

REALTY FIRM UNFOLDS PLAN OF DEVELOPMENT

Catholic Institutions Oppose Retaining Thoroughfares Not Cut Through.

Five changes in the highway plan of the District were considered at a public hearing yesterday by the District Commissioners. Two of the changes would prove of wide interest. One of these dealt with the area which has been purchased for use as an arboretum and the other in the territory lying between Queens Chapel road and Rhode Island avenue northeast.

Shannon & Luchs propose a development in the 200 acres between Rhode Island avenue and Queens Chapel road. They want the highway plan changed so that they can build large so-called community blocks cut by minor streets.

Plan Eleminates Streets.

All streets, with one exception, within the arboretum area, between Bladensburg road and the Eastern Branch, south of the National Training School for Boys, would be done away with under the proposal advanced by Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor.

Under Mr. Hazen's plan Oklahoma avenue would be connected with Maryland avenue along the west side of Anacostia Park and carried into Maryland to the Defense highway. The new plan would facilitate traffic into Maryland and enhance development of the arboretum acreage and was necessary for that project, it was said.

Various Catholic institutions, owning land south of Michigan avenue and east of Lincoln road, asked that all proposed intersecting streets be eliminated from the highway plan.

Want Streets Eliminated.

The streets are not now cut through, and the institutions believe that no harm will be done by eliminating the future possibility of streets which are not now a prospect of even several years in the future.

Miller Bros., a real estate firm, proposed that a change be made in the highway plan in the neighborhood of the Dalecarlia Reservoir. They are, company representatives said, planning a development south of Massachusetts avenue along the reservoir, and proposed that the contemplated streets follow the topography more closely.

Dr. Charles W. Richardson, residing at 2901 Grant road, asked the Commissioners to change the plan for the extension of Ellicott street. If the plan were followed without deviation, it was said, it would cut directly through his home.

30 Speeders Trapped By Maryland Police

The drive by Maryland State police on speeding on the Baltimore boulevard netted about 30 drivers over the week-end, and the crusade will be extended to those autoists who fail to obey the "keep to the right of the road" rules, it was said yesterday.

Washingtonians are the worst offenders on the speeding count, policemen said, and many of them were warned rather than arrested during the week-end drive. Particular attention will be paid to speeding cases until the number decreases, it was said. During the heavy traffic Sunday night on the new stretch through Elkridge six policemen were stationed on this road.

Halloween Plans Are Put in Motion

Federation Committees to Arrange Parade Are Named.

Definite plans for Washington's civic Halloween celebration were begun last night at a meeting of a committee appointed by the Federation of Citizens Associations to arrange for participation of the neighborhood organizations. W. A. Roberts is chairman of the general committee.

Work was divided and subcommittees appointed, with chairmen as follows: Joseph L. Gammell, coordination; L. S. Trundle, enlistment of associations to provide parade floats and costumed groups; Mrs. E. C. Rittue, participation of children, and W. I. Swanton, organization of parade.

The parade will occur on Pennsylvania avenue in the early evening and will be followed by street dancing and frolics in Constitution avenue.

Photographer Is Burned In Federal Building Fire

One man was injured and the loss of thousands of dollars' worth of films was narrowly averted when firemen extinguished a blaze which broke out on the sixth floor of a brick building housing a branch of the Bureau of Economics of the Department of Agriculture at 1358 B street southwest late yesterday afternoon.

Joseph C. Carter, 42, 1489 Meridian place northwest, a photographer, of the Department of Agriculture, was removed to Emergency Hospital by the Rescue Squad and treated for burns on the hand. His condition is said to be not serious. Damage was estimated at $100.

Loses $100 in Theft.

Samuel G. Allen reported to police that a sneak thief entered his filling station at 1735 Benning road yesterday morning and stole $132 contained in a box concealed behind a counter. He furnished the name of a former employe whom he suspects.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

TO THE DISCARDED BALL.

FAREWELL, oh, lighter ball!
Your life was tough;
You knew no life at all
Outside the rough;
You never got a break,
And felt the blame
For ev'ry pain and ache
Known to the game.

So long, oh, One-Six-Eight!
You never knew
A friend or golfing mate
Who'd root for you;
You bore each slur, each crack,
Each cold remark,
Endured the scowls so black
And oaths so dark.

You had no friends at all;
You drew no smile;
The dubs, where'er you'd fall,
Would but revile;
They'd boot you clumsily
All o'er the lot
And blame you scathingly
For scores not hot.

DOOMED were you from the start
Because, you know,
You called for skill apart
From mighty blow;
It was foretold of you
You'd get the air—
You were no answer to
A socker's prayer.

Distance is but their yen—
Two hundred yards—and then
A dozen putts!
You called for class and style
And artist's touch,
Well knowing all the while
This was too much.

You called for feeling and
A little grace—
A supple wrist and hand,
A sense of pace;
You were no grand delight
Of duffers all—
They had to hit you right
To score at all.

Libeled and slurred were you
From coast to coast;
Only in bitter brew
Was drunk your toast;
Blamed for all golfers' woes
By mighty vote,
All the plain facts disclose
You were a "goat."

Farewell, oh, lighter sphere!
'Tis just as well;
All your existence here
Was but a hell;
This I will swear, old ball,
Above your sighs,
You were the best of all
Golf alibis!

AND MAYBE SYMPATHY.

MR. HENRY L. DOUGHERTY, who bought a newspaper recently, has now bought a Florida hotel and a golf course. All he needs now is plenty of aspirin and shock absorbers all around.

* * * *

If we legalize the sale of beer it will give employment to millions of unemployed people, perhaps, but look at all the bootleggers that will be thrown out of work.

* * * *

Mayor Walker, as this department understands it, is coming to the United States because he has heard so much about it and has always wanted to visit it when he could spend a little time in New York.

CAN YOU REMEMBER—

Away back when the capture of those bandits who shot down babies in the streets of New York was promised within 48 hours, dead or alive?
